The Gold Comedy.
Earth's Ozone Armor.
Germany in the Air.
Intelligent Japan.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WE ABANDON the gold basis, as proudly as some little girl leaving the party and taking her dolls with her. Government said to citizens:

"You can't have any gold, so, if you have any, bring it to me."

The citizens brought it. An embargo was put on gold. What we had, a few thousand million dollars' worth, we would keep. What we did not have we did not need.

As the old Batavia farmer put it, we were as independent as a hog on the ice. If he could not stand up, he could sit down.

THEN WE changed our minds, decided that we did need gold, and ought to buy it, because such buying would knock down the price of our dollar, which persisted in staying up, and keeping products dear.

So we began buying gold, but only gold, brand new, mined in the United States. No buying gold from foreigners.

That lasted a few days. Now we are buying gold wherever we can get it, always with the understanding that it is too good to let common Americans have it.

AND, TO buy the gold in Europe, we must first purchase British exchange, pounds sterling. It seems our humble dollar is not good enough to pay for gold, but British paper money is all right, although Britain, also, is off the gold basis. And as our dollar drops, the pound rises. Read that riddle, please.

Sorry to bore you with so much gold talk, but this is amusing proof of the fact that nobody really knows anything about money, or gold, the United States government, perhaps, less than anybody else on earth.

INFORMATION that will be important as long as life exists on this planet comes from the Smithsonian Institution.

In our atmosphere, which is some five hundred miles deep, are various layers surrounding the globe and the most important, just discovered, is a "belt of ozone," only one-eighth of an inch thick, as important to your safety as the belt of armor plate around a battleship.

If that ozone belt, surrounding our earth, forty miles above the surface, should suddenly drift off into space, all life of the earth would end.

There are two kinds of ultra-violet rays, long and short. The former are deadly, and if they were not absorbed, neutralized id rendered harmless by that one belt, they would first ound and blister the human face, and soon destroy all earthly life.

The ozone belt allows short rays to come through while holding off the long rays and you may be thankful for that.

If the belt of ozone were ten times as thick as it is, namely, two and one-half inches in meter, it would shut off the rt as well as the long ultra- t rays and we should all of rickets. Short violet rays are necessary to life.

THE ONE-EIGHTH of an inch ozone armor plate, it should be understood, is expanded into a wider belt, but it would be only an eighth of an inch, if compressed.

This arrangement of the ozone belt shutting out death and letting through life might disturb opinions of those who believe that "everything happens accidentally," or as one put it, "that the universe is a fortuitous concourse of atoms," and that there is no "supreme intelligence" looking after this world and the welfare of two-legged little microbes running up and down and inside their ozone jacket.

HERR SPANKNOEBEL, leaving the United States, says he goes "because he could not get a fair trial before Jewish judges." This statement he made in a letter pushed under the door of a friend.

More important German news, and glorious for Germany, is the majestic homeward trip of the big Zeppelin from Chicago. She will be passing over Spain or landing near Berlin as you read this, having sailed around one or two dangerous storms.

They don't put him on board a floating ship somewhere and put in a greenhorn to wreck the dirigible. That display of intelligence is left to the United States.

NOT CONTENT with the Zeppelin triumph, Germany continues the development of heaver-than-air craft.

A German pilot, Robert Untucht, on his way from Europe to South America, will find the German steamer, Westfalen, out in the Atlantic, half way between Africa and South America.

The Westfalen will catapult an airplane into the air and Untucht will get a fresh supply of gasoline from that obliging plane, and continue on his way to South America.

What flying especially needs, and you might invent it, is a concentrated lightweight fuel, taking up little space. Some day wireless transmission of power will settle the problem. Meanwhile the big oil companies might develop the condensed fuel.

WHILE BUSY with China, Manchukuo, the League of Nations and menacing Russia, Japan continues to prove that she knows more about some things than the proud western whites know.

Mexico asked for bids on twenty-five thousand tons of iron pipe, with thin walls. The contract did not go to Britain, mother of steel on a big scale, or to our own "big steel" that

FLYING BONUS FOES BARRED FROM AIRPORT

U. S. TO POLL MINERS ON UNION

Election to Be Held By Labor Board After Peace Reigns

JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—President Roosevelt today laid the agreement between steel corporation owners of the captive coal mines and the coal miners of the nation in their laps—and considered the negotiations closed.

Any further dispute of terms of the agreement, which he consummated yesterday between the steel barons and the United Mine Workers, will go to the National Labor Board.

The steel heads granted a voluntary checkoff, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, said it was satisfactory.

RATES IN EFFECT

Guarantees to meet the representatives of the men in collective bargaining was included in the Presidential agreement. And until formal contracts between the captive mine owners and representatives of the miners are negotiated, the terms of the Appalachian agreement under which commercial mines are operating will be in effect.

The agreement was consummated late yesterday after Myron C. Taylor, head of the United States Steel Corporation, and attorneys of the American Iron and Steel Institute conferred at the White House.

It stipulated that formal agreements be made with the representatives of the employes and the operators, after work in the mines had normally resumed, and an election is held under the exclusive direction of the National Labor Board.

ELECTION TERMS

It specifies that such representatives may or may not be officers of the United Mine Workers or members of any labor organization.

Both parties agree to abide by decision of the National Labor Board in disputes.

The agreement was a development of the original negotiations submitted by Nathan L. Miller, counsel for the Iron and Steel Institute three weeks ago. In a letter to the President, Miller offered a "qualified checkoff" in which the company deducts from miners pay envelopes union dues, after they submit written authorization.

The conference yesterday developed the remaining terms.

Einstein Drops Lease And Gets Better One

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Prof. Albert Einstein, noted German scientist, and Frau Einstein, have moved, forsaking the inn where they have been living for the past 10 days for a permanent residence at 2 Library place.

A house at 11 Cleveland place was first chosen for the professor, but he was reported dissatisfied with the lease there, and found himself another house.

HenryFord Yields to NRA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce today was notified the Ford Motor Company would submit the wage and hours report required by the automobile code on November 6 or 7.

The announcement was made by Hugh S. Johnson after he had obtained from Alfred Reeves, vice president and general manager of the NACC a report on the intentions of all manufacturers in regard to submission of figures.

Last week the NRA executive had said in reply to newspapermen's questions that if Ford failed to submit the data required by the code he would turn the case over to the Attorney General.

Today's announcement did not single out the Ford company from the rest of the industry, merely giving a list of the firms which already have submitted figures with a second list, containing half the firms, giving the date on which they had informed Reeves the requested data would be provided.

One other manufacturer, Hupmobile, reported expectation that the figures would be turned in between November 6 and 10.

The Chevrolet firm set November 7. All the others expected to have their reports in before that time.

Today's evidence of compliance on the part of Ford with one requirement of the code did not settle the manufacturer's status in regard to government bids, since Johnson has raised the question of his willingnes sto deal collectively with his employes.

If the administration view of the question stands Ford will have to show evidence that he will comply with this major labor provision of the code before the government purchasing agent can consider his bids.

Definite evidence of compliance or non-compliance in this respect is looked for soon in connection with the Edgewater (N. J.) Ford strike.

RAIL JOBS SEEN FOR MILLS HERE

Steel men, while considering the steel rails to be ordered by the railroads in the "air" as yet, speculated today on how much of the order would come to the Edgar Thomson mill of the Carnegie Steel Company at Braddock.

The only other rail mill of the United States Steel Corporation is at Birmingham, Ala., and the two generally share alike in rail orders.

President Roosevelt yesterday agreed with Myron C. Taylor, head of the United States Steel, and others, including Railroad Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman, that the government would finance 900,000 tons of rail for the railroads if the steel companies agreed to a price of $36.375 a ton. The government would loan the railroads approximately $31,000,000, Associated Press dispatches say. The price was a compromise between $37.75 asked by the steel companies, and $35 proposed by the federal railroad co-ordinator.

Steel men agreed to the price. The next step is to have the railroads agree to the loan and order the rails.

MINE CHIEFS ORDER MEN TO WORK

Failure of Roosevelt Peace to Recognize Union Resented

The striking miners of Western Pennsylvania this afternoon were ordered back to work by officials of the United Mine Workers of America.

The order supplanted previous arrangements whereby the men were to vote on whether they would return.

It remains to be seen whether the Fayette insurgents, striking for outright recognition of the United Mine Workers, will obey these orders any more than they have in the past when they disagreed with their officials.

Earlier in the day, the leaders of the "captive" miners in Fayette County had expressed disappointment and resentment at the President's agreement with the steel companies operating the captive mines. Martin Ryan and other leaders predicted that the men would not return to work until full recognition of the United Mine Workers was in writing. This was before the United Mine Workers' officials sent out their instructions.

SIGN WORK ORDER

Signing the order to return to work were Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers' Union; James Mark, Frank Hughes, William Hynes, P. T. Fagan, president of Districts 2, 3, 4 and 5. Publication of the order followed a three-hour conference of these officials in the headquarters, Columbia Building, here.

Preceding the order itself, the statement explained that President Roosevelt had made the agreement with owners of the captive mines and that it formed the basis for possible future contracts with the United Mine Workers.

It added that the officers of local unions were to convene their men immediately to instruct the membership to return to work in accordance with the Presidential agreement.

The statement explained.

"The only opportunity the mine workers employed at captive mines have to secure a formal contract, with complete

$60,000 Gold Bars Seized on Street

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Robbers today seized three bars of gold worth about $60,000 from a delivery van on one of the city's business streets.

The bandits escaped in an automobile after a brief struggle with the youth who was in charge of the van during the driver's absence.

It was news today, for the first time during his and Mrs. Lindbergh's visit, the famous American airman sported a cap.

U. S. LOSES NEW INSULL BATTLE

International News Service.

ATHENS, Oct. 31.—Ruling Samuel Insull guilty of a wrongful act but declaring there was no proof of fraudulent intent, the Greek Court of Appeals today refused to extradite the former utilities magnate to Chicago to stand trial on charges of fraudulent bankruptcy.

The decision was rendered on an extradition application lodged by the United States government on the basis of an indictment returned by a federal grand jury in Chicago last August.

FRAUD CHARGED

The indictment charged Insull with fraudulently transferring assets of the Corporation Securities Company, causing a loss of millions of dollars to investors when his utilities empire collapsed.

The 2,000-word decision of the court was read in Greek by Judge Panegyrakis, court president, and then translated for Insull's benefit by his three defense attorneys, Christos Ladas, Pericles Rhallis and M. Lazarimos.

The white-haired ex-millionaire who will reach his seventy-fourth birthday next month, smiled broadly as his lawyers congratulated him and wrung his hand.

Insull then went up to Judge Panegyrakis and thanked him for his impartial hearing of the case. Insull said:

"I'm happy about this.

"It is a vindication not only for me but for my son and my brother.

"I extend my thanks to Greek justice."

Insull then returned to his hospital room. There Angelo Evert, Athens chief of detectives who originally arrested Insull a year ago, called and officially turned him free.

Insull immediately packed up his seven suitcases and moved into his old room at the Grande Bretagne Hotel, where he lived before his arrest. He asked to be left alone and retired for a rest.

Back to Democracy

DOES NOT THE ADMINISTRATION realize that business in very many instances is now on the back track in the United States?

Conditions improved considerably when the Democratic administration first came into power and began to apply the established policies of the Democratic platform.

The Democratic sumptuary legislation was helpful to recovery. It put men to work building and operating breweries, delivering and dispensing beer and manufacturing containers and accessories.

The farm relief program, enabling farmers to retain their farms, reducing the high interest of farm mortgages, and stimulating commodity prices, was helpful not only to the farmers but to general economic recovery.

The unemployment relief program was unfortunately not put into general operation, notwithstanding the vast sums made available by the Democratic Congress for this most beneficial of all recovery measures. Nevertheless, to the limited extent that it was in operation, it proved helpful.

THESE THREE distinctly Democratic policies, all propounded in the Democratic platform, resulted in a definite trend towards prosperity throughout the country.

Everybody thereupon became optimistic. The spirit of depression was dispelled.

The public was urged to "buy now," and the people, responding loyally, bought freely, anxious to help along, each to the extent of his ability, the movement towards economic recovery.

The shops found business reviving, and replenished their stocks by orders to the factories.

Both the shops and the factories hired additional employes, and the wheels of industry, so long static, began to hum again.

Then, when the Democratic Congress had adjourned, was introduced into this cheerful and stimulating situation a measure of absolute state socialism.

This measure was not only not Democratic; it was actually opposed to every fundamental conception of democracy and every principle of individual liberty on which democracy is based.

This measure proceeded to make a dictatorship of the administration by means of undemocratic powers conferred upon government.

It imposed upon industry, struggling towards recovery, shorter hours and higher pay and greater

COUNTY BANS ECONOMY ARMADA

BULLETIN.

The anti-bonus armada of autogyros landed at Bettis Field this afternoon. There was no disorder.

The use of the County Airport was denied today to an armada of autogyros campaigning against the proposed state soldiers' bonus.

A reception committee andn a squad of county police, on hand, by request, to protect the fliers from hecklers, were already at the County Airport when word came from the County Commissioners that the ships could not use the port.

So everybody moved over to Bettis Field, where four of the five gyros were awaited on their trip from Harrisburg.

The fifth ship cracked up while landing at the Duncanville Airport, near Altoona, this afternoon. Nobody was hurt, but three blades of the propeller were broken and the right wing badly damaged, the Associated Press reported.

The specific reason for the refusal to permit use of the county port was that the armada is flying banners criticizing the proposed bonus of $50,000,000 which will be voted on next Tuesday. The Commissioners apparenttly preferred a hands-off policy.

The police guard was requested ttoday of County Commissioner C. C. McGovern by Carleton Kettchum, of the National Economy League, which will entertain the fliers—this after the fliers, in their first stop yesterwday at Harrisburg, were heckled by a crowd of bonus proponents at the airport. In fact, they canceled an exhibition flight over Harrisburg.

"Patriotic veterans don't want a bonus."

HERRON REALTY WAR RAGES

The war of words between Mayor John S. Herron and Thomas J. Gallagher, Democratic nominee for Council, over a four-year-old real estate transaction in which Herron figured, grew in intensity today.

Gallagher came back with a reply to Mayor Herron's statement of last night, in which the Mayor characterized Gallagher's speech at Democratic headquarters as "vile innuendoes" and an attempt at "character assassination."

Gallagher said the Mayor's "explanation" failed to explain the circumstances of the purchase of property at Fifth and Hamilton avenues through a confidential aide of the Flinn interests at the time the Flinn group was accused of overcharging the city $1,000,000 on its garbage contract.

GALLAGHER REPLY

Gallagher, commenting on the Mayor's statement, said:

That nowhere in his explanation does Mayor Herron explain

Patrolman 'Bags' Pheasant Before Season Opens

Patrolman John Chandler had chalked up his first ring-necked pheasant today, one day ahead of the opening of the hunting season.

But he didn't shoot it. It flew against a building at 7701 Frankstown avenue yesterday and fell unconscious near where the officer stood. He picked it up and revived it with a cold water bath, placed it in a private coop at 816 Brushton avenue, and notified Game Protector Ralph A. Liphart, of Homestead.

The bird will be released as soon as it is able to fly.

Sewer Murder Girl Lies 'Nameless' Here

Parade to Morgue Fails to Assist Hunt for Killer

The parade of thousands of curious past the morgue slab on which lay the body of the brown-haired girl of 19 who was found murdered yesterday, continued today, but there was none to identify her.

None to supply the clue that might reveal whether she was a victim of a murder gang, or whether, perhaps, a jealous suitor had fired the shot that penetrated her left breast.

Open through the night, the morgue was visited at all hours by the curious. Nearby stood a county detective.

Today the parade continued. Morgue attaches estimated that several thousands have viewed the body—the largest crowd at the morgue since the slain Volpe brothers were exhibited.

Protected only by a cheap, torn muslin slip, the body was found in a storm sewer off the Allegheny

Do You Know Her?

A description of the slain mystery girl:

Fair complexion, probably bluish gray eyes; height, 5 feet 3 inches; weight, 140; age, 19; dark brown hair, cut in boyish bob. Appendix scar on body. Teeth in fair condition and short. Clothes: coarse, white muslin slip, pink bloomers. Finger ring of white mounting, with large red stone and two small white stones. A piece of string was wrapped around the ring, indicating it was too large for her finger.

Utilities Ownership Opposed by McNair

William N. McNair, Democratic candidate for Mayor, came out emphatically against public ownership of public utilities at the Hungry Club luncheon yesterday at the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Inadvertently, and through an error which it regrets, the Sun-Telegraph made it appear that Mr. McNair was for public ownership. This was directly contrary to the principle enunciated by Mr. McNair, whose unqualified statement left no doubt in any mind that he opposed public ownership.

Schoenberg Quits Germany for U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Arnold Schoenberg, noted musician and a self-styled exile from Germany, arrived today to make America his permanent home.

It is his first visit to America, but his compositions, ultra-modern, are well known in this country. The American premiere of his "Die Gluechliche Hand" was presented by Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra in 1931.

President to Carve Turkey in Georgia

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The presidential Thanksgiving turkey will be carved at Warm Springs, Ga. As has been his custom for several years, President Roosevelt will go to his Georgia home for the holidays. He will leave the capital November 17, to be gone two weeks.

TRYST AMBUSH FATAL TO WIFE

ROCHESTER, Pa., Oct. 31.—Death today sealed the lips of Mrs. Hilda Crawford, 33, with the name of the man to save whose life she gave her own, still unrevealed.

She died, too, absolving her husband, John M. Crawford, 50, who fired the fatal shot as she drove up to their Conway home with a stranger at 3 a. m. last Wednesday.

As her husband was about to shoot she leaped in front of him. The bullet intended for the man struck her.

Her last words in Rochester General Hospital were:

"My husband didn't mean to shoot me."

Crawford, a railroad telegrapher at Canton, O., had sent her a message he would not be home last Wednesday night. He later was able to come home by freight. He found his children at home, but his wife missing.

With his revolver he awaited her coming.

Crawford is held in the New Brighton Jail on a charge of felonious assault and battery. He told police his wife stepped into the line of fire.

Playboy 'Sobers Up' Leaves Hospital

Feeling fine and in the pink of condition, he said, Playboy Harrison R. McCready, is out of West Penn Hospital today—sobered up from his recent spree.

He was dismissed last night by his doctor. On November 20 he is to go into court to try to break a $150,000 trust fund set up for his first wife and child.

Ganna Here to Fix Roof, Not to Help Harold

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—"I come to America," Ganna Walska said firmly today, "because the roof is leaking."

The ship news men grouped on the Ile de France shook their heads badly. Was Madame positive? Certain that she hadn't come to help her divorced husheads sadly. Was Madame positive? Certain that she hadn't come to help her divorced husband? Certain there wasn't a romance somewhere? Madame insisted:

"It's like this. My lawyer and my maid cabled me in Paris that the roof of my house at Park avenue and Ninety-fourth street has sprung some leaks. So I came over to see about the matter. I'm just a plumber."

A reporter asked:

"How is it that such a beautiful woman remains single."

Madame exclaimed:

"Good heavens, man, I've only been divorced for a year!"

"Ah, you are disillusioned then?"

"Not at all."

"You still like Mr. McCormick?"

"Of course I do. It would be hard indeed to find a husband like Mr. McCormick."

About the breach of promise suit brought against her former husband by Mrs. Rhode Tanner Doubleday, she said:

"I heard about it. I'd be only too glad to help Mr. McCormick out, but I am sure he won't need me in this case."

Madame Walska was entered on the ship's books as Ganna Walska McCormick and she told immigration men that she is 42 years old. Maybe she will spend the winter here, maybe she won't. Depends largely on the leaky roof.

MINE LEADERS ORDER MEN TO WORK

Failure to Recognize Union Protested By Strikers

recognition of the union, is in their acceptance of this agreement.

"Immediately after your acceptance of the Presidential Agreement, and you return to work, local union meetings will be held and detailed explanations of the entire agreement will be given to the officers and members of local unions located at the captive mines."

And the notice concluded:

"Local unions are required to regard this communication as a definite, authentic order from the United Mine Workers of America."

Striking Miners Protest Peace Agreement

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 31.—President Roosevelt's peace pact with the nation's coal mine owners was not acceptable to the striking miners of this region, according to opinions expressed by leaders representing unionized groups here today.

Representatives of the Workmen's Brotherhood, group of employes of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, expressed themselves as "elated" over the presidential agreement. One of their spokesmen said:

"It certainly adds strength to the Brotherhood movement."

RYAN'S PROTEST

Martin Ryan, leader of Frick company miners, said:

"That's not an agreement. It's the same thing we had before we came out on strike. None of the Frick mines will resume work under such an agreement."

Sam Rhoades, leader of the Vesta Coal Company miners declared:

"I don't think much of that kind of an agreement. It doesn't give recognition to the United Mine Workers, for which we have been on strike and for which we asked the President on our trip to Washington last week. We have shown who we want to represent us by our strike. We have chosen the United Mine Workers under the rights given us by the NRA. I don't think the men will accept the agreement, although, we will put it to a vote of course."

The Vesta C Company is a subsidiary of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation. The Vesta mines employ about 6,000 men in Washington and Greene counties.

BOLT PREDICTED

Patsy Minerd, spokesman for two mines of the Republic Steel Corporation, said:

"There's nothing in this agreement about recognition of the United Mine Workers. We asked for the same rights given to the men in the commercial mines and we don't think we are asking too much. Our people will not go back to work under such an agreement."

More than 1,000 men are represented in two locals at Republic and Seward. Another Republic mine is located at Russellton, Allegheny County.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, who with his wife has been outspoken in his criticism of the steel companies operating mines, talked with Allegheny Cavalcante here by telephone today regarding the situation. Cavalcante said:

"The Governor did not comment on the agreement."

UNION 'SAVED'

Cavalcante explained the clause in the President's agreement which provides recognition to a "subordinate minority group" as a life saver to the United Mine Workers in mines where other groups are in the majority. He said:

"I will do everything in my power to convince the men that they should return to work under this agreement."

Of the Governor's attitude in case any of the captive mines should attempt to resume operations, Cavalcante said:

"I am sure the Governor will not knowingly assist any lawbreaker and if it is the law that those mines and those miners who wish to may return to work, the Governor will utilize his powers to maintain the peace."

State police have received no additional instructions [illegible] stationed at the captive mines, it was announced at the office of Superintendent [illegible]

More'n a Halloween Prank -:- By QUIN HALL

TEXT OF ROOSEVELT MINE PACT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The White House announcement on the "captive mines" agreement follows:

"Substantial agreement was reached today between the President, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and the 'captive' mine owners on the one hand and by the President, Gen. Johnson and the United Mine Workers on the other hand.

"This agreement provides a basis for the immediate re-employment of thousands of coal miners who are now idle if the following measures are put into effect:

"Every mine which has an outlet for its products should be reopened and employes working when the mine last operated put back to work without any discrimination as to membership in any labor organization.

"The check-off is conceded. A man may assign a deduction from his pay to whomever he desires.

"The existing Appalachian agreement between the commercial mine operators and the United Mines Workers will fix the hours, wages and working conditions under which the men will go back to work and this will be posted at every mine.

"A formal agreement which shall contain terms and conditions at least as favorable as the Appalachian agreement will be made between the captive mine operators and the representatives of their employes selected as follows:

"When after the opening of any mine, in the opinion of the National Labor Board orderly conditions have been restored and the protection of men working is assured, an election will be held under the exclusive regulation and direction of the National Labor Board and representatives will then be chosen for collective bargaining.

"Such representatives may or man not be members of any labor organization and any officer, national, state or local of the United Mine Workers of America may be elected, and if elected the operators agree to negotiate with him to a conclusion on the following principles:

"The representatives chosen by a majority call will be given an immediate conference and separate conferences will be held with any representatives of a substantial minority.

"If no agreement with the majority representatives is reached in ten days the controversy will be immediately submitted by both parties to the National Labor Board for decision and both parties will agree to abide by the decision.

J. V.'S DIVORCE DATA GUARDED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 31.—There is one document, locked in a safe in the Empire room of Josiah V. Thompson's mansion, which will not be offered to the crowds attending the auction of the Thompson antiques.

It is a transcript of the divorce testimony given when Josiah V. Thompson obtained freedom from his second wife, "Hunnie" Hawes.

Thompson handed "Hunnie" $1,000,000 when he divorced her and a half-dozen years later she died in the New York she so frequently visited during her marriage.

Pinchot Silent On Mine 'Peace'

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot had "no comment to make" today on the settlement of the bituminous coal strike in Western Pennsylvania as announced by federal authorities.

Fake Gold Stocks Flooding New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Aided by unwitting federal government propaganda, spurious gold mining stocks are flooding New York, Ambrose V. McCall, chief of the bureau of securities at the state attorney-general's office declared today.

Promoters of the fraudulent certificates are utilizing activities of the government in encouraging gold mining and offering premiums for new gold as attractive selling points, he said.

Wiggin Tax Returns Scrutinized by U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Officials of the Internal Revenue Department admitted today that their agents are studying the income tax returns during the last few years of Albert H. Wiggin, retired head of the Chase National Bank, whose finances caused a sensation when aired by Ferdinand Pecora before the Senate Banking Committee in Washington.

The officials were careful to state that no accusation had been brought against Wiggin, and that their inquiry was begun merely as a routine matter. Other high banking figures, who have been under the senatorial spotlight, have been investigated similarly.

Miss Perkins Predicts Industrial Peace

[illegible] WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—A program of industrial peace may be [illegible] the NRA codes, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins predicted today if employers and workers cooperate.

"[illegible] industrial peace is possible if employers and workers [illegible] the spirit of the [illegible] with the [illegible] with their problems rather than [illegible] common [illegible] to face long [illegible] guided [illegible] reasonable manner."

She pointed out that industrial [illegible] declined in May, [illegible] strikes have been fewer and less severe in the six months ending with September than in the corresponding period in 1921.

Miss Perkins said that April and May in 1921 registered the high industrial [illegible] mark. There were 392 strikes and lockouts in April and 475 in May that year, with an estimate of 179,872 workers involved in April and 354,200 in May. April this year saw only [illegible] strikes with 23,675 workers out, while 133, affecting 41,652 were [illegible] in May.

GOLD SLUMPS ABROAD AS U. S. TILTS PRICE

R. F. C. Bids Up Metal To Another New High

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The world price of gold abruptly slumped today in spite of President Roosevelt's announced intention of buying the metal in foreign markets, but nevertheless, the domestic price the RFC will buy was advanced to another new high.

White awaiting assurances from London that Mr. Roosevelt's approaching operations would not arouse retaliatory action and precipitate a monetary war, the administration set a price for the day of $32.12 for the yellow metal when fresh from domestic mines.

By contrast, yesterday's price was $31.96 against a world price of $31.05.

Today's world price, converted into dollars at $4.75½ to the pound, the opening exchange rate, was $1.07 less than the domestic quotation.

The dollar strengthened today as against both the pound and the franc.

The gold price announced daily at the Treasury has crept constantly upward since the first figure of $31.36 was established last Wednesday.

Once before, the world quotation moved downward; but, as today, the domestic quotation was pushed higher regardless.

Making preparations for the first gold purchases abroad, officials hopefully awaited word from London that the British were taking the maneuver in the spirit in which it had been explained to them.

They had been told that the foreign purchases were purely a matter of domestic policy.

DETROIT STRIKE PICKETS QUIET

DETROIT, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Demonstrators, numbered by police at 2,000, appeared before the plant of the East Side Gear and Tool Company today, bearing placards identifying them with the strike of tool and diemakers, and marched in an orderly demonstration about the plant while more than a score of police stood by.

The demonstrators gave no evidence of disorder, in contrast to rioting yesterday by demonstrators at the same plant as well as at six others in the manufacturing district.

PROBE BARES WIGGIN POOL PROFITS

Banker Admits Firms Formed to Escape Income Tax

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—A search of Albert Wiggin's personal records disclosed to Senate investigators today the formation of a series of corporations in the United States and Canada to escape taxes, loans by the companies to bank officers and a gigantic underwriting account that netted participants $12,000,000.

The profitable underwriting project was managed in 1929 by Arthur Cutten, noted Chicago trader, and other participants included Harry F. Sinclair and Wiggin's personal corporation, it was testified.

LINKS BANK OFFICERS

Wiggin, slumped down in his chair at the long committee table, frankly testified the object of forming three personal companies in Canada in addition to his domestic companies was to cut down his income tax, but said he did not know whether the plan had succeeded.

The former chairman of Chase National Bank listed about a dozen officers of the bank and its security affiliate, who were directors of one or more of his personal corporations, including Gates W. McGarrah, then chairman of the New York Federal Reserve Bank and a former director of the Bank for International Settlements.

Several officers and directors of the bank were shown to have been deeply indebted to Wiggin's personal companies at the end of 1932 when he retired with a $100,000 a year salary for life. He relinquished his salary, however, a few d[illegible] it was brought out by th[illegible] committee.

TEL[illegible]ES

As [illegible]mittee dug deeply into the operations of his personal corporations, Wiggin read a prepared statement saying his companies had a net loss of more than $5,000,000 from participating in syndicates with the Chase Securities Corporation since 1917.

Wiggin could give little information about the underwriting syndicate managed by Cutten and the profit figures were placed in the record by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel.

Although Pecora said his personal corporation made profits of $877,000, Wiggin said he only had a "vague recollection" of the operations.

HARD COAL MINE STRIKE DELAYED

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—A general strike of miners in the "upper" hard coal region is threatened by the recently organized Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania unless federal, state and municipal authorities accept a second invitation to discuss existing grievances.

Rinaldo Cappelini, president of the organization, told the convention the officials invited were Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator; Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board; Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor; Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Judge William S. McLean, chairman of the local NRA compliance board, and Mayor Charles N. Loveland.

Cappellini averted action yesterday on the strike call, demands for which had gained volume among the delegates because a previous invitation to officials had not been accepted.

Gov. Pinchot Spurns Anthracite Parley

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today declined a second invitation to attend a coal conference called by the Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania at Wilkes-Barre.

Gov. Pinchot had been invited to the convention so that he could outline his views on the conditions existing in the anthracite region where mine union warfare has disrupted mining operations for several weeks.

Polish Miners Agree to End Hunger Strike

WARSAW, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Mine owners agreed today to hunger striking miners' demands against labor cuts, and 96 miners, underground at Borysław since Saturday, agreed to return to the surface.

Polish authorities made vigorous representations to both sides to settle the dispute.

in the good old days, all by itself, produced steel tonnage greater than that of any European nation.

Japan won the contract and will ship twenty-five thousand tons across the Pacific Ocean more cheaply than any American concern could send it across the border. Very able gentlemen, those Japanese.

BIG ALASKA is much pleased with the price of gold, climbing higher daily. It closed at $31.96 per ounce yesterday, and Alaska hopes to deliver fifteen million dollars' worth of it this year.

Charles M. Schwab, the steel man, used to watch a very small dog that daily pursued his express train until it was out of sight, and wondered what the dog intended to do with the train if he caught it.

You wonder what Uncle Sam intends to do with the gold after he gets it. Ordinarily Americans are not allowed to have it. Uncle Sam can't eat it.

Perhaps, after we have got it, we will let France or England have it at the old price, around $22, while our taxpayers supply the difference, or perhaps they'll start another war, borrow ten billions more, and say, "charge it."

BOARD TO RULE ON RIVAL UNION

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—President Roosevelt's decision to give the national labor board jurisdiction in any dispute between miners and "captive" mine operators today put the board in the position to "crack down" in independent mine union officials in Illinois and Western Kentucky.

Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, chairman of the board, was expected to assume active arbitration of the disputes by sending summonses to all factions involved in the interunion wars in both states.

Wagner wanted to force settlement of these disputes several weeks ago, but the President's assumption of jurisdiction in the captive mine strikes caused him to delay action.

In Illinois officials of the Progressive Miners of America have refused to accept a formula presented by the NRA for settlement of their bitter membership fight with the United Mine Workers of America. The formula was worked out by Donald R. Richberg, chief counsel of the NRA, after a personal visit to the Illinois coal fields.

NEW COAL PRICE SCHEDULE DUE

A new schedule of coal prices for commercial mines of Western Pennsylvania will be filed tomorrow, according to word from Washington.

There will be few changes from the original list of prices as set up under the Code Authority here, it was reported.

All mines, including small truck operations, are included under the code prices, in that they are not supposed to sell for less than the established quotation.

NRA regulations provide for a change in the price list once a month, subject to the approval of technical advisers in Washington.

Senate Quiz Seeks Detroit Bank Data

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—A group of investigators for the Senate Banking and Currency Committee have been sent to Detroit to gather information for a Senate inquiry into the national banking situation, Ferdinand Pecora, special Senate counsel, announced today.

The investigators were headed by Frank Meehan. They will prepare a "case" to be submitted to the Senate committee. Later they will visit Cleveland.

Vets Within Unions To Get Job Favors

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Preference should be accorded ex-service men who are members of labor unions on public works employment projects, according to an opinion rendered by Attorney General Cummings.

Public Works Administrator Ickes had requested this ruling to determine if ex-service men were entitled to priority under existing laws and regulations.

B. & O. STATION ABANDONMENT SUGGESTED

Union Terminal for Passengers in Program

Great changes in Pittsburgh's railroad facilities are contemplated in the Prince plan for railroad consolidations now being studied at Washington by Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman.

Eastman, according to word received here, is not committed to any plan, but has been giving special study to the Prince program because it is the most advanced of any proposals made.

CHANGES URGED HERE

1—A union station at the Pennsylvania passenger terminal.

2—Abandonment of the present Baltimore and Ohio passenger and freight stations at Smith and Water streets.

3—Possible abandonment of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie station for through trains.

4—Elimination of the B. & O.'s Junction Hollow Line and the tunnel under Shadyside.

E. W. Smith, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, asked recently regarding the possibilities of a new passenger terminal here, referred to the study of the Prince plan and the possibility of developments at Washington.

On the other hand, opposition has already been shown to suggestions of drastic consolidations. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, has openly opposed such mergers.

The Prince plan contemplates seven systems for the nation. Two of these would be in the East and would be built around the New York Central Lines and the Pennsylvania. Included with the P. R. R. would be the Baltimore and Ohio.

NATION-WIDE PLANS

The nation-wide plans are also being closely studied by the Railroad Division of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation seeking to cut railroad operating costs before future loans are made.

Should the Prince plan be approved it is estimated that the railroads of the Pittsburgh district would save more than $1,000,000 a year, a portion of which would be in the salaries of train crews.

Other action contemplated in the Prince plan includes transfer of present freight and passenger traffic on the B. & O. main line from Connellsville to the P. R. R. at Port Perry, passenger trains to operate into the Pennsylvania Station.

Service on the B. & O., Butler line would be operated in and out of Federal Street Station of the P. R. R.

This would permit abandonment of six miles of double track railroad including the Shadyside tunnel of the B. & O., and its bridge over the Allegheny River at Thirty-third street. The smoke nuisance in Oakland would largely be eliminated with the passing of the Junction Hollow road and its heavy grade.

The Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, a subsidiary of B. & O., would retain its engine handling facilities and storage warehouse on the North Side.

WATER ST. TERMINAL

The B. and O's freight and passenger terminal at Water street would be closed and the real estate sold.

The B. and O. shops at Glenwood would be abandoned and only enough tracks retained in that neighborhood to serve industries.

Other details include:

Turn Smithfield and Masontown branch of the B. and O. over to the Monongahela Railroad.

B. and O. passenger trains from Wheeling and the West to be operated over the Panhandle division of the P. R. R., the B. and O., Wheeling line to be used entirely for industrial purposes.

Withdraw all B. and O. freight service from the Wheeling-Newark, O., line, and route all traffic by way of the P. R. R. at Newark.

Big Savings Expected From New Rail Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Big savings through consolidated operation of terminals in large railroad centers are a basic claim of proponents of the Prince plan for co-ordination of the nation's carriers.

The plan, estimated to save upwards of three-quarters of a billion dollars annually on the basis of 1932 traffic, is one of those being studied by Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation, who intends to make recommendations to President Roosevelt for legislation.

The proposal was first laid before the President last winter by Frederick H. Prince, Boston financier.

Briefly, Prince proposes that railroads be grouped into seven systems.

Long sections of parallel lines would be abandoned. Examples are the Baltimore and Ohio's Philadelphia-Baltimore line; the Pennsylvania from Philadelphia to Pottsville and the Reading from Sunbury to Williamsport.

All through Baltimore and Ohio passenger service between Pittsburgh and the East would be eliminated.

Work Fund Preference Given Public Plants

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Secretary of Interior Ickes today informed state engineers and other representatives of the Public Works Administration that preference would be given applications for municipally-owned electric light plants.

He laid down this policy following protests that private power interests were opposing municipal light projects.

In a letter to Hugh Miller state engineer at St. Louis, Ickes said:

"It could be taken for granted that power interests will oppose any municipal electric light project and after one such protest has been heard all have been heard. My view is that hearings ought to be granted for the purpose of establishing whether the municipality itself desires a project.

"If a project is generally desirable, engineeringly practicable and legally sound, then it ought to be forwarded with approval to Washington notwithstanding certain interested opposition."

RABBI AWAITS ACTION HERE ON RESIGNATION

His Departure to Be Great Loss to City, Dr. Baker Says

Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, of Rodef Shalom Temple, one of the outstanding leaders in the city's social, civic and cultural life, has been unanimously elected Rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, New York, it was learned today.

Dr. Goldenson said he received a long distance telephone call late last night telling him of his selection by the New York congregation, considered one of the richest in the world.

As yet he has not formally accepted the new charge. His resignation, he said, will be considered by the church board within a week.

Speaking to the Men's Society of Rodef Shalom last night, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, epitomized in a few words what the loss of Dr. Goldenson means to Pittsburgh. He said:

"I share with the members of this congregation their distress in the departure of Dr. Goldenson. It will leave a void in the intellectual as well as the spiritual life of Pittsburgh."

HERE 15 YEARS

Rabbi at Rodef Shalom for 15 years, he came here in August, 1918, from Albany, N. Y., to take the place of the late Dr. J. Leonard Levy. He has become one of the foremost rabbis in the United States.

At the present he is president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, the largest rabbinical conference in the world.

He is on the board of the Civil Liberties Union, the Federation of Jewish Charities and the Tuberculosis League. He is a member of the Hungry Club, being its speaker a number of times, and an organizer of the "Honest Government League," devised to keep politics out of the schools.

CHAMPION OF TOLERANCE

Always a worker for religious tolerance and goodwill between all church denominations, Dr. Goldenson considers his address at the Civic Memorial Service for the late Dr. C. W. Petty, First Baptist Church, in the Trinity Episcopal Church, one of the most significant events of his career. He said:

"It was a very unusual thing, being the first time that a Jewish rabbi ever spoke in an Episcopal Church on such an occasion."

Dr. Goldenson is also known for his papers on religion which have been printed in various magazines and books. He has always been a welcome speaker in the city's schools and colleges and before scores of organizations throughout the district.

Dr. Goldenson is 55 years old. He was educated at Cincinnati University and Hebrew Union College, both in Cincinnati, and at Columbia University. He lives at 1230 Squirrel Hill avenue.

JAIL DOORS OPEN FOR BARCLAY

International News Service.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 31.—After five days in county jail on a body writ served for alleged non-payment of alimony, McClelland Barclay, noted illustrator, of Westport, was suddenly released today.

The release came on oral order of Superior Court Judge Frederick M. Peasley, who last week had refused to lower the $35,000 bond, in default of which the artist was confined. Judge Peasley said his order was based on failure of Mrs. Nan Barclay, the artist's ex-wife, to file formal proceedings against him in Connecticut.

$100 Monthly Balm Given 'Miss America'

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Norma Smallwood Gilcrease, "Miss America" in 1926, was granted $100 a month temporary alimony at a preliminary hearing in District Court here today on her cross petition to the divorce action of her husband, Tom Gilcrease, oil man. She asked for $500.

Wife Divorces Son Of Pa. Congressman

RENO, Oct. 31.—(Universal.)—Ethel Mae Taylor Kurtz today was granted a divorce from Jay B. Kurtz, of Altoona, Pa., son of Congressman Kurtz, of the Keystone State. She charged cruelty. They were married in Maryland last May.

Do You Know This Girl? -:- Some of Hundreds Seeking to Identify Her

THE UNIDENTIFIED GIRL FOUND IN A VERONA SEWER DROP

A Sun-Telegraph staff artist's drawing of the girl found in an Allegheny River boulevard sewer drop, denuded, still warm. The coroner's description of her: "Fair complexion; bluish-gray eyes; height, five feet three inches; weight, 140; age, probably 19; dark brown hair, cut boyishly; teeth, short and in fair condition; appendix scar." She wore only a white muslin slip, pink bloomers, white finger ring set with a large red stone and two small white stones.

MURDERED GIRL NOT IDENTIFIED

River boulevard near Verona by Mrs. Esther Abraham, of Verona, whose attention was called by her small son.

Lacking identification, county detectives could get nowhere in an investigation. Detective Peter Connors asked:

"How can we find out who murdered her when we don't even know who she is?"

Today Police Chief A. W. Bright, of Verona, told of receiving a mysterious telephone call from a man in Applewold, near Kittanning, who, explaining that his sister was missing, asked for a description of the victim. Then he put on the wire a second man who said that his sister, too, was missing. The call is being checked.

Detectives studied the lists of the Bureau of Missing Persons and asked the authorities in adjoining counties to check their lists.

LOVERS' RENDEZVOUS

The body was discovered in a section known as a lovers' rendezvous—about midway between Verona and Sandy Creek.

The upright position of the body in the small rectangular sewer opening indicated that the girl, although shot, was still alive when pushed into the sewer and had made a desperate effort to free herself from the death chamber.

Morgue attaches believe the girl's eyes were bluish gray but they pointed out this could not be determined definitely, eyes changing color in death.

Busy Hen May Take Egg-Laying 'Crown'

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Triumphant cackles from the nest of Dauntless Dereen, No. 10, were awaited today, to herald her feat of tieing the world's record of another hen in laying 357 eggs in 365 days. The busy hen laid her three hundred fifty-sixth egg yesterday and must repeat today to share honors for egg production.

CO-ED BLAMES RED DRESS

Margaret Wilson, 20, Pitt chemistry student and only girl to be arrested during the Pitt celebration yesterday, blames her flaming red dress for her short stay behind Central Police Station bars, she told workers in Morals Court today.

She was standing at the corner of Duquesne way and Sixth street with four other girls and two members of the Pitt varsity squad, she says, when a policeman ordered them all to move on.

She hesitated—the policeman's eagle eye lighted on her scarlet frock, and her arrest followed at once. But let her tell the story:

"That flaming red dress of mine was just like a red flag in front of a bull. It seemed to annoy and enrage the officer. Indeed, I was disappointed when the two football players permitted the cop to single me out for arrest. I thought they should have gone into a huddle and rescued me with an off-tackle play."

Reminded that Mrs. Gifford Pinchot had denied she wore a "red" dress when she helped some girl strikers to picket some months ago, Miss Wilson said:

EX-RECORDER GRAHAM DIES

John D. Graham, former County Recorder of Deeds, died at 3:15 a. m. this morning in Mercy hospital after being suddenly stricken ill Sunday.

He will be buried at 2 p. m., Thursday in Homewood Cemetery.

Born in 1875, he has been retired for nearly seven years after 12 years' service as recorder.

Funeral services will be held in Moreland funeral home, North Highland avenue. A widower, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Edith E. Adams and Mrs. Ida G. Baugh, and a niece, Mrs. Margaret A. Sisler, all of 347 Ladson street.

After leaving office, he was appointed a member of the County Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, which post he held until the close of the Armstrong-Babcock administration. Recently he was employed for a time in the office of County Treasurer Robert S. Cain.

He was a member of the various Masonic bodies.

U. S. FLIER HELD BY MEXICO

International News Service.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 31.—Charles Baughan, an American aviator, and two Mexican military fliers, Lieuts. Francisco Bulnes and Miguel Mendoza Fuentes, are being held for investigation into alleged seditious activities in connection with the abortive insurrectionary movement in the Mexican Army.

Three airplanes showered Mexico City with Communistic pamphlets last Sunday and Baughan and the two Mexicans are suspected of having been the pilots.

Five shots were fired at Gen. Adolf Bonila, Governor of the State of Tlaxcala, while he was attending a banquet at Tlaxneo last night. Bonila escaped death, but one of the bullets killed Braulio Sanchez, a member of the State Legislature.

The eastern high is centered over West Virginia this morning, and it is considerably reduce in area, while the western low has advanced to the Rocky Mountains. It is centered over Wyoming with lowest pressure reported, 29.44 inches, at Lander, and is causing cloudy weather over most of the Rocky Mountain states, but no precipitation except on the far North. Temperatures are still above normal, the change since yesterday morning being mostly towards rising. There is no freezing weather except in North Dakota and northward over Canada.

ZEPPELIN NEARS SPANISH PORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The Radio Marine Corporation today picked up a message from the Graf Zeppelin, homeward bound from Chicago, reporting it was off the Portuguese Coast and enjoying excellent weather.

The wireless message stated:

"Now nearing Portuguese Coast 10 o'clock (Pittsburgh time). Position latitude 43.04 North, longitude 10.15 West. Fine weather and a good run."

At its present rate of progress, it will be nearing Seville by nightfall where it is scheduled to make a landing.

PROBE HANGING OF WOMAN

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Unexplained circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Emma Valodin, 38, wife of a local baseball player, today had caused police and Coroner Ross Moore Gault to order an investigation.

A visitor to the Valodin home discovered the body lying against the door between the living room and a bedroom, police said. The radio was turned on and a clothes line was around the woman's neck. A flatiron, weighing about five pounds, was attached to the other end of the rope, hung aver the transom above the door.

The position of the body and the fact that the iron was no heavier led police to express the opinion the woman might not have committed suicide. Friends said, however, she had been in poor health. Her husband, Ernest Valodin, was not at home when the body was found.

ADRIENNE AMES NEARS ALTAR

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Bruce Cabot, motion picture actor, and Adrienne Ames, film actress and New York society girl, left here early today for Carlsbad, N. M., where they will be married late this afternoon.

Miss Ames, who was granted a divorce in Minden, Nev., yesterday from Stephen Ames, New York broker, arrived here by plane from Los Angeles. She and Cabot immediately left by automobile for Carlsbad.

Cabot said that after the wedding they would motor back to Hollywood.

LITVINOFF OFF TO BOARD SHIP

His movements still were covered with secrecy as they have been since he left Moscow last week to pass through Berlin and appear in Paris yesterday 24 hours after he was expected.

Diplomatic visas for the United States were issued to Litvinoff and his aides, Constantin Oumanski, chief of the foreign office press section, and Ivan A. Divilkofski, secretary of the foreign office collegium.

KIDNAPING TRIO ROBS AND BEATS MILLIONAIRE

Woman Aided Captors, Freed Manufacturer Tells Police

MARSHALL, Mich., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—His face bruised and showing evidence of a beating, Louis E. Brooks, millionaire Marshall manufacturer, reported kidnaped early today by two men and a woman, was found at his farm home near Battle Creek today.

He told officials his captors had released him after escaping from his factory where they looted the safe.

Brooks, officials said, told them he had been forced by the trio to open a safe in his office, then had been forced to accompany the robbers in his car along a side road toward Battle Creek, 20 miles east of here.

There, he said, his captors stopped, locked the ignition to the automobile, and hid the key under a culvert. Returning to the car, he said, they informed him where he could find the key, and fled.

He told sheriff's deputies he found the key after a lengthy search, and, discovering that his captors had escaped, drove to his farm home a few miles away.

Officials said that Brooks informed them he would make no further statement until he consulted his attorney, James W. Mackey, who drove at once to the Brooks farm. The attorney said he would prepare a statement later.

Officials said Brooks did not reveal the amount of money taken from the safe, but said they had been informed that only a small amount was kept there.

Brooks, 46 years old, is a member of one of the city's wealthiest and most prominent families.

Second Death Verdict Sought in Kidnaping

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—George McGee went to trial today on kidnaping charges arising out of the abduction for ransom last spring of Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of City Manager Henry F. McElroy.

M. W. O'Hern, assistant prosecutor, announced that the death penalty will be asked.

Walter McGee, older brother of George, is under death sentence in connection with the kidnaping. His case has been appealed.

The defendant carried a Bible to the courtroom.

Of the 47 prospective jurors first called, 14 were excused because they objected to the death penalty for kidnaping.

PITT STUDENTS FREED ON PLEA OF BOWMAN

Chancellor's Promise To Pay Damages Releases Celebrators

Chancellor John G. Bowman of the University of Pittsburgh called Magistrate Thomas D. Jones today and promised to pay for the damages his celebrating students caused at the Aldine Theater yesterday.

Magistrate Jones announced this shortly after he had held 17 for court on charges of breaking and entering and inciting to riot, and fined six others, including a girl student, $5 each.

Jones immediately rescinded his "hold for court" order, and freed the 18. He let the fines stand on four of the young men.

THEATER DAMAGED

M. C. Cullen, Loew's district manager, testified that light bulbs and cushions had been thrown from the balcony to the pit of the Aldine Theater by a group of the students, that the panic bolts on the doors were broken, and other damage totaling $200 was done.

Lieut. Edward Kirby testified the students were arrested in the theater after they had created the disturbance.

Edison Struble, spokesman for the students, declared that only one light bulb was broken. The students admitted that they "crashed the gate."

Cullen also testified that damage done by Carnegie Tech students last week had not been paid for. He failed to prosecute, he said, but the school authorities disavowed responsibility.

ADMITS BOOING

Those fined said they were in Sixth avenue, but that they were just celebrating. When Lieut. Kirby declared that Robert Beracutti, 19, of 1504 Jenny Lind street, McKeesport, was a ring leader and hooted police, Beracutti replied:

"I just yelled 'are you for the Irish?'"

Milton Goldberg, 18, of 1338 Columbus avenue, admitted he said "boo" to a policeman on Fifth avenue, and that he called them "flatfeet."

Margaret Wilson, 20, of 5866 Bartlett street, the only girl arrested, said she was just waiting for a friend, and refused to move when police told her. Jones also freed her.

Roland Hykes, 19, of Saxonburg; Little Sylvan, 19, of 5608 Darlington avenue, and Julian Drold, 20, of 5633 Focussett street, were each fined.

STUDENTS FREED

Those freed included Ben Byers, 20, 1609 Hillsdale street; William Huston, 18, 1404 Federal street; R. D. Rowley, 18, 726 Wills street; James Shields, 18, 1256 Wisconsin avenue; Elliott Montroll, 17, 1744 Hillsdale street; J. Midwikis, 19, 927 Kirkbride street; Dick Burtt, 20, 130 South Bryant avenue, Bellevue; Edison Struble, 19, 258 North Dithridge street.

Rudolph Stringer, 20, 714 Negley avenue; Bob Leonard, 20, 70 South Harrison avenue, Bellevue; Joseph Levine, 19, 6354 Alderson street; Gordon Rauck, 17, 2733 Glenmore avenue, Dormont; Murray Schecter, 19, 915 North Negley avenue; J. Caldwell, 18, 1001 Piermont street; B. Slone, 19, 5527 Avondale street; F. Bracken, 19, 3230 Wainbelle street; Louis Kurth, 20, Harmarville.

SCHOOLS TO ACT

Pitt and Tech will mete out little punishment to the "ringleaders" of their respective celebrations, college officials said today.

At Carnegie Tech, Dean of Men A. W. Tarbell today indicated zero grades for the day's work would be the only penalty, adding that "we are more interested in working out with our students a constructive plan that will develop in the future a type of celebration that will not interfere with classes."

At Pitt, Walter J. Rome, acting dean of men, said:

"Students celebrating Monday simply will be marked as absent from their classes that day."

Concerning the report that students had caused damage to the Aldine Theater amounting to $200 or $1,000, he said:

"The manager of the Aldine Theater agreed with me when I visited him yesterday that the damage will not exceed $10."

Details of Sothern Rites Kept Secret

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Arrangements for the funeral of Edward Hugh Sothern, eminent Shakespearean actor, who died Saturday night, were not made public today at request of his widow, Mrs. Julia Marlowe Sothern.

The only announcement was that his body would be cremated as he wished. There will be a private funeral service, but at Mrs. Sothern's wish the time and place will not be revealed.

Appeal Broadcast To Save Hiccougher

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(Universal.)—The best medical minds of the nation today were appealed to in an effort to save the life of Gladys Meek, who for 21 weeks has suffered an acute attack of hiccoughs.

Meanwhile physicians attending the victim said it appeared only an operation on the phrenic nerve would end the spasms, but that such an operation would paralyze the diaphragm and make breathing impossible.

Freed After Celebration

MISS MARGARET WILSON, 20 . . . THE ONLY CO-ED ARRESTED

Miss Wilson, 5866 Bartlett street, fined $5, but a few minutes later was discharged by Magistrate Jones. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

SOME OF MORE THAN TWENTY PITT BOYS ARRESTED IN THEIR DOWNTOWN CELEBRATION OF NOTRE DAME'S DEFEAT

The scene in downtown Police Court today as more than a score of Pitt students were given a hearing before Magistrate Jones, who fined six $5 each, held the others for court, then fined four of them $5 each and released all the rest when University of Pittsburgh's Chancellor Bowman 'phoned, promised to pay for damage the students did in a theater yesterday.

Democratic Council Candidate Stand

These questions, similar to one laid before the Republican and Democratic candidates for Mayor, were presented by The Sun Telegraph to the candidates for City Council. Today The Sun Telegraph presents the answers received from Democratic candidates, and tomorrow will print the replies from the Republicans.

The questions:

1—Do you favor and will you work for, if you do, the taxing of real estate of public utilities?

2—Do you favor the extension of the graded tax law to the county and school districts?

3—Do you approve the present system of one year garbage disposal contracts, which appear to provide a monopoly through virtual elimination of competitive bidding. If you do not, what changes in the system do you have to suggest? Will you do anything about it?

4—Will you use what influence you have in the Legislature to create limited dividend housing corporations through which the city might act with private individuals to speedily eliminate slum districts?

5—Do you believe city taxes can be decreased in the face of revenue deficits because of tax delinquencies? Do you believe taxes must be increased if delinquents do not more speedily pay their taxes? What plans have you for municipal financing due to the inability of the city to collect taxes from many property owners?

6—Do you favor consolidation of the city and county tax assessment boards, a question which rests with the Legislature, but can be influenced by the attitude of city officials?

7—Do you favor consolidation of city and county welfare departments?

8—If you think street car, gas and electric rates are too high, what, if anything could or would you as a city Councilman do to reduce charges?

The replies:

John J. Kane

1—I believe that the real estate of public utilities should be taxed the same as any other real estate owned by corporations or individuals.

2—As a member of the General Assembly I introduced, during the last session of the Assembly, a bill to extend the graded tax law to Allegheny County.

3—I am opposed to the present system of the one-year garbage disposal contracts, as it has established a monopoly which prevents competitive bidding.

4—During the last session of the General Assembly there were introduced a number of bills attending to bring about the elimination of slum districts. Bills were killed in the various committees they were assigned to.

I joined in a movement to discharge committees on this legislation to prevent action by the General Assembly and if again introduced in the special session, I intend to use what influence I may have to bring about legislation that will permit the creation of limited dividend housing corporations.

5—In view of the increase of tax delinquencies, I do not believe that taxes can be reduced, but I believe that an increase can be prevented by careful business administration operating in the interest of the taxpayer with the same degree of efficiency as men in office would be compelled to do if employed by the stockholders of any corporation or business institution.

6—In my campaign for election to the General Assembly, I pledged to work for the consolidation of the city and county tax assessment boards and was favorable to it in the regular session of the Assembly. If it is again introduced in the special session I will continue to give it the same support.

The Legislature can be influenced to act favorably if the city administration would take a determined stand in favor of this consideration.

7—I favor the consolidation of city and county welfare departments for like many other departments operated by the city and county, an additional burden is placed on taxpayers. The duplications should be eliminated as soon as possible.

8—I would first of all offer to the representatives of the utility corporations an opportunity to participate in effecting a new deal for their patrons in Pittsburgh.

I would expect them to evidence their good faith by throwing open such corporate records as would enable competent experts to ascertain a basis for justifying existing or proposed rates for any service.

If such good faith is shown I would meet them half way in working out a solution of our mutual problems. If the opportunity is refused by the utilities, I would feel justified in using any and all means at my disposal to force satisfactory action.

Walter R. Dammler

1—Yes.
2—Yes.
3—I do not approve of one-year garbage disposal contracts and will work for a change to give better service.

4—I am in favor of any worthwhile movement which will eliminate slum conditions.

5—These questions and conditions will require careful study, thorough study. I intend to work for a just and adequate solution to these problems.

6—I favor the general idea involved, and if proven to be worthwhile, I will work to bring about a consolidation of the city and county tax assessment boards.

7—I have not been able to form a definite opinion on the question of consolidating the city and county welfare departments, because of lack of time for study. When I have had opportunity to acquaint myself better with the facts I will be able to make a decision.

8—Due to the fact that these rates are higher than in other cities of equal size, I feel that steps should be taken to provide more just rates.

Thomas J. Gallagher

1—Yes.
2—Yes.
3—No. I do not approve the present system. If elected I intend to see that a change for the better is brought about.
4—Yes.
5—Careful administration has reduced the operating expenses in many American cities. But I must reserve a comprehensive statement until I have made a thorough study of the question. It is fundamentally a question of efficient administration, however.

6—Any plan which will give proper and adequate service in the assessing of properties while making possible, at the same time, a reduction in the expense connected with the process, meets with by approval.

7—I might refer to the question preceeding since my reasons for a consolidation would be the same—I would favor it for the same reasons.

8—My aim would be to do everything possible to obtain reasonable rates.

John M. Huston

Editor's note—Mr. Huston's answers are a verbatim copy of those of Mr. William N. McNair, Democratic mayoralty nominee, published in reply to the same questions in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph. Therefore only his conclusions, less the argument, are reproduced.

1—Absolutely.
2—Yes.
3—No.
4—Yes.
5—Yes.
6—Yes.
7—Yes.
8—Yes.

McBride Manager Supports Schramm

W. Clyde Grubbs, manager of the unsuccessful primary campaign of Mrs. Lois D. McBride for Juvenile Court, today announced his support of Gustav L. Schram for that office.

Grubbs, who managed Gov. Pinchot's Western Pennsylvania campaign in 1930, in a letter to Schramm praised the candidate's character, training and experience.

McNair Accuses Herron In Arrest of Boys

Responsibility for the arrest of boys distributing Democratic literature throughout Pittsburgh was placed squarely on Mayor John S. Herron today by his Democratic mayoralty opponent, William N. McNair. McNair charged that "unapprehended murderers are walking the streets and disorderly houses are wide open, while the police devote their energies to arresting boys."

A Herron police magistrate, McNair said, imposed fines on unemployed men who were assisting in the distribution, and added:

"That's the kind of justice John S. Herron is capable of administering when he gets desperate."

McNair said that Senator James J. Coyne and W. L. Mellon could not be blamed for the episode, and Herron would have to take all the blame. He said:

"Desperate and panicky, the Coyne-Herron machine has pressed into service the police force of the City of Pittsburgh in a futile effort to stave off impending defeat at the polls next Tuesday.

"Yesterday, on orders from Herron, transmitted through Supt. of Police Franklin McQuaide, radio scout cars sped through the city picking up and taking to the various police stations the messenger boys employed by the Western Union Telegraph Company, in distributing Democratic literature to the voters of this community.

"Herded into cells, like criminals, these boys were detained for hours while other cells were being filled with men given employment for the first time in months, in distributing similar Democratic literature in other sections of the city of Pittsburgh.

"It was a Herron police magistrate who sentenced these destitute men to pay a fine of $10 or spend 10 days in jail."

why the deed for this piece of property was kept secret for two and one-half years.

That his explanation of how his wife came into possession of the property on January 10, 1930, is not in accordance with the records of the Recorder of Deeds of Allegheny County, which prove that the deed to Mrs. Herron was executed on November 12, 1929.

That either Mayor Herron is a very shrewd real estate operator or the officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company are kind or sympathetic is evidenced by the fact that the railroad sold him a piece of real estate for $50,000 which he divided a few months later, selling one piece for $50,000 and out of the remainder assuring himself an income of $1,200 a year.

QUERY ON ASSOCIATES

That nowhere in his explanation does Mayor Herron name his associates in this real estate deal other than the official of Flinn's Real Estate Company. Who were they?

That nowhere in his explanation does Mayor Herron speak of payments made by anyone in this transaction. Who made the payments, if any, to secure this piece of real estate?

That Mayor Herron believes that the real estate transactions between a member of the City Council and the Pennsylvania Railroad which, in this particular case were highly profitable to the councilman, are none of the public's business.

That Mayor Herron does not deny that coincident with his career as a councilman the cost of collecting garbage in the City of Pittsburgh has increased from $437,000 to $1,700,000.

MALONE HITS BACK

James F. Malone, former council president, got into the controversy today. He gave out this statement:

"In answer to a speech made by Mr. Thomas J. Gallagher Monday, October 30, Mayor John S. Herron in the last paragraph of a statement said:

"'It is also interesting to remind you that James F. Malone was President of City Council in 1929.'

"If Mr. Herron believes or means to convey the idea that I gave Mr. Gallagher or anybody else the information in the speech of Mr. Gallagher, he is wrong. Until I read the Herron answer to the Gallagher speech I did not know Mr. Herron had any real estate transactions with the Pennsylvania Railroad."

HERRON STATEMENT

Herron's statement read:

"In answer to the speech and the vile innendoes contained therein, which was made by Mr. Gallagher at the Democratic meeting at noon today, I must say that this is in line with a great many vile and unfounded personal charges being made by these gentlemen in their desperate effort to ride into office by character assassination.

"There is absolutely no mystery attached to this real estate transaction. While I am at a loss to understand just why any transaction that I may have had as a private individual with the Pennsylvania Railroad can be of interest to the general public, I have no hesitancy in giving every fact connected with the matter. I want to stress the fact that no city property, no city money, no city-anything, was even slightly involved in any phase of this matter.

"This property was rented with an option to purchase, by myself and others, from the Pennsylvania Railroad in March, 1928, with the idea of organizing a company for the establishment of a chain of gas stations.

'PAID RENTAL'

"We paid a rental of $250 per month, payable in advance, and this rental we continued to pay until the acquisition of the property in May, 1929, when through further negotiations conducted with Mr. E. T. Whiter, vice president, and Mr. Meredith of the real estate department, the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in Philadelphia, agreed on a price of $50,000 and the title was requested from the railroad in the name of James F. Gilson, who at that tie was interested in the contemplated company, Mr. Gilson holding title simply as a trustee for the proposed gasoline company which was to be incorporated.

"The purchase was completed at this time in order that we might be relieved of the large rental of $250 per month, as the property was still idle.

"The money market becoming stringent, the company which we contemplated was not formed and as the city and county taxes on this property had been permitted to go delinquent, Mr. Gilson requested that the owner of record be changed so that no advertisement of delinquent taxes might appear against his name and this was done by transferring title to Mr. Maurice Teplitz, representing another of the interested parties.

'SALE OF PLOT'

"The entire plot of ground was paid for by reason of a sale of a portion thereof to the Standard Oil Company, and the men interested met and agreed that the money stringency was such that there was no further incentive to go ahead with the plans for the formation of a company to operate a chain of stations.

"On January 10, 1930, a settlement was made with everyone who was first interested in this project whereby title was acquired by Mrs. Herron, and if David Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, who now has charge of the income tax returns, will refer to the records, he will verify the fact that this property is shown on Mrs. Herron's personal income tax returns from that date.

"George H. Flinn having died March 29, 1929, and this property not having been acquired until May, 1929, after his death, it can be readily seen that he could have had nothing whatever to do with this nor was anyone else connected with the American Reduction Company interested therein. This is simply a despicable and dastardly attempt at character assassination by one who has probably been misled by some person who dared not make such an accusation himself.

"It is also interesting to remind you that Mr. James F. Malone was President of Council in 1929."

Governor Urged To Seek Aid For Schools

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today considered an appeal from the legislative committee studying the cost of education to include public school finances in his proclamation summoning the General Assembly into extraordinary session November 13. The committee wrote:

"We are informed conditions are so serious in approximately 500 districts as to threaten closing of the school doors early in 1934."

A sub-committee has been named to draft a partial report of its finding for submission to the special session.

Idaho Baking POTATOES should have a place in every pantry
14-lb. sack 33c
(potatoes weigh 6 ounces and over)

Of course, you know Idaho bakers—those smooth-skinned, flat potatoes that puff out so white and fluffy when they're opened. Why, one of them is about all the potato one can eat at a meal.

Here's something good. Bake Idaho Potatoes. When it's time to serve, cut the tops off and scoop out part of the potato. Fill the hollows with hot creamed chicken and serve at once. The scooped-out potato need not be wasted. Use it in browned hash or potato cakes the next day.

Keep Richardsons and Robbins boned chicken on hand for making creamed chicken ..... 2 6-oz. cans 79c

without lowering your quality standard

One way to reduce the food budget is to buy as many foods as possible in bulk. We're featuring bulk foods here at McCanns and you can depend on McCann quality.

Buckwheat Flour	5 lbs.	29c

It's not only economical to buy vegetables in quantity—it's convenient, too. With a well-stocked cellar one never has that nothing-to-eat-in-the-house feeling. These vegetables are just out of the ground. They'll keep fresh and crisp in your vegetable cellar.

Carrots, 8 quart baskets 39c
Carrots are delicious diced and creamed. Or roasted with the meat. Or chopped into raw vegetable salads. A basketful won't last long.

Onions, 8 quart baskets 35c
French fry them. Cream them. Roast them whole with the meat. And, of course, you always need onions for seasoning things.

Turnips, 8 quart baskets 39c
No New England boiled dinner is worthy of the name without turnips. And try mashing them with potatoes (half and half) and lots of butter!

Black Walnuts, 4 quart baskets 23c
Black walnut meats make cookies, cakes and candies a hundred per cent better. Such flavor! This year's crop.

Apples, 8 quart baskets 39c
Jonathans or Grimes Golden—two favorite apples for your fruit cellar.

SULLIVAN NEAR DECISION ON CAMPAIGN

By MARK SHIELDS

Former Congressman P. J. Sullivan some time today is expected to declare his attitude in the Pittsburgh municipal campaign.

Sullivan, formerly undisputable Republican leader in the Sixth Ward, conferred yesterday morning with Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence. Then he met Mayor John S. Herron in the latter's office, after which he returned to Mr. Lawrence's office for another parley. Leaving the Mayor's office, Mr. Sullivan said he was not ready to make a statement, and would not be until after he had consulted with some of his friends in the Sixth Ward.

In the primary Mr. Sullivan supported P. J. McArdle for the Republican mayoralty nomination.

WADDELL PAYS VISIT

Robert Waddell, council candidate in the primary on the McArdle ticket, was another visitor to the Mayor during the afternoon, but made no statement as to his position during the campaign. The Mayor said he had been satisfied with his talk with Mr. Waddell, who received the highest number of votes of any Council candidate on the Citizens League ticket, with the exception of William A. Magee.

The position of Senator David A. Reed was clarified by a statement from Republican headquarters that the Senator would speak at the final Republican rally Friday night in Duquesne Garden.

Former Gov. John S. Fisher, State Chairman Edward Martin, Senator James J. Davis and J. W. Bamford, head of the Building Owners and Managers Association, also are scheduled for a few well-chosen words.

BLESSING IN LINE

Dr. F. C. Blessing, of the Fifteenth Ward, was announced as a Herron supporter, as well as of the whole ticket. He supported Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell in the primary, as did Joseph Stack, soldier leader, who was a primary candidate on the Mackrell ticket for Council.

Stack in a statement from Republican headquarters said he was for Mayor Herron because he believed in abiding by the results of the primary. Stack also asked support for the soldiers' bonus constitutional amendment.

In a series of meetings last night Mayor Herron stressed the fact that he was for the constitutional amendment abolishing the tax qualification for voting, while his Democratic opponent, William N. McNair, had told the Hungry Club yesterday at the Fort Pitt Hotel that he had no definite opinion on the subject, and was "thinking it over."

INDEPENDENT DOCTRINE

In the Fourth Ward, at Frick Training School, Mayor Herron pointed out that abolition of the tax qualification had been an independent doctrine for years. He said:

"I told the Hungry Club that I was for this amendment, that a man should need no other qualification than citizenship. Yet Mr. McNair, who is making an appeal to independent voters, told the same audience that he was not for this amendment, not having made up his mind.

"In view of the frequent charge that the Republican organization has profited from this necessity of having tax receipts, I think my position contrasted with that of Mr. McNair should mean something to independents."

OLIVER DEFENDS COYNE

Councilman George S. Oliver, speaking at the same meeting in the home ward of Senator James J. Coyne, made a defense of the Senator. He said:

"When I hear of the criticism heaped upon Senator Coyne I recall that Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence is an ardent worker for election reform and other phases of good government. I recall that her father, the late Senator William Flinn, was at one time exonerated, and so was my father. Now that they have passed on they are lauded instead of being denounced. Perhaps we might say some nice things about Jimmy while he is still alive."

Mr. Oliver, as well as the other Republican speakers throughout the city, defended the NRA, and predicted that if it worked efficiently it would mean better payrolls and the possibility of tax payments by those who had been hit by the depression.

Pinchot Seeking Means to Speed Old Age Pension

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—A new path that will lead to establishment of old-age pensions without the five-year delay necessary in amending the state constitution is being sought by Gov. Pinchot.

Notifying friends of old-age pension legislation that such a course probably could be taken, the Governor yesterday asked if they would support a method other than constitutional amendment.

Although the Governor did not reveal his plan, it was learned that it contemplates taking advantage of a Supreme Court decision on the 1931 Talbot act, which held that gratuities may be made to the indigent as a class.

LIQUOR NO AID IN STATE RELIEF

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Asserting that even if anticipated taxes from liquor could be made available at once, they would be "entirely inadequate" to finance unemployment relief, Leon D. Metzger, state secretary of revenue, urges support of the $25,000,000 state expenses bond issue.

Revenues from beer, liquor and the state tax on money at interest "cannot be counted upon to meet unemployment relief needs," he said yesterday, adding:

"It must be remembered that the entire bracket of state taxes is at an extremely low ebb because of the depression. State funds now provided will be exhausted in December. There is no time to wait for liquor revenue."

M'CLURE TRIAL BARES STILL IN COURTHOUSE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Manufacture of illicit whisky in the Delaware County Courthouse in stills he had seized was described by D. Harvey Sykes, during cross-examination in the Delaware County liquor conspiracy case.

Sykes, a former constable now serving a prison term for extortion, completed six days of testimony for the government yesterday, during which he made countless startling revelations concerning the operation of an alleged "protection" ring of which State Senator John J. McClure, one of 74 defendants in the case, is accused of heading.

While being cross-examined by John R. K. Scott, of defense counsel, Sykes told of a raid on a Chester bootlegger. He said:

"I took the stills to the Media Courthouse and left them in the care of the custodian there. Afterward two men started to make whisky with the stills.

"When they were discovered, I was taken to the cupola of the building, but the labels had been taken off the stills so I could not identify them. I understand that two men, one a janitor, were discharged."

Sykes said fumes from the stills led to their discovery.

Convicts Eat 'Hot Dogs,' Guards Feast, Says Sykes

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—D. Harvey Sykes, former Delaware County constable now serving a term for extortion and the government's chief witness against State Senator John J. McClure and 74 others on trial in a liquor conspiracy, on cross-examination today explained why the Broadmeadows Prison where he is now incarcerated is known as the "Broadmeadows Country Club."

In answer to a question of Defense Attorney John R. K. Scott, he said:

He added:

"It would pay the county to employ a man at $150 per month to go out there and watch the gasoline and oil tanks. I have seen guards come to blows right in the jail. I have also seen them bring their families to jail for Sunday dinners. Sometimes as high as 30 or 40 members were there—dining on the county. The prisoners did not get good food.

"Jessie James himself was not any worse than those guards. Jessie James was a gentleman. He robbed the rich and gave it to the poor while the jail crowd robbed us poor guys."

LIQUOR CONTROL ACCORD SEEN BY PINCHOT

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—Two movements with the same objective—agreement on a liquor control plan to regulate intoxicating beverages when prohibition ends—were under way today.

A second conference between Gov. Gifford Pinchot, political and legislative leaders and administration officials is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. A compromise on a liquor control plan to be presented to the special session of the General Assembly November 13 is their hope.

A committee of three drys and three wet crusaders will meet here later in the week, possibly Friday, to discuss similar legislation. This conference was agreed upon yesterday when both drys and wets visited the chief executive. Pinchot said:

"The conference will be held to see why sincere drys and sincere wets cannot get together on a plan of liquor control. I feel very confident they can reach an agreement."

The Governor declined to say what methods of control either faction recommended but indicated they conformed generally to systems being discussed at his conferences with political and legislative leaders. Shortly after yesterday's conference, Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman, conferred with the Governor. He and the Democratic party are opposed to a revival of the Brooks high license law or other statutes empowering judges to issue licenses.

Pennsylvania also will send a representative to conferences of several states on the liquor question Friday and Saturday in Cleveland.

Just what method of control, if any, the keystone state's delegate will recommend, Gov. Pinchot declined to say. The representative will, however, reiterate the principles outlined in the Governor's speech at State College.

Wickersham Confesses Error in Dry Forecast

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—George W. Wickersham, chairman of former President Hoover's Commission of Law Observance and Enforcement, said here last night that he "made a mistake" in reading the public mind regarding prohibition when the commission's report was submitted. He said:

"I realize that I made a mistake. I thought that eventually there would be drastic modification or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, but I never thought it would come so soon.

"Whether the saloon will ever come back in its old form depends on how strong the forces of temperance will be. And when I say forces of temperance I do not mean forces of prohibition."

In an address at a meeting of the Onondaga County Bar Association the former Attorney General said:

"In the face of widespread unemployment and want, the result of five years' orgy of speculation, of an overdevelopment of mechanical productivity, of the breakdown of our marketing system and other less obvious factors, we see our government abandoning the principles of individual freedom, disregarding wholly those fundamental economic laws by which we have been guided for a century and a half, and substituting for American initiative, centralized control of all American industry in Washington.

"Instead of pointing to the primary lesson of the depression that money borrowed always must be repaid, the doctrine is taught that debtors shall be relieved of their obligations and that the way out of debt is to incur new debts.

"If the new system fails, the American people for the next half century will be paying the bill and suffering the consequences of this gay adventure."

G. O. P. TO STAY 1ST ON BALLOT

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The Dauphin County Court today refused the application of Allegheny County Democrats to have the names of the party's candidates placed at the top of the ballot for the November 7 election.

An order signed by all three judges refused an application for a writ of mandamus, presented by David L. Lawrence, Allegheny County Democratic chairman, and John L. Kennedy and A. Marshall Thompson, judicial candidate.

They asked that Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth, be required to place the Democrats' names above those of the Republicans, who have held preferred position for years. Their argument was based on the fact that Democrats polled a heavier vote than the Republicans at the last election, and that top position was the right of the majority party.

MILLER SCORES LAW BLOCKING METRO PLAN

If presidents of the United States faced the same obstacles as does the Metropolitan plan under the present state constitution, there would be no chief executives elected, according to Joseph T. Miller, chairman of the Metropolitan Plan committee.

Miller urges the adoption of Amendment No. 11 to the State Constitution at the polls November 7. He refers to the existing clause requiring approval of two-thirds of the voters in a majority of municipalities of the county as a "joker."

The amendment would make it possible to establish the metropolitan city by a majority vote in a majority of the municipalities of Allegheny County.

Urging passage of the amendment, Miller said:

"We believe that the present 'joker' provision, calling as it does, for a two-to-one vote in a majority of the municipalities, is grossly unfair. It enables a small minority to impose its will on a large majority. Majority rule is an established principal of American government.

"The rights of small communities are protected. A majority vote for or against a charter in Haysville, with 192 persons, will carry just as much weight as a majority vote for or against in Pittsburgh, with nearly 700,000. The present two-to-one 'joker' presents an obstacle that hardly any issue under the sun could ever overcome. Its absurdity is made apparent by analogy to the federal system of elections.

"If this 'joker' were applied in voting on national issues it would be necessary to obtain a favorable majority in the United States as a whole, and furthermore, a two-thirds favorable majority in 25 states.

"If such a handicap were met in a Presidential election, no one would ever be president."

Additional acceptances of invitations to join a "Committee of One Thousand" sponsoring the Metropolitan Plan amendment were announced today Among them were City Councilman Robert Garland, Attorney P. J. Clyde Randall, the Rev. Carl August Voss, the Rev. George W. Shelton, Judge James H. Gray, Leo G. Griffith, A. C. Robinson, Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., William B. McFall, George E. Evans, the Rev. Philip A. Callery, Attorney Frank F. Canuti, the Rev. Hugh Thompson Kerr, and F. J. Kress.

Legion Men to Hear Talk on Amendments

The 12 constitutional amendments to be voted on at the general election will be discussed by Dr. Marion R. McKay, of the University of Pittsburgh, at a luncheon of Pittsburgh City Post, American Legion, in the Nixon restaurant at noon tomorrow. Edward A. Hayes, new national commander, and Otto Messner, state commander, will be special guests.

The Best GRAY HAIR REMEDY IS MADE AT HOME

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy, by following this simple recipe. To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained.

Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, makes it soft and glossy and takes years off your looks. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. Do not be handicapped by gray hair now when it is so economical and easy to get rid of it in your own home.

M'NAIR'S TAX PLAN SCORED

Taxation theories of William N. McNair, Democratic mayoralty candidate, were the targets of speakers at Republican headquarters at noon today. J. W. Bamford, head of the Buildings Owners' and Managers' Association, and Dr. A. L. Lewin, school board member, joined in assailing McNair's proposal that the tax on land be made five times that on buildings.

Bamford also said that most of the issues McNair was discussing were beyond control of the Mayor of Pittsburgh. High buildings in the Triangle, he said, would have taxes reduced while smaller properties would be heavily assessed. The McNair theory, he said, meant ultimate government ownership of all land. Purchasers of lots who held them unable to build small homes would be penalized under the McNair theory, he asserted.

Dr. Lewin insisted that there was no Republican opposition to the Roosevelt recovery program, which he said was not a party matter.

MARTIN LAUDS G.O.P. WORKERS

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, yesterday congratulated county and city chairmen on the results of their campaign to get members of the party to vote a straight Republican ticket at the November 7 election.

He said "enthusiastic reports" from chairmen and "surveys by trained and impartial observers" show a "sweep of popular sentiment in favor of Republican tickets from the western tier to the Delaware."

Gen. Martin repeated previous warnings that the municipal elections will have direct bearing on the 1934 elections when a Governor, United States Senator, United States Representatives and members of the General Assembly will be chosen.

DUGGAN TO AIR GARBAGE PACT

Councilman Frank L. Duggan today said he expected the health committee of which he is chairman to report the rubbish and garbage contract ordinance to a special meeting of council tomorrow.

The ordinance, Duggan said, would provide for a one, two or three-year contract as Council might finally determine. The ordinance has been in committee for six months.

The present one-year contract is held by the American Reduction Company and the Allegheny Garbage Company.

Mystery Cleared; Bell Peals Due To Repairs

Bells pealed intermittently yesterday at the German Evangelical Protestant Church, 620 Smithfield street. Pittsburghers wondered what had happened.

The bells became impaired Sunday, and were being repaired. Consequently all through the day they had to be constantly tested.

STATE NEEDY'S HEALTH POOR

International News Service

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—The health of Pennsylvania's unemployed has been hit hard by the depression, Dr. Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health, admitted today.

But despite an increase of illness among persons whose financial resources have been exhausted during the economic unrest period, a record low death rate for the first eight months of this year exists in the Keystone state.

No state-wide survey has been conducted but field men have assured Dr. Appel the unemployed are suffering physically from effects of the depression. He added:

"Our clinics, where the number of treatments have increased approximately 50 per cent within the past year and a half, substantiate these reports. Because of lack of finances the unemployed are going to them for free medical attention."

SUBPENAS OUT IN VOTE TRIAL

Subpenas were being served today on government witnesses for the trial November 16 in Federal Court of five men on the board of elections in the Nineteenth District of the Fourth Ward. They were indicted July 7 by the federal grand jury conducting the congressional election probe.

They are Joseph Tortorelli, judge of elections; M. A. Tierman and Irvin Braun, inspectors; John F. McMally and Bernard Grossman, clerks.

Trial of a first case, including five members of the election board in the Ninth District of the Third Ward, and of George Taylor, election constable, has been set for the opening day of the term, November 13.

Judge, New Grandpa, Frees Law Violators

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Birth of a grandson to Magistrate Edward F. Roberts proved a boon to petty law violators in his court. He discharged them all yesterday admonishing them to go home to their families and try to do better.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

We hope you are keeping up with your studies, fellows.

School has been going on for almost two months now and it's time for every good student to take stock. How are your grades? Are you learning interesting things? Do you like to read your books? Do you like to recite?

Some fellows we know don't like to recite. No fooling, fellows, you ought to be glad to recite. Every time you recite you get a chance to show others what you can do. And you get good practice speaking and telling things.

Today, Joe Stefen, of 685 Railroad street, Windber, Pa., sends in his membership card, and wants us to send eight badges for new members. But he doesn't send any pledges or copies of the pledge. Send pledges for every fellow who wants to join, Joe. We are sending your membership card back, and we will send you an armband just as soon as you are elected captain by at least 10 members.

Dorothy Callen, of Sligo, Pa., is a new captain today. She sends 11 pledges, and says she has members for five more. She says:

"I have organized a club. If you find any pictures of birds, please send them to me and if you want anything that you can't get, write to me and if I can get it I will."

Thanks a lot, Dorothy. We are sending your armband, and you should send in copies of the Junior Patrol pledge for your other five members.

Now here's a letter from Raymond Parker who lives at 1040 E. Ohio street, North Side. He sends four pledges. How about starting a Junior Patrol, Raymond?

Now here's a letter from Julia Baronetski, of 1218 Muriel street, South Side. She writes:

"I have followed Junior's adventures on the radio every Wednesday and was longing to join your club. I always forgot to send my pledge. Last night I told my mother to remind me. She did so and I'm sending it. I am going to have a club of my own. I told my playmates that I was going to have a club. There are 10 including the captain and secretary. Do you have to send 10 blanks with pledges or a made up pledge?"

You can send either the printed pledges or your own copies of the pledge, Julia. We're glad to hear you have started a club. Please send in your pledges right away to get your armband.

Prison Guard Scouts Rival Convict Team

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Prison walls cannot keep a football team with the proper spirit from scouting future opponents. Convicts at Eastern State Penitentiary sent a uniformed guard to watch the Graterford Prison Farm eleven trounce a visiting team. The big game will be Armistice Day.

Actors' Pay

The average dramatic actor in sponsored chain program like he "March of Time" usually re- eives about $50 as his fee for one roadcast plus two rehearsals.

The extras in said program usually cull $5 as their plums from the ether pudding.

Once in a while an actor like ack Smart, the stooge for Fred llen, is said to receive as much s $100 an air shot, but that's unusual.

On sustaining programs, you know the kind where no one is advertising "Zazza's" gumdrops, the average salary a broadcast for an actor or actress, is $22.50.

Of course I'm talking about rograms on the big chains directed by leading agencies.

Actors not in this class get what they can from client or radio station, and frequently plead in vain for a chance to act for nothing at all, at first, just to be heard by you, and you, and you.

Junior Patrol

The Junior Patrollers, that right and talented group of oungsters who broadcast over CAE every Wednesday afternoon at 4:45, offer the following rogram tomorrow:

Junior Patrol Trio—
Junior, Snake and Snookums.
Piano Solo: "A Flat Waltz" ..... Brahms
Helen Kuhns.
Song—Trees ..... Rae Segall.
Piano Solo: "La Paloma" .....
Patricia Mandras.
Two-piano arrangement: "Maid of the Ganges"
Betty Weiss, Catherine King.
Junior Patrol Trio.

Those jazz piano pupils heard on Freddy Rose's program on KQV every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning at 9:15, range in age from 12 to 60 years.

Pancho Villa's Son In Insane Ward

HOLLYWOOD Oct 31 (INS.)—Pancho Augustin Villa, 21, son of the late Mexican guerrilla general, today was in the psychopathic ward of the General Hospital following his arrest on complaint of his guardian, Henry Seldner, that he was insane.

Seldner averred that since young Villa several weeks ago signed a contract to appear in a motion picture he had been acting strangely, refused to talk, went about unclad and had threatened to kill his mother.

Officers Installed By Jewish Juniors

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS E. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Now for Mrs. Mander's story about birds that I mentioned yesterday.

She lives in Swissvale, near Frick Park and operates a "feathered breadline."

Almost every specie of bird in the commonwealth has made an appearance at some time or another, but her favorite visitor is a one-legged Robin.

In spite of his handicap he seemed well able to provide for himself except that he looks as if he needed his hair combed.

He is nice and fat and sassy and turns a sharp beak to any other bird attempting to muscle in on his food.

He always kept strictly alone, feeling self conscious about his infirmity.

Two weeks ago he disappeared and, wonder of wonders, he had abandoned his lone wolf state of existence.

He had a companion! On further scrutiny Mrs. Mander discovered that it, too, was shy a leg.

Yesterday we globe trotted Julian Lee Rayford, the wandering poet of Alabama. He read his poem about two Alabama wild cats having a terrible battle.

When he interpolated those snarls and howls and accompanied them with the realistic panting of a fight-exhausted wildcat I, who had my back turned to him, almost jumped out of my skin!

No wonder Mrs. Henry Meeker grabbed her telephone to demand:

Nurses do have their lighter moments.

D. M. explains that when she wrote to me before she was following a doctor's advice to get her too-much-concentrated mind off her work—do something "silly."

So she wrote to me. How the compliments do fly!

It was the printing of her name that shocked her. She has a reputation for being very gentle with children, and extremely dignified. She's reconciled.

She discovered from reading the column other people do silly things, and it seems to be fun.

As soon as I get the answers from the last problem I'll give you one from Al Zimmerman that'll make you scratch your head.

Watch out for those goblins.!

It takes time, but we get there. Now for that lady who wanted to know about the International League for Peace and Freedom.

The last conference was held at Swarthmore, October 13, 14 and 15, in conjunction with the Fellowship of Reconciliation.

Mrs. George Bray, Carrick, is chairman of the Pittsburgh branch.

First Lady, Fire Chief On Air

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking in behalf of the Mobilization for Human Needs Campaign of 19333, is heard over an NBC-WCAE network this afternoon from 4:15 to 4:45.

* * *

Ed Wynn, who hung up his Fire Chief's hat and went to Hollywood four months ago to make a movie, returns to the air tonight at 9:30, over NBC-WCAE.

The Fire Chief is supported by the usual crew Graham McNamee, the Quartet and Don Voorhees' Band.

By Request

The Philadelphia Orchestra presents "America's Request Program" over CBS-WJAS tonight at 9, playing the three most widely requested compositions—Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, the prelude to Wagner's "Lohengrin" and Tschaikovsky's Symphony No. 6 (The "Pathetique").

"Hallowe'en Fantasy," a musical comedy of romance and witchery, is presented as a special feature over an NBC-KDKA network tonight at 10:30.

The scene is a gay Hallowe'en party and concerns a girl who has been told by a witch how she may recognize her lover when she meets him.

Seibel Discusses The Theater

George Seibel, literary and dramatic critic of the Sun-Telegraph, is heard over WCAE tonight at 7, discussing "Plays and Players."

The Globe Trotter, voice of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, broadcasts the day's news over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15, 2:15 and 6:30 p. m.

Labor & NRA

William Green, president of American Federation of Labor; Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, and Walter C. Teagle, president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, join in a discussion of the labor problems which have arisen out of the NRA codes.

The speakers are heard over an NBC-KDKA net work tonight at 10:45.

"Cheerio," who needs no introduction, inaugurates a new NBC-WEAF program tonight at 6:45.

His first evening broadcast, (dial it on WEAF, 660 kc.) is a tone picture of "The Desert," Jan Peerce, tenor, a chorus and Harrison Isles' orchestra are Cheerio's assistants.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel, there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound, known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

LAURA WHEELER DESIGNS

Colonial Designs Popular Today

In early Colonial days an important part of a well-bred girl's education was needlework, and one of her first efforts was the sampler. We today love to make these old samplers, not so much as proof of our skill, but because of the pleasure the work affords and the decorative piece of needlework that results. This sampler, adapted from an old Colonial one, is 11x14 inches.

Pattern 593 comes to you with a transfer pattern of the sampler, a color key showing exactly what color each cross is to be, and directions for making and framing the sampler.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Court Order Bans Dave From Temple

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Dave Hutton, who quit religious work to become a singer on the vaudeville stage, must stay away from Angelus Temple, at least until November 20.

Superior Judge Emmet Wilson yesterday set November 20 for arguments on a petition by temple officials for a permanent injunction restraining the bulky baritone from frequenting the premises.

Madrid Shaken By Strike Bombings

MADRID, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Four bombs were exploded in various sections of Madrid shortly after midnight today, causing much excitement, but little damage.

Dr. Rigo Avello, minister of the interior, announced immediately that he believed the bombings were connected with a construction workers' strike.

Terrorist Bullet Kills Girl in Poland

LWOW, Poland, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—A Polish girl was killed late yesterday in a disturbance started in a suburb by members of the Ukrainian national organization, held responsible for a recent murder in the Soviet consulate.

The girl, it was said, happened to be passing during the brawl and was killed by a slug from a Ukrainian weapon. A Ukrainian terrorist was wounded by police.

RUM BLAMED AS TWO ASK DIVORCES

Dat Ole Demon Rum reared his head in two divorce hearings before Judge W. Heber Dithrich in Common Pleas Court this morning. Veronica Eberhart, 34, of 1202 East street, North Side, asked for a divorce from George Eberhart, South Euclid avenue, charging cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities.

The first nine years of married life were not so bad, Mrs. Eberhart testified, but after that George started drinking, running around and beating her at night. Early one morning he brought a girl home with him, who hadn't any place to live, Mrs. Eberhart said. She refused to let her stay.

Lawrence A. Mastrioanni, 22, of 92 West Industry street, Pittsburgh, asked to be divorced from Ruth May Mastroianni, 31, of West Irving street, Philadelphia. Mrs. Mastroianni was a Variety show girl and Lawrence was intoxicated when he married her at Wellsburg, W. Va., April 23, 1931, he said. After the wedding, Ruth May decided she preferred footlights to home-lights and went back to the stage, Mastrioanni charged. He wants a divorce on grounds of desertion.

WIFE ABANDONS DIVORCE SUIT

Erma Croyle Barrett, 134 Stratford avenue, who on September 1 filed a divorce suit against Michael Leonard Barrett, yesterday obtained an order from Judge W. Heber Dithrich, permitting her to withdraw the proceedings.

Barrett's residence was given as Bridge street, Jessup, Pa. Mrs. Barrett had charged indignities.

WOMAN'S STORY WINS DIVORCE

Gladys G. Douglass, of 800 South Negley avenue, who said she gave her husband $1,300 she had inherited and finally had to leave him, has been granted a divorce from Lee F. Douglass.

Mrs. Douglass testified that on one occasion her husband left her taking their crippled child with him. He became ill and returned and she nursed him back to health, she told Judge W. Heber Dithrich. Later, she said, his conduct forced her to leave him. They were married at Wellsburg, September 17, 1923.

Mrs. Douglass is now employed in a drug store.

Zone Board Refuses Gas Tank Permit

The Zoning Board of Adjustment has denied the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company a permit to install six large gasoline tanks at 519 Boundary street, foot of Joncaire street, in Junction Hollow.

The board stated it has no power to grant a permit for the tanks in a residential neighborhood. The same company recently withdrew an application to install similar tanks along the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Shadyside Station.

Robber Gets $19 In Beauty Parlor

A robber walked into the Horen Beauty Salon in the fashionable King Edward Apartments, 5809 Bayard street, early last night, threatened the lone operator, Miss Zeda Cowan, and walked out with $19 from the cash register.

Miss Cowan told police the robber did not draw a gun, but kept his right hand in his pocket as he demanded the money.

SMITH URGES CHRISTIANITY IN 'Y' TALK

Judge Ralph H. Smith believes the Y. M. C. A. should put less emphasis on the theory of Christianity and more on the practice.

He so expressed himself at a luncheon in the Penn-McKee Hotel yesterday, where directors of the McKeesport Y. M. C. A. met to fete several state officers and to begin a private campaign for funds.

CITES SOCIAL NEEDS

Judge Smith declared that the Y. M. C. A. should make its work a social experiment laboratory, adding:

"A negligent society is today responsible for the youths passing through Criminal Court.

"There is much practical Christianity to do. I could see our claims to Christianity as being much more valid if I hadn't known of thousands of children working in sweatshops.

"The Y could serve Christianity much better by going into neighborhoods where the mills or factory have been closed and where there is no constructive social work, and save many boys from reaching Criminal Court."

URGES POLITICAL COURSE

Judge Smith also urged that the Y undertake a civic affairs course for young people, not necessarily to make them understand the theories of government so much as to let them know what a ward chairman and a district leader and a registration commissioner is and does.

Dr. J. W. Fawcett was chairman, and the guests included State Secretary Philo C. Dix, and L. L. Erickson, southwestern Pennsylvania secretary, both of Harrisburg, and Western Pennsylvania Students' Secretary R. W. Kost, of Pittsburgh.

POLICE STUDY BROADENED

Advanced classes for traffic officers and regular courses for patrolmen will be included in the winter term of the Pittsburgh police school, Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., announced today.

Lectures on accident reports, traffic lights, license numbers, first aid, fire prevention and preparedness, court procedure, human relations and tourists and regulations will be given in the advanced classes.

These lectures will be given in addition to the regular police class work by Denny, Police Superintendent Franklin T. McQuaide, Assistant Superintendent B. R. Marshall, Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey and Traffic Lieutenants Bert Jacks and Edward Kirby.

CITY'S FOUNDING FETE NOV. 24

A joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society is making plans for the celebration of the 175th anniversary of the founding of Pittsburgh, to be held in the Chamber of Commerce, November 24. A luncheon will open the ceremonies, to which the public will be invited.

Pittsburgh was founded November 25, 1758, when Gen. Forbes took possession of Fort Duquesne, after the French had fired and abandoned the fortifications.

Rain Saves Mayor From Sprinkling Job

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Perhaps Mayor Angelo J. Rossi consulted the weather man before promising personally to water a city-owned lawn for which upkeep funds were not available. Anyway, it rained.

HEARST VIEWS REPRINTED IN PARIS

Universal Service Special Cable.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—The Paris press yesterday unanimously reprinted excerpts from the message of William Randolph Hearst to Howard Davis, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association discussing the relations of a free American press with the NRA.

Particular attention was paid to the paragraph in Mr. Hearst's message in which he said:

"It would seem to me, Mr. Davis, in view of the fact that the NRA is a menace to political rights and constitutional liberties, a danger to American ideas and institutions, a handicap to industrial recovery and a detriment to the public welfare, that the publishers of a free press ought to tolerate it less and expose and oppose it more; and that these publishers ought to be interested in every phase of NRA interference in business, whether or not it affects them personally, as long as it injuriously affects the public which the press and publishers are supposed to serve."

Although the Paris press does not comment on the details of Mr. Hearst's message, the newspapers here point out that President Roosevelt is now entering into a conflict with the American press.

HEARST STAND LAUDED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—(Universal)—Praising William Randolph Hearst's fight for freedom of the press, George E. Sokolsky, noted journalist, who has passed more than 14 years in the Far East and European countries where news has been suppressed, today warned that licensing newspapers under the NRA may lead to serious consequences for the public.

He said:

"The average man may think this is a question only between the papers and the government, but it has been my experience that the ordinary citizen suffers more from servile newspapers than the papers do themselves.

"If newspapers are to be licensed, they will be forced to listen to the dictates of Gen. Johnson and the government or lose their licenses and that involves huge properties. Consequently, under a such a scheme of licensing, most of the papers would be forced to protect themselves by rigid censorship."

Declaring there was no excuse for such a move under the NRA, Sokolsky asserted that the laws of this country were adequate enough to protect the government and the public from any abuses by the press.

JEWS TO PASS THROUGH EGYPT

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A shipload of Jewish emigrants bound for Jaffa, Palestine, and held up at Port Said by the Egyptian government yesterday, will be permitted to continue their journey to the Holy Land.

As a result of a guarantee by the Palestine government that they will be admitted to Palestine, Egyptian authorities are allowing the emigrants to disembark from the steamer Polonia at Port Said and travel overland to Palestine.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Great Britain will discharge its mandatory duties in Palestine "without fear of favor," but law and order must be preserved, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, colonial secretary, said today in a message to Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, Palestine high commissioner.

Sir Philip said:

"There is under the mandate an obligation to facilitate the establishment of a Palestine national home for the Jewish people. At the same time there is an equally definite obligation to safeguard the rights of all the inhabitants of Palestine.

"Both obligations will most carefully be observed. It will be the constant aim of the British policy to foster and promote the well-being of all Palestine."

DERN PLEDGES PRICE RISE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The nation today had another assurance of President Roosevelt's determination to increase the price of agricultural and industrial products.

Secretary of War Dern in an address on "the President's program for planned recovery" declared Mr. Roosevelt is "using every energy to raise prices," Dern said.

"Unless we have higher prices for agricultural and industrial products, wages must do down instead of up, for business cannot long be carried on at a loss. Decreased wages will mean decreased purchasing power, hence less demand for goods, hence fewer men at work and all the cruel misery of unemployment and hard times."

Johnson Curtails Retail Exemptions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP)—A regulation issued by Hugh S. Johnson yesterday cut sharply further the classes of employers in towns under 2,500 who are exempt from all code rules.

To protect dealers in lumber, building materials, specialties and supplies, and coal in larger communities from competition at the hands of dealers using high speed truck delivery from the villages, all firms engaged in these businesses remain under codes regardless of the size of their town.

Two Messages on NRA To W. R. Hearst

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST,
Los Angeles Examiner,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Thank God, America has one publisher as well as one industrial employer who has the courage to say publicly what every publisher and every important employer has been saying privately, and tell the American people what is being done to their country by a coterie of noisy, meddlesome politicians, not one of whom ever established a business or produced a sizeable payroll one week in his life.

I am writing my editor and managing editor to reproduce your life saving message as they have your other articles, and to cease editorial lying and page one ballyhooing concerning a program, the potential bad of which so outweighs the potential good that if not resisted will reduce this country to a state of social and industrial chaos worse than that prevailing in certain European countries.

We all know that in the face of our boasted free press we have for many months played the part of cowardly lying hypocrites, not only failing to live up to our duty and responsibilities under the First Amendment of the Constitution, but actually lying daily to our readers as a part of the political ballyhooing chorus.

Why?

Simply because we feared the truth frankly and intelligently told would mean the destruction of our properties by a boycott through a mob psychology that has been deliberately aroused from Washington and held as a menace over our heads.

The only decent excuse we can offer at this late day to those betrayed readers is the threat of the NRA blue eagle representatives that if we did not make abject and complete surrender they would turn exclusively to the radio to discredit us and sell their paralyzing propaganda to a public so sorely tried and distressed, that it was like a drowning man grabbing at any straw set adrift by inexperienced theorists upon a tempestuous sea of social unrest and industrial depression that was just beginning to adjust itself when the politicians took control.

Won't you have this masterpiece followed quickly by another showing the natural healthy progress made by England and some European countries by normal measures as contrasted with our hypodermic short cut effort, and pointing out definitely our factors and agencies of recovery and improvement for which the NRA is in no way responsible.

You are at liberty to make any use of this you see fit.

Most gratefully,
L. T. RUSSELL,
Publisher of the Newark, N. J., Morning Ledger.

HON. WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST,
Los Angeles Examiner,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Congratulations on your courageous and patriotic message to Howard Davis.

The fundamental trouble with our great country is, there are an excessive and oppressive amount of United States government interest bearing bonds, and a scarcity of currency or medium of exchange especially in proportion to the government bonds. This fundamental trouble of excessive amount of government bonds is due to our entry in the World War, which you strongly opposed.

This fundamental trouble can be corrected almost overnight by the President instructing the recall of these treasury interest bearing bonds and redeeming them with good United States non-interest bearing treasury money.

This will be opposed with all the powerful influence and resources of the dominant Wall Street and international bankers. However, as you have often conveyed, it is more important and vital to our country that the right to coin, regulate and control the value of money be taken from this group and restored to Congress where it was so wisely vested by the founders of our great republic.

In the interest of our country, please keep up your courageous fight and make another radio talk as soon as possible on the paramount and vital currency question, as this will be most helpful.

Again congratulations and best wishes. You are at liberty to publish if you think advisable.

ROBERT HARRISS,
60 Beaver street,
New York City.

BRAZIL LAPSES FRENCH DEBT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 31.—(AP)—France, considering further default in her debts to the United States, was forced on the other side of the fence by Brazil today.

Brazil withheld payment of an installment on her debt to French bankers, and it was understood future payment dates also would be ignored.

At least, it was added, Brazil will not pay anything further until "the French decree regulating the disposition of proceeds from Brazilian exportation" is revoked.

Today's scheduled payment was 9,419,000 francs. The sum was due on a pre-war loan.

China Jails General Over Russian Pact

NANKING, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Gen. Chin Shu Jen, former chairman of the Sinkiang provincial government was arrested by executive order today for concluding secret agreements with Soviet Russia, antagonizing Mohammedans and exploiting the natives.

Taxi Driver Shows Policeman Wrong By Inches

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Many traffic policemen will take to carrying yardsticks.

Charles Prevost, a taxi driver, was arrested for being more than five feet from his cab. Having a ruler with him, he measured and proved in court that it was only four feet, three inches.

The judge smilingly said:

"Case dismissed."

MOVIE OWNERS OPPOSE CODE

Independent exhibitors attending the opening sessions of the annual convention of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia in the Hotel Schenley yesterday, opposed approval of the proposed code of fair competition for the industry.

They indorsed resolutions adopted at a meeting of independent exhibitors representing 1,765 theaters in Chicago last week.

These urged President Roosevelt to designate an impartial representative to inquire into circumstances surrounding the negotiation and writing of the proposed code before approving the draft prepared by Sol A. Rosenblatt, deputy NRA administrator.

Young Miner Killed In Fight Over Loan

POTTSVILLE, Oct. 31.—(AP)—James Kelley, 20, a miner died in a hospital today of a gunshot wound received in a struggle with his cousin, who was wounded by the same charge, Thomas Drennen, 32, was shot in the left arm.

Louis Buono, chief of detectives, said the men were wounded in a fight which started after Drennen refused to lend Kelley money to get his teeth fixed.

Mail Clerk's Shoe Found by Track

TREZEVANT, Tenn., Oct. 31.—(AP)—Felix Leach kicks the mail pouch from passenger train No. 101 as it passes each day.

Yesterday he jabbed his toe into the sack and his shoe went with the mail. When the train got to Memphis Leach wired the station agent. He found the shoe beside the track.

RECOVERY DRIVE FACES RISING DISCONTENT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Increasing signs of discontent with the progress attained in the administration's far-flung recovery program occupied the attention of President Roosevelt and his chief advisers today.

It is considered likely there will be some shifting of sails to meet the winds of criticism, although to just what extent or in which direction remains for the moment undetermined.

In the Mid-West, Governors of nine agricultural states are meeting in conference over the continued low price of farm products. There is criticism over the delay in spanning the gap between agricultural prices and industrial prices, with most of the Governors partial to price-pegging by the government.

LABOR TROUBLES

Industrial centers continue to be plagued by labor disturbances. With complaints of violations of the NRA codes and "chiseling" piling up in Washington at an enormous rate.

Court attacks on the constitutionality of the NRA already have begun. A Brooklyn firm not adhering to the NRA has obtained a temporary injunction preventing the award of a postoffice contract to a rival bidder whose price was considerably higher than the non-adherent.

The new monetary policy, wherein the government entered the world's gold market to buy yellow metal above the world price, has failed to have the anticipated result of materially increasing commodity prices, and has profoundly disturbed the money marts of the world.

DELAYS PROTESTED

The capital continues to be deluged with complaints over the slowness in projecting the public works building program, which was expected to put thousands of men to work before the snow flies. State officials blame the PWA, and PWA officials, in turn, blame local authorities.

And, significantly enough, the Republican National Committee, from which little or nothing has been heard since the new deal started, came out today with a broadside of criticism against the administration.

Under the heading, "Let's Look at the Record," the committee accused President Roosevelt of already having violated most of the important promises he made during the campaign.

The Republican blast is significant. It means that the political truce which has been in effect since March 4 is now ended, and that the administration must expect partisan criticism and political opposition in some of its major policies. The Roosevelt honeymoon is definitely at an end.

CRITICISE GOLD MOVE

The chief criticism of the Republican organization was directed against the new monetary policy, which it considered in violation of the Democrat's "sound money" pledge; the public works program; the agricultural policy; the promised 25 per cent reduction in federal expenditures; the processing taxes on foodstuffs, and numerous other administration policies.

It is considered the opening gun in the political warfare that will be waged for control of the new Congress to be elected a year hence.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the dynamic, hard-hitting administrator of the recovery act, was among the first to recognize that something like a crisis has been reached in the working out of the whole program. Consequently he was preparing today to go to the country with a series of speeches, answering the criticisms, and seeking to explain and "sell" the recovery program to the general public. His itinerary will cover a dozen of the larger cities between the Alleghenies and the Pacific coast.

North Side Slayer Gets Long Jail Term

Ross Madio, 30, of Mitchell street, North Side, was sentenced to serve from five to 10 years in the workhouse by Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff in Criminal Court, today, after refusing Madio a new trial. Madio was convicted two months ago of second degree murder in the fatal stabbing of Joseph Steigler, 28, of 3208 Mitchell street in a neighborhood brawl, last April.

employment, and heavier burdens in every direction than industry, weakened by depression and only newly reviving, was able to bear.

THE result has been a distinct recession of the movement towards prosperity.

Business is now definitely on the back track, notwithstanding the undeniably beneficial results of the sumptuary legislation, the farm relief program, and the immense possibilities latent in the inoperative unemployment program.

In fact, the blighting effect of the NRA policy has been so complete that a justifiable interpretation of the letters NRA would make them read appropriately "no recovery allowed."

What is the administration going to do about this discouraging situation?

What are the people of the United States going to do about it?

The people elected a Democratic administration, not a socialistic dictatorship.

The people approved the well considered proposals of the Democratic platform, not the theories of Karl Marx and the policies of Stalin.

Why should recovery in America be made to recede by despotic interference with American industrial freedom and with resourceful individualism when progress in other countries is proceeding without such unjustifiable, not to say unconstitutional, interruption.

OF BRITISH RECOVERY, Walter Runciman, member of the British cabinet, and president of the British Board of Trade, says:

"By contrast with 1931, when we were almost on the financial rocks, we have now attained the position of being the strongest financial country in the world, with the best credit, and we have been able to place our national finances upon a foundation almost as secure as before the World War."

Of the continually improving economic conditions in Great Britain, Lloyd George says:

"Britain is making visible progress toward economic recovery. It is a real, definite advance.

"The best feature of this improvement is its steadiness. It is no seasonal fluctuation, and it is due to no effort of the government to find work. It is, nevertheless, a firm, continuous advance."

And from Washington comes the authoritative American financial Whaley-Eaton publication, which says without qualification:

"British economic recovery is exceeding all expectations. Unemployment is progressively decreasing and exports are expanding. Railway revenue is up. What is described as an 'astonishing improvement' is noted in the coal, iron, steel, electric, cotton, wool, jute, hosiery, pottery, motor, metal and shoe industries.

"Tax receipts indicate a budget surplus at the end of the current fiscal year. British government experts are convinced that the improvement is no mere flash in the pan, but 'is the beginning of a permanent advance.'"

THERE IS NO socialistic revolution in England, no dictatorship, no substitution of despotism for democracy, no interference with individual liberty, no NRA.

England is still the home of freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom of publication, and freedom of action.

Why should we imperil both our liberty and our prosperity by this damaging NRA measure of socialistic despotism?

The President of the United States said with regard to the Democratic measure of farm relief embodied in the party platform:

"I will try it. If it is not a success, I am not committed to it."

Surely, the administration is not more socialistic than it is democratic.

Surely, if socialistic intermeddling in every business to the injury of the business and the retarding of general recovery has proved not to be a success, the administration need not be further committed to it.

Surely, the government can concentrate on the Democratic measures which were proving successful, and abandon a meddlesome measure of state socialism which is thrusting the country back into depression.

Perhaps, after all, the principles of Washington and Jefferson and Lincoln are superior to the fanciful theories of Marx and Stalin.

Perhaps we will find—perhaps we have found—that the best benefit of ALL is promoted not by socialistic despotism but by the elemental American principles of personal liberty and individual opportunity.

CUBAN STRIKE CALL IGNORED

International News Service.

HAVANA, Oct. 31.—The deadline for Cuba's second threatened general strike in as many days passed today with workers apparently ignoring the call for the walkout issued by the Leftist Labor Confereration.

Street cars, buses, taxicabs and bars were operated as usual. Police Chief Franco declared all unions had refused to answer the strike call.

Six labor confederation leaders were arrested on charges of attempting to foment a general strike.

The political situation was left confused by a turbulent meeting of the Havana University general assembly. The meeting was staged with the aim of withdrawing student support from President Grau San Martin and the student directorate, but it ended without reaching a definite decision.

Shift of Two Rail Crossings Ordered

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Relocation of two grade crossings on highway route 330 in Jefferson Township, Allegheny County, was ordered yesterday by the Public Service Commission. The crossings are those of the Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad companies, affected by relocation of the highway.

FISH NOT DUMB, TESTS SHOW

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Fish are not so dumb, says Mrs. Horst von Der Goltz, who has given them intelligence tests.

Mrs. Von Der Goltz, an aquarist, cited the cichlids, fish found in South America and elsewhere.

They show adaptability to changed environment. They teach their young to swim, wash them, feed them, put them to bed at sundown, and make them get up for breakfast.

Fish that go in schools, however, are apt to be "dumb."

CUSTOMS SEIZE ALLEGED NAZI PROPAGANDA

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Chairman Samuel Dickstein of the House Immigration Committee said today he possessed evidence whih led him to believe that Nazi propaganda had been brought into the United States for the past two years.

His statement came as detectives of the New York police radical squad guarded all metropolitan airports on a "tip" that Heinz Spanknoebel, hiding Nazi leader, might use a plane to avoid arrest on a federal warrant.

Dickstein's statement followed seizure last night by customs agents of a case of literature in English and German, quoting speeches by Chancellor Hitler.

Kail Keim, a seaman of the Hamburg-American liner New York, was questioned by agents, but was not held. They reported finding a certificate in his possession designating him "leader of the crew" for the National Socialist party headed by Chancellor Hitler.

Dickstein said he took some of the literature seized by customs agents for evidence in the Congressional hearing on aliem agitation which gets under wal November 14. He said:

"What I took was to bring out my point that Nazi propaganda is being worked into the United States. We have been asleep in the past to its absolute danger to the community. The more I go into things relating to this campaign of propaganda, the more I am astounded."

Dickstein said Keim's job was to lecture alien seamen and aliens coming to the United States on the supremacy of Hitlerism.

The congressman said this method of propogandizing German-Americans and Germans entering the United States was being followed "with the connivance and consent" of the steamship companies.

Denials of complicity were issued by representatives of the Hamburg-American Line and the North German Lloyd Line.

JAP ARMS CUT BID REPORTED

International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The naval correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph today published a report that Japan is ready to scrap all her submarines provided other powers will do likewise, and that she is also willing to abolish aircraft carriers.

TOKIO, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The attempted launching of the naval destroyer Hatsushimo, a 1,400-ton craft, at the Uraga dockyards, near the Yokosuka naval base, ended in failure today. The Hatsushimo slid only halfway down the ways and then stuck. The mishap was attributed to swelling of the ways due to recent rains. Tugs were ordered to complete the launching Wednesday.

FIRE PLOT LAID TO RED LEADER

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Ernst Torgler, Communist leader, was accused from the witness stand in the Reichstag Building fire trial today of having plotted the arson.

As courtroom spectators sat agape, Gustav Lebermann, now serving a two and one-half year term in Hamburg prison for robbery, testified Torgler sought his aid in firing the Reichstag several times in 1931 and 1932.

Further, the witness asserted, the former Communist whip in the Reichstag also plotted a string of other acts of sabotage.

BAKER WARNS OF NAZI POWER

Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technlogy, last night declared war clouds are hanging over Europe and will continue to hang over Europe until Chancellor Hitler of Germany experiences a change of heart.

Speaking at Rodef Shalom Temple, Dr. Baker said "many of us have underestimated Hitler's ability."

He predicted that Germany will be the center of interest to the world for years to come.

Russ-German Press Relations Restored

MOSCOW, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Restoration of press relations between Soviet Russia and Germany was announced today in a dispatch from Berlin published by the newspaper Pravda.

The settlement involves reassignment of Soviet correspondents in Germany and their admittance to the Reichstag building fire trial, and the return of expelled German correspondents to Moscow.

Witch, Goblin to Hold Sway in City Tonight

Preparations Made To Fete Halloween In Spooky Manner

Don't be surprised if you see the ghost of the Headless Horseman galloping past tonight, or hear the swish of the Old Witch's broom in the clouds as, with the black cat hunched high on her shoulders, she sweeps the sky.

For tonight is Halloween, when those grotesque and mischief-making spirits of the world where the Stygian river flows and the magic cauldron boils, are abroad in all their deviltry.

To attempt to stave off these hobgoblin spirits would be as futile as defying Fate itself; for this is not only the occasion for the assembling of the spirits in all their fantastic forms, but the time when man is in his element. Here is the chance—coming once in every 365 days—of freely giving vent to flouting hobgoblin inhibitions that might have accumulated during the year.

COLORFUL FETE

Colorful procession and private parties will mark observance of the holiday. Homes will be decorated with lively displays of crepe paper, with pumpkin lanterns and figures of witches and goblins, hanging from the walls and ceilings. Tables will be piled high with Halloween candies, not only to keep the goblins away, but to fill baskets of neighborhood children, for practical housewives have found candy an ideal bribe to insure security of gates and porch furniture on Holloween night.

Here, too, prevails the age-old custom of "ducking" for apples, with the accompanying superstition that if the lucky maiden procures the apple and places it under her pillow while she sleeps she will dream of her future husband.

As night falls, both grownups and children will scamper forth, masked and dressed in grotesque forms, to trail through the streets amid savage hoots, howls and weird incantations.

THERE SHE GOES!

In the provincial dictricts, the celebration assumes a quasi-official routine. Already special mischief-making days that precede Halloween have been observed. These include a moving night, after which Farmer Jones may merely find his front gate missing or old Daisy chewing her cud in the church belfry; doorbell night, when pins are stuck in doorbells, causing a prolonged ringing; soap night, clothes line night, and many others.

Whether in the city, country or, in fact, any part of the world, Halloween is the culmination of all mischief making—when everyone hobnobs with goblins, searching the sky for a glimpse of the Old Witch astride her broom, who is searching for babies born this night so that she may endow them with supernatural powers.

U. S. TO REMAIN ALOOF IN ARMS TANGLE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Renewed warnings that the United States intends to steer clear of political entanglements at Geneva until the European nations decide whether they want to disarm was served on the world today by Secretary of State Hull.

Commenting on the plans of Ambassador Norman H. Davis, America's chief disarmament expert at Geneva, to sail for home, Hull said Davis would remain at home until it was felt here that developments indicating the willingness of Europe to disarm justified his return.

He added the government would be prepared to send Davis back whenever conditions pertaining to the disarmament movement warranted his return, but intimated clearly that only those conditions and not anything pertaining to European political problems would call for his return.

Davis' Return to U. S. Jolts Arms Parley

GENEVA, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The hope that the departure of Norman H. Davis, head of the American delegation, may jolt the European powers into doing something positive on disarmament was expressed in arms circles here today.

Davis announced yesterday that he will go to Washington for consultation with President Roosevelt and the State Department.

The United States was seen by these quarters as adopting a policy closely resembling that of Japan, allowing Europe to settle the problems which essentially are European, and then intervening to promote a general disarmament.

It was understood Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, who officially has re-convoked a meeting of the steering committee for November 9, is dismayed at Davis' decision. The American ambassador will leave Wednesday night and sail on the President Roosevelt Saturday.

It was stated the Americans do not wish to be used to bring pressure by one group of powers against another in the present crisis.

FIVE-DOLLAR PRIZE WINNER FOR TUESDAY

MRS. JAMES FAGAN,
308 East Sixteenth street, Homestead.

PRUNE SOUFFLE

One-half cup chopped nuts (if desired).
One-half cup grated bread crumbs.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-sixth teaspoon cinnamon.
One-half cup prune juice.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One cup prune pulp.
Two eggs.
Grated rind of one lemon.

Mix the first six ingredients. Remove the stones from the cooked prunes and force the pulp through sieve. Add lemon juice and prune pulp. Stir in dry ingredients. Add yolks of eggs beaten until light and lemon rind. Fold in whites of eggs beaten stiff. Turn into greased baking dish and bake in a slow oven. Set baking dish in pan of water.

TEN $1 PRIZE WINNERS FOR TUESDAY

MRS. SYLVESTER ULMAR,
220 Hazel drive, Mt. Lebanon.

SLOW COOKED ROAST BEEF.

One standing rib roast—5½ pounds.
Two teaspoons dry mustard.
Two teaspoons pepper.
Two teaspoons granulated sugar.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Start oven at 325 degrees and while it is being heated mix the four dry ingredients in a saucer. Rub entire surface of the roast with same, bones and all, until it is used up. Place the roast in an uncovered pan, bones down and roast for one hour without basting. The fat will melt and baste the meat. Add one-half cup of hot water and continue roasting for 45 minutes for rare roast beef. Allow 21 minutes to the pound for rare beef or for a medium roast 22½ minutes per pound.

MRS. K. R. HOGG,
112 Eighth avenue, Carnegie.

CRANBERRIES.

Two cups sugar.
Two cups boiling water.
One quart cranberries.

Make syrup of sugar and water by boiling five minutes. Wash and drain berries, discarding all imperfect fruit. Add drained berries to the syrup, cover and simmer gently over low fire until berries are tender and transparent, about one-half hour. This way of cooking cranberries is so simple and quick, yet preserves the color and wholesomeness of the berries most tempting.

MRS. H. THEODORE M'ROBERTS,
86 May street.

HONEYED SWEET POTATOES.

Four medium-size sweet potatoes.

MISS ROSE COLUCCIO,
33 Carver street.

PARTY COOKIES

One cup shortening.
Two cups brown sugar.
One egg, beaten.
Two tablespoons cinnamon.
Three cups flour.

Cream shortening and add sugar slowly, stirring constantly till mixture is smooth; add beaten egg and cinnamon. Add flour gradually, roll out and cut with round cookie cutter. Place on baking sheet. Decorate with raisin eyes, almond nose and cherry mouth. Bake in hot oven about seven minutes.

MRS. LOUISE JOHNSON,
1707 Granwview avenue, McKeesport.

DARK SWEDISH RYE BREAD.

One cup molasses.
One-half cup sugar.
One quart water.
Four tablespoons Crisco.
Three cent bakers' yeast.
Four teaspoons salt.
One-half cup fennel seed.
Grated rind of orange.
Six cups Hamilton rye flour.
Six or seven cups white flour.

Heat water enough to dissolve the Crisco; then add molasses, sugar and salt. When right temperature put in a large bread pan, then mix in the six cups of rye flour and bakers yeast. Let stand on a warm stove about four hours. Add six cups of white flour to this mixture and the grated rind of orange and fennel seed, which should be ground. Knead this bread batter well, put back in floured bread bowl and allow to raise double the size. Then knead again, adding a little flour so it does not stick to the hands. Form into loaves, put in greased bread pans and allow to raise double. Put in a moderate oven and bake one hour for 45 minutes. When done brush top with water as this will soften the crust.

MISS RITA MILLER,
10 Edith Place,
MEAT LOAF

Two lbs. fresh ground beef.
One lb. ground pork.
Two eggs.
One-half cup cracker meal.
One small onion (if desired).
One green pepper.
One T. mix.
Salt and pepper, dash paprika.

Mix well together, form into a loaf. Sprinkle with flour and bake two hours. If tomato sauce is desired, about half hour before removing from oven, put a can of tomatoes over it, basting the loaf occasionally.

MRS. WALTER DeSHIELDS,
618 Hancock street, Monongahela.

INDIA RELISH.

Two large heads cabbage.
Five quart onions.
One dozen red peppers.
One dozen green peppers.
Three bunches celery.

Put through food chopper, then add one-half cup salt (never use iodine salt), and put in sugar sack to drain overnight. Next day add two ounces mustard seed, one ounce celery seed, two pounds brown sugar, one teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves, allspice, dry mustard and tumeric, and enough vinegar (add water to vinegar to moisten), and cook for two hours. This relish does not have to be sealed.

MRS. GEORGE P. LINEBERGER,
325 Virginia avenue,
PEACH JAM.

Thoroughly wash and soak (for a couple of hours) in enough water to cover, one pound of dried peaches. Grate one medium-sized orange (skin and all), discarding only the seeds. Add to the peaches and put on to simmer gently until peaches are all puffed up. Then rub through a colander and add one pound of granulated sugar and cook until it thickens. A little more water may be added from time to time to prevent its getting too thick. Makes a very delicious as well as economical peach jam.

MRS. W. W. ERDMAN,
900 Florida avenue, Mt. Lebanon.

PINCH PIE

Beat whites of three eggs until light, adding a pinch of salt. Shake over this a pinch of baking powder. Fold in one-half cup sugar. Add one teaspoonful vinegar and one teaspoonful vanilla. Fold in another half-cup sugar. Grease pie plate and flour well. Pour in mixture, cover with wax paper and bake in slow oven (250 degrees) for one hour. About two hours before serving fill with crushed fresh fruit and top with whipped cream. Very good with strawberries.

INEZ DECIMA,
425 Rose avenue, Clairton.

When This Famous Remedy Gets on the Job!

It's just too bad for a cold when you take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. For this famous tablet soon has the cold on its way. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine acts quickly and decisively because it is especially a cold remedy and because it gets at a cold from the inside.

Complete relief is had with Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine because it is a complete treatment. It does the four things necessary. It open the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is courting danger. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and resent a substitute.

EXCESS WEIGHT IS DANGEROUS —DOCTOR WARNS

Many Disorders Caused by Fat —says Dr. Frank S. Orland in Radio Address

Speaking over Station WCAE, Dr. Frank S. Orland, authority on obesity, pointed out that many people who are overweight suffer from headaches, fatigue, sluggishness and loss of ambition. "The tendency of excess fat," said Dr. Orland, "is to attach itself to vital organs and should be a matter of concern to those who are overweight.

Women everywhere are losing ten pounds or more, as they see fit, without taking dangerous thyroid extracts (which should only be taken under the direction of a competent physician) or weakening diets. No need now for drastic salts that rush half digested foods through your intestines. No need for punishing exercises or painful massages.

Now Science has come out with a new discovery, says Dr. Orland, which has none of these faults. It is Vanna, a tablet containing certain absolutely harmless natural elements that act on the liver and gall bladder . . . stimulate and regulate the digestive juices . . . prevent formation of excess fat . . . and restore metabolism (body gain). Vanna, containing no thyroid, no laxative drugs at all.

You can eat three meals a day without fear of fat because Vanna helps dissolve this fat before it can harm you. Start the Vanna treatment today and you should be pleased to see a loss overnight.

The remarkable product is for sale at a Mack Drug Store. Come into our store and ask any of our clerks for the booklet, "How To Reduce With Absolute Safety."

Lindsay Talk May Affect Election

By MARK SHIELDS

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, defeated in the primary as a candidate for nomination to Common Pleas Court, plans a radio talk tomorrow night which may have an effect on the general election, so far as judicial candidates are concerned.

Mr. Shields

Mr. Lindsay, while he lost out in his effort to get a Republican or Democratic nomination, was named on the Independent, Square Deal and Prohibition tickets. He expects to call attention to the fact that his name appears on those tickets, and the plain inference will be that he would not object to his friends voting for him.

While he was defeated in September, it is nevertheless a fact that through past active association with and leadership in Independent movements Mr. Lindsay has acquired some zealous supporters, and most of them are Independents who have been registered or enrolled as Republicans. If any considerable number of this group should vote for Mr. Lindsay next Tuesday, there well might be an appreciable bearing on the judicial election.

Two of the Republican candidates, Judges Harry H. Rowand and Ralph H. Smith, are on that ticket only. The other, County Judge M. A. Musmanno, also is on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Lindsay's friends might vote for him and Judges Rowand and Smith without much jeopardy to Judge Musmanno, and thus with little effect upon the other Republican candidates, as it is certain that there will be many Republicans vote for Judge Musmanno. He is popular in all parties.

If Mr. Lindsay's friends voted for him and Judge Musmanno they would have to cut one of the Republican candidates, and it is that procedure which might have a bearing on the result. That would depend entirely on how many persons voted for Mr. Lindsay, and a better estimate of that should be had after he makes his speech tomorrow night.

He is understood to be in the humor to speak plainly some things which are in his mind, and they will involve criticism of many persons, independents and regulars in Republican politics.

Walker Denies He's Bolted Party

Representative William A. Walker, of Avalon, who on Sunday announced his preference for William N. McNair as the mayoralty candidate in Pittsburgh, finds that he has thus been labeled a Democrat instead of a Republican, and this has been causing him some feverish moments among his constituents, who elected him to the Legislature as a Republican.

Without reiterating his preference for Mr. McNair, Mr. Walker today proceeded to clarify his position. He said:

"On Saturday, October 28, I issued a statement pertinent to the present political situation in Pittsburgh. This statement, although in plain English, has been misconstrued widely as a bolt from the Republican party, and that I am now a supporter of the Democratic ticket. Nothing could be further from the truth.

"The county Republican ticket and the local Republican tickets in our various boroughs and townships should be supported by decisive majorities. The Republican administration in our local communities has been economically sound and the continuation of these experienced public servants is of vital importance to these communities.

"I was defeated as a candidate for judge of the County Court in the Republican primary, and the American spirit of fair play as well as personal inclination would not permit me to do other than support my successful opponents, whose high qualifications have been recognized by the people."

Mr. Walker finds fault with city Republican leadership, and feels he has a right to do so because of the interdependence of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County in social, economic and political life. And there can be no denial but what there is a commingling of these interests. As political conditions are today, there always will be a fight between county and city.

Two Letters to Herron And His Comment

Mayor John S. Herron made public copies of two letters today. One read:

"Permit me to congratulate you on your decisive victory in the recent primary election. The Republican organization together with your large personal following indicated in no uncertain terms that you are the popular choice of the Republican Party. All Republicans should earnestly support you in the general election."

This, the Mayor said, was dated September 25 and signed "John W. Patterson."

The second read:

"Dear Jack—I certainly wish to congratulate you on your overwhelming victory in the recent primaries. Your victory was decisive enough to satisfy the most skeptical of your popularity with the people. Although not on the same side during this fight consider this the warmest of congratulations and best wishes for the future."

This, the Mayor said, was dated September 21 and signed "Charles Wolff."

Subsequently both gentlemen defeated candidates for Council have declared for Mr. McNair. The Mayor said he was curious to know what caused the change, and recommended to both the wise old political axiom:

"Don't write; telephone. It leaves no record."

Basis for Tax Millage Remains Unsettled; Balance on Hand

Cuts of $4,250 were made in the 1934 budget of the Board of Public Education at a meeting of the finance and administration committee in a three-hour session last night. Action on larger estimates in the $13,867,372.94 total was deferred.

Of the cut, $4,000 was lopped off the setup for manual training supplies in high schools, the remainder from a $1,500 item for repairs and upkeep of the administration building and grounds.

No accurate forecast is available as yet of the total valuation upon which the millage must be based, Alexander P. Reed, committee chairman, said. He defended the refusal of the board a year ago to reduce the 1933 levy from 11¾ mills.

Reed said that the board expects to end this year with an unexpended cash balance of $639,720 in the general fund unimpaired. He said:

"Because of economies effected during the year and with possible stimulation in the payment of taxes from now on to the end of the year, this unexpended balance may be somewhat increased."

Elimination of a setup of $25,522 for playgrounds for after school and on Saturdays was suggested by Joseph Bialas, new member of the board. Of the amount $18,772 was set aside for salaries and $6,750 for supplies and expenses.

Taxpayers League Opposes Board's 'Frills and Fancies'

A recommendation that "chauffeur and automobile maintenance for high salaried executives must be taken care of by the recepients of the high salaries," is made in a letter forwarded by I. Leonard Aronson, president of the Taxpayers League to the Board of Public Education. It was addressed to A. P. Reed, chairman of the finance committee. It read in part:

"The taxpayers cannot stand for new school buildings at this time. Furthermore, by curtailment of unessential activities in line with your committee's recommendation, much floor space would be made available.

"Time has not permitted a careful study of the proposed budget, however, we will have representation at all budget hearings who will attend in the spirit of co-operation, lending every possible assistance towards lowering the rate of taxation without unduly affecting the education of the children of Pittsburgh, nor making the comparatively low-salaried teacher or employe bear the brunt.

"Frills and fancies must go. High-salaried executives with expensive assistants, chief clerks, directors and assistants can no longer be afforded. Chauffeurs and automobile maintenance for high priced executives must be taken care of by the recipients of the high salaries, which salaries we expect you to pare down considerably, as well as eliminate some assistants and associates."

School Board Aide Gets 30-Year Term

MONTROSE, Pa., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Pleading guilty to an indictment containing 156 counts of forgery, Arthur J. Wheaton, 42, former banker and secretary of the Montrose School Board, has been sentenced to 30 years in the Eastern Penitentiary.

Sentence was imposed last night on six of the counts. Authorities said about $40,000 was involved in the reputed forgery.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 31.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

Going to buy gold on the world market now. What we been buying has been just "home talent" gold.

Will Rogers

They claim the more you buy, and the more you pay, the cheaper your dollar will get. Well, you will have no trouble on foreign support in this scheme. It will be no hardship for them to charge you even five dollars an ounce.

Now here is what us dumb ones don't get. When we had practically half the world's gold, our dollar was still higher than a flag pole sitter. But this is no place for the ignorant, for there is two people you can't argue with,—one is a professor, for he has specs, and the other is an economist, for he has a title.

Yours, WILL.

Coal Producers Dubious Toward Price-Fixing But Are Willing to Give New Methods a Trial

Must Now Compete On Tame Basis of Quality, Service

This is the fifth of a series of articles on the past, present and future of the coal industry. Yesterday's story having dealt with the NRA coal code's effect on labor, today's deals with its effect on production and sales. The series will be concluded tomorrow with an article on the future of the industry, particularly in Western Pennsylvania.)

By HOWARD BROWNING

Can they make a gentleman out of Old King Coal?

Rough and tumble raised him to his throne; rough and tumble kept him there, and rough and tumble put him on the skids.

And today the once mighty monarch totters feebly around in an attempt to stage a comeback while he winces to think that they're trying to make a sissy out of him.

The result of setting minimum prices for coal whereby, theoretically, everybody can make a profit is to place the emphasis in competition on quality and service, rather than price. And price has always been the deciding factor in the question of who sold coal and who shut down his mine.

Aren't Convinced

Coal producers aren't convinced in favor of price fixing.

Many feel that minimum prices, if they ensure even the high cost—low efficiency—mines a profit, must be so high that bituminous coal will find itself losing more and more business to the more convenient and more expensive competing fuels—gas and oil and electricity.

But one ton of good bituminous coal at $5—its present average retail cost, delivered—is still equal to about 24,000 cubic feet of natural gas for $14 or $15 at present prices.

So coal men are willing to give the new system a fling and see how it works. Meanwhile, they rack their brains for effective means of competing on the gentle planes of quality and service.

Fair Practices

The coal code set up a system of fair practices for the industry. A list of these, exclusive of labor provisions discussed in earlier articles of this series, would include:

1—Coal must not be sold under the established fair price.

2—Chiseling of any kind—and several are specifically named—to take advantage of or otherwise beat the fair price list is banned.

3—Advertising matter, analyses and descriptions of coal, and invoices must be true and correct.

4—Terms of all sales must be adhered to; any adjustments not likewise made to all customers are violations of the code.

5—Operators must not encourage customers to break contracts with competitors.

Each violation, under the National Industrial Recovery Act, is punishable by a fine of $500; every day of violation is considered a separate offense. And that should help make the industry behave.

Hog-Wild for Years

The imposition of all those prohibitions on an industry that has run hog-wild for years, cutting prices, breaking contracts, getting business by hook or crook, at a loss or at a profit, is little short of revolutionary.

Appropriate checks and balances have been set up to insure careful observance of code provisions by all and sundry.

For administration purposes, the country has been partitioned into five divisions. Largest and most important is division No. 1, including all of Pennsylvania, Ohio, the lower peninsula of Michigan, Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Northern Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina.

In each of these divisions a Code Authority is established made up of representatives of operators within its confines.

Code Authorities

Division No. 1 has been sliced into sub-divisions, of which Western Pennsylvania is one.

Here the Coal Control Association of Western Pennsylvania, a trade association of operators formed in accordance with the code, has set up the sub-divisional code authority. Its final completion today awaits naming of the presidential member. One sits with each authority.

The duty of the code authorities is to compile information of the size, quality, chemical properties and geological formation of the various coals in all the mines in their districts and to establish from the finding the fair price lists.

It is also within their purview to enforce the fair practices provisions and to see that the coal industry keeps itself spic and span and Sunday clean.

All the Code Authorities of the country are united by one National Bituminous Coal Industrial Board, composed of members of the several authorities.

U. S. Board on Job

To the national board goes the problem of co-ordinating and unifying fair practices and minimum prices of all districts and of suggesting changes and amendments to the coal code in the public interest or in that of the industry when they don't conflict.

Already a set of minimum prices for mines serviced by railroads—rail mines—has been arranged for this district and co-ordinated with the Ohio and West Virginia schedules.

All prices are at the mine mouth. For run-of-mine coal—coal not graded and sized and sorted—the basic price is $1.70 hereabouts.

Already complications have arisen. Rail mines find the coal is profitably marketed at a fair retail price of about $5 a ton.

But coal from dozens of small mines, which either deliver their coal on trucks or load it on the trucks of purchasers can be set down in the city and sold at a profit for $3.75 a ton.

Rail Mines Object

That proved to be the first stumbling block of the code authority here. On October 16, B. F. Hoffacker, manager of the Subdivisional Code Authority of Western Pennsylvania advertised that a code of minimum prices had been set for truck mines. Then he suddenly withdrew the prices.

Objections of rail mines, which couldn't compete with truck mines in domestic deliveries, brought up the point that Hoffaker had advertised the prices before they were officially approved.

The matter still remains to be adjusted, with truck mines selling at rail mine prices and without that advantage in competition normally theirs by virtue of lower transportation costs. In other words, their f. o. b. mine price is about $1.25 higher than that of the rail mines.

Meanwhile, it becomes obvious that, since the price lists are expected to make possible the survival of all mines, the more efficient the mine, the greater the profit.

Anticipate Profits

And some of the Pittsburgh district mines, highly machanized, using fewer men for each ton of coal that they produce, are anticipating enormous profits under the new arrangement.

And that should lead to good dividends and to further development of efficiency and labor saving devices on their part, while the less efficient, or high cost, mines struggle along with a small profit on what they sell. Any profit, of course, will be a welcome change for the entire industry.

But those guarantees of profit on every ton of coal sold don't guarantee that the producer will sell any tons.

There is nothing in the code to restrict the encroachment of new competition.

The only present hope of the established operators is that their more efficient sales methods and that their larger possible expenditures to create markets will enable them to outsell the "snowbirds"—operators of small mines opening whenever advantageous prices prevail.

Lower Cost of Loading

Reliable figures to compare the positions of the various coal producing sections on the great consuming markets aren't yet to be had.

A hasty survey by one coal operator, however, indicates that the lower cost of loading cars in some southern producing sections and a lower minimum f. o. b. mine price, combine to make sufficient saving to offset slightly higher freight rates to Michigan and Ohio lake consuming centers and to enable the southerners to sell cheaper than can Western Pennsylvania operators.

The halycon days of which every coal operator has dreamed for years, when his geographical nearness to markets will be of proper advantage to him, are not yet here.

Many-Ringed Circus

The problem is too new and the situation is still too unsettled to pass any ruling on it. The indications are that this district is on the short end of the stick. But it will take several more weeks before the operators themselves definitely know.

Meanwhile, the interesting part of this many-ringed circus today is that in which the coal industry is struggling toward gentility.

Modern sales methods, modern integrity and modern business ethics are entering the coal business through the NRA code. Whether the code succeeds in restoring coal or fails in restoring coal to its former prosperity, the new fair practices will probably hang on permanently, to some degree at least.

LOOSE CONTROL ALSO CHARGED BY AUDITOR

Vogt, With Attorney, Hears Reading Of Report

Faulty accounting and loose methods of control in the office of Prothonotary were alleged today in a report filed with the County Commissioners by M. C. Conick, of Main & Co.

John Vogt, Prothonotary, was present when the audit was read, with him was Attorney O. K. Eaton.

The report stated:

"The large volume of transactions, the faulty accounting system, and the loose method of control over cash transactions made the work extremely difficult."

A total of $120,365 in the cash balance, which should have been turned over to Vogt at the end of the administration of Will B. Kirker in 1920, has not been located, the audit stated.

2 SWORDSMEN RESCUE MAID

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The intruder who blundered into the home of a San Antonio family early today and ordered a servant girl to get up and make him a pot of coffee didn't know that two crack swordsmen from the Mexican Air Corps were visiting there.

Hearing the girl's cries, the Mexican airmen sprang from their beds and dashed to the rescue, carrying two gleaming sabers recently presented to them at Chanute Field, Ill.

The airmen cornered the intruder and flailed him across the back with the broad sides of their sabers. An unconditional surrender followed, and the prowler was escorted to the Charity Hospital for first aid. aLter he was taken to jail.

The two defenders introduced themselves to police as Lieuts. Ricardo Castaneda and Javier Gonzales of the Mexican Air Corps.

Couzens' Daughter Arrested in Traffic

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning, the former Margot Couzens, daughter of the multi-millionaire United States Senator from Michigan, ran afoul of the traffic regulations again yesterday.

A patrolman accused her of disobeying a stop sign near the White House and Mrs. Chewning was released on $2 collateral pending a hearing. A few months ago she forfeited collateral and escaped a hearing in Falls Church (Va.) Police Court on a charge of blowing her automobile horn unnecessarily.

Await Prosecution Of British Writer

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—The British government today altered its tactics and decided to play a waiting game in the case of Noel Panter, London Daily Telegraph correspondent, held by the Nazis in Munich on charges of espionage and treason.

Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon decided to await the first move by the German public prosecutor before taking further action. There is considerable speculation here as to how a foreign newspaper correspondent could be charged with "treason" against the German government.

Mrs. Pinchot Here En Route to Gary

En route to Gary, Ind., where she will address Amalgamated Association Iron, Steel and Tin Workers tonight, Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's Governor, made a brief stop at the Municipal Airport today.

She expressed wonderment at the police guard at the airport to protect from hecklers an armada of five autogiros bearing a message against the proposed state soldiers' bonus of $50,000,000, which Gov. Pinchot has indorsed.

No Exchange Is Fair If No One Makes a Profit

By ARTHUR (Bugs) BAER

World gold standard is now based on the franc, which is worth a nickel a clutch.

The English pound is no longer the bull of the financial herd. The American dollar has its face turned toward the wall. Looks like we are headed toward the grindstone currency of Easter Island.

We can go back further to the time when a man was rich in cattle, feed and land. That was the start of America. It won the West, tied the South and lost in the East.

If you haven't got money you're a bum. If you have enough you're a hoarder. If you have too much you're investigated by Pecora.

We tried to go back to our old system of a bushel of wheat for a pound of mutton. It didn't work. They are making the scales too accurate.

Gold and barter prove that no fair exchange is going to be popular unless somebody gets the best of it.

WORKER KILLED AT NEW P. O.

Charles Risto, 28, of 1300 Locust street, was crushed fatally in the mail tunnel between the new post-office building and the Pennsylvania Railroad station this morning.

Risto, employed by the John F. Casey Company, was dismantling an old manhole in the tunnel when it gave way, covering him with stone and pipes. Casey company officials said. He died a few minutes after being taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

Two fellow workers had climbed out of the manhole only a few minutes before the cave-in.

Prisoner Scorns Our Jail, Prefers Trial

Herman L. Wheeler, alias Ray Watson, 23, of Shreveport, La., does not like our county jail. At a hearing yesterday before the United States Commissioner he said he "didn't like the place" and voluntarily consented to his removal to the Federal District Court at Fort Smith, Ark., to answer a charge of breaking into a postoffice.

Wheeler, according to government officers, is wanted at Fort Smith for breaking into a postoffice at Lone Rock, Ark., March 23, 1931. He was arrested but escaped from the county jail at Harrison, Ark., by overpowering a guard.

A month ago he was arrested in Pittsburgh on a vagrancy charge and committed to the workhouse. Upon his release Saturday he was re-arrested on a federal warrant. While in the workhouse he was identified through fingerprints as the Arkansas fugitive.

The commissioner on Saturday held him for removal to Arkansas on an automobile theft charge, but yesterday this charge was dropped.

U. S. MAY CARRY OWN SHIP MAIL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Possibilities that the government either will supervise more strictly ocean air mail subsidies, abandon them entirely, or even take over operation of planes and ships were foreseen today by Senator Black (Dem.), Alabama.

The need for remedial legislation, the Senator said, has been shown by the special Senate committee of which he is chairman. Although Black saw these three steps as possibilities, he did not indicate more specific lines which he thought the legislation might follow.

So far, he said, the committee in a month of hearings has touched only ocean mail subsidies, and but three companies at that. Things that are brought out in the coming air mail study, and scrutinies of some 15 steamship companies yet to be taken up, may develop a definite trend toward one of the possibilities, Black added.

ART CRITIC DEAN O. K.'S EXHIBIT

Of the Pittsburgh prize winner, Alexander Kostellow, he said:

"Kostellow has a confused picture, a big picture and for some reason he calls it 'After Dinner.' It has, however, a little quality, a little talent and a little style."

The nudes in the show are tolerable, according to the critic, while one, from the Scandinavian section looked to him "as if it were made of broken bottles."

Co-Eds in Their Own 'Charm School'

CO-EDS LEARN TO BE MODELS

Preparing for the annual Pitt fall style show, 20 co-eds were pupils in a "model class" yesterday. The show is set for the Hotel Schenley at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Smart shops will outfit the girls in the latest modes today. Yesterday afternoon the models practiced walking with the ease and grace of the professional mannequin.

Between times, with a tape measure, they ascertained the correct height for an afternoon dress to hang above the floor, and other points of style.

Natalie Hagen, a co-ed who has been a model in Pittsburgh stores, was one of the teachers. A good model, she pointed out, walks and pivots slowly and gracefully, and walks in a straight line. The head is up, the toes are pointed straight ahead, and the carriage and gesture is graceful and easy.

JOBS OHIO SLAYING CHARGE TO 2

Refusing to disclose his evidence, Prosecutor A. L. Hooper, of Jefferson County, O., today had filed first degree murder charges against Frank Romona, 30, of Pittsburgh, and Thomas Viola, 32, of Follansbee, in connection with the slaying of Benjamin F. Oliver, 59, former mayor and political leader of Yorkville, O.

Romona and Viola are being held in the County Jail at Steubenville, O. They were arrested in Bridgeport, O., shortly after the former Pittsburgher had been shot to death near his home.

The charges were filed after two boys found a shotgun along the Ohio River highway, near Gaylord mine, south of Steubenville. One empty shell and another containing slugs made of a lead ball cut into four pieces such as those used to kill Oliver, were in the gun.

The gun was brought to Pittsburgh to be checked for fingerprints.

EDITOR'S WIFE

Her $1,000 in jewelry stolen during a visit to Baltimore, Mrs. W. U. Chessman, wife of the managing editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, was at home today in her Schenley apartment.

She was staying at the Lord Baltimore Hotel yesterday with Mrs. George M. Lippert, of the Royal Yorke Apartments, and Mrs. Elizabeth E. Castle, of 830 Mellon street, when a burglar entered their hotel room early in the morning and escaped with the jewelry.

Mrs. Castle was visiting her son, Gates, at the Naval Academy at Annapolis. She is the widow of Attorney Homer Castle, one time Prohibition party candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania.

The three women motored back to Pittsburgh, arriving here last night.

COX PLANS TRIP TO FAIR FINALE

Father Cox has been so successful with his excursions to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago that he is now organizing another trip to take in the colorful closing festivities. Fair officials are making preparations for a mammoth celebration for Armistice Day, Saturday, November 11, and for the following day.

Father Cox is planning for his party to leave Pittsburgh Friday night, November 10, and get home the following Monday morning, remaining at the fair grounds long enough to witness the climax of two days of festivity.

He will make a small profit on every person he takes to Chicago and this will be contributed for the upkeep of the Welfare work at Old St. Patrick's.

HIGHWAY POLICE WIN TARGET CONTEST

The State Highway Patrol Pistol Team No. 1 today holds first place in the ninth annual police team revolver shoot and the honor of making the highest team score since the series began.

At the match held on the Sewickley Heights estate of Thomas A. McGinley, the State Highway Patrol team, composed of Corp. Feloni, Corp. Frazier, Corp. Cross and Patrolman Jones, scored 1,091 out of 1,200; the State Police of West Virginia No. 1 team, composed of Sergt. Stout, Sergt. Clark, Trooper Beckett and Trooper Hall, scored 1,076 out of 1,200, and Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation team, composed of Stauffer, Zimmer, Gilmore and Fahlfelder, scored 1,027 out of 1,200.

Troop A of the Pennsylvania State Police, the winners of the cup in 1931 and 1932, were unable to compete yesteray as all available men were on duty in industrial districts.

Hall, of the West Virginia State Police, won individual high score with 276 out of a possible 300. His score at 50 yards was 87 points.

For the fourth consecutive year Sewickley Heights Township Police team won the cup for high score among borough and township police with a score of 1,017.

ITALIAN CONSUL TO BE FETED

Under the auspices of the Italian Legion, an organization of Italian World War veterans similar to the American Legion, the Italian community of Pittsburgh is sponsoring a banquet at the Schenley Hotel, November 12, to the new Italian consul, Chevalier Don Leone Sircana.

Mr. Sircana

Sr. Sircana, prominent in the Mussolini regime, comes to Pittsburgh from Novo-Sibirsk, in the Soviet Union.

In the World War, he was decorated with the silver medal of Italy for conspicuous gallantry under fire. He is 38 years of age, and his wife is a Chicagoan.

Many city officials will attend the banquet, as well as executives of local universities. Attorney Charles Margiotti will be toastmaster and Judge M. A. Musmanno and Mayor John S. Herron will speak.

C. V. STARRETT IN BUHL GROUP

C. V. Starrett has been named associate director of the Buhl Foundation, Charles F. Lewis, director of the organization, announced today.

Starrett has been editor of the Pittsburgh Record, University of Pittsburgh critical and literary magazine, for five years. Previously he was in the public relations and advertising field.

He will head a newly organized department of social studies made necessary by growth of the foundation's interests and activities.

Established by the will of Henry Buhl, Jr., Pittsburgh department store founder, the Buhl Foundation has made grants totalling more than $1,250,000, chiefly for research, experiments and demonstrations, in the social and natural sciences.

Mothers' Class Meets Downtown

A mothers' class was to be conducted today by the Homewood sub-station of the Public Health Nursing Association in the Welfare Fund Building, 519 Smithfield street. At 4 p. m. Miss Jean Moore was to be in charge of a demonstration of the proper care, dress and equipment for infants.

CAROL MAY WED BORIS' SISTER

International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The London Daily Mail today published a report that King Boris of Bulgaria and King Carol of Rumania, in their conference yesterday aboard a yacht on the Danube River, discussed possibility of a marriage between King Carol and Princess Eudoxia, elder sister of King Boris.

Several years ago King Carol and his former wife, Princess Helen, were divorced.

SOFIA, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Increased oppositionist activity today prompted the Bulgarian government to close all border points leading into Rumania temporarily to avoid disturbances in the negotiations between the monarchs of the two nations.

In many circles, the formal conference between King Carol and King Boris was hailed as an impetus to peace.

County Employe, Ex-Burgess Hurt

DAVID B. OLIVER 99 TODAY

To David B. Oliver, long a leader in Pittsburgh's educational and industrial life, Halloween means the passing of another milestone—his 99th.

Forsaking receptions of previous years in celebration of the event, Mr. Oliver will be guest of honor at a family dinner in the Oliver home on Termon avenue.

During the day he will receive old friends to accept their congratulations.

Otherwise the day will be ordinary. He rises around lunch time and during the afternoon, if the weather permits, takes a motor trip about the city.

A birthday greeting signed by 3,050 students of the Oliver High School will be presented to Mr. Oliver this afternoon by Donald Payne, president of the student council.

OLD SHADY SIDE CLUB TO SING

With United States Senator David A. Reed as chief speaker, a special program marking the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Shady Side Academy will be held on the academy grounds, Fox Chapel road, Monday night.

The academy glee club of 30 years ago will be reassembled for the program. Other features will be a history of the institution by Attorney Marcus W. Acheson, Jr., and a musical program by the school orchestra and alumni. Gordon Fisher, '91, will be chairman.

A dinner will precede the program.

Woman's Death Cause For Coroner's Quiry

Deputy coroners are today investigating the death of Mrs. Margaret M. Thompson Cochenour, 29, of 536½ Fifth avenue, McKeesport, at the request of her relatives. Although her death was reported due to natural causes, relatives said that injuries received in an automobile accident two years ago caused her demise. Until two months ago, Mrs. Cochenour was a patient in the McKeesport Hospital. She was then removed to the Presbyterian Hospital, where she died Saturday.

Vote Law Violators Held for Court

Andrew Sydor, of 1104 Muriel street; Leo Garvey, of 20½ South Thirteenth street, and Michael Gatarski, of 1022 Bingham street, accused of election law violations during the primary, were held for court in $1,000 bond yesterday by Justice of the Peace James A. Hernon, of Sharpsburg.

The three were said to have been giving illegal assistance to voters in the Fifth District of the Seventeenth Ward.

TRIBUTE IN N. Y. TO SOPHIE LOEB

New York has honored the memory of a former McKeesport woman, Sophie Irene Loeb.

The newest playground in Manhattan, at Henry and Market streets, was dedicated the Sophie Irene Loeb playground, as a tribute to the late newspaper writer.

August Heckscher, philanthropist, Park Commissioner John E. Sheehy spoke, and Gov. Lehman and other prominent New Yorkers sent messages. Mrs. Jennie MacMahon, a sister of Miss Loeb, was present.

FEDERAL BONDS ACCEPTABLE TO BLAWNOX

Acceptance by the borough of Blawnox of bonds of the Home Owners Loan Corporation—the first in the state to take such action—will prevent the sale of homes for delinquent taxes, Attorney J. B. Wallace, special solicitor, said last night at a meeting of Blawnox residents in Mechanics Hall.

Attorney Wallace's statement was in reply to a question asked by George Walzer, organizer of the meeting as to "how this game can be licked." Walzer also revealed the low tax millage paid by surrounding boroughs. To which Attorney Wallace replied:

"If owners of some of the idle estates would pay taxes, it would reduce the millage and lighten your burden."

Attorney Wallace said Council had agreed to accept the Home Owner's bonds instead of cash at the insistance of the Blawnox Post, No. 555, American Legion.

Refuses to Give Key, Thugs Beat Boy

Eidell Rudd, 15, Negro, told Center avenue police early today that two Negroes had slugged and imprisoned him in Humber way for more than two hours because he wouldn't give them a key to the chain store at 2500 Wylie avenue, where he is employed as an errand boy. Police are searching for the two men, who accosted the youth as he walked on Wylie avenue.

BRIDGE CRASH INJURES GIRL

Mona Pfeifer, 18, of 2433 Arlington avenue, suffered lacerations early today when the auto in which she was a passenger ran over the curb on the Twenty-second Street Bridge and tore 10 to 15 feet of railing loose. She was treated at South Side Hospital. Her companion was David Edwards, 26, of 2429 Patterson street, according to police.

Frederick Renard, 43, of Leeside Drive, Lincoln Place, struck by an automobile driven by John McGeary, 27, of 64 Fritz street, at Mifflin road and Interboro street, Lincoln Place, is in Homestead Hospital, suffering a fractured skull and lacerations. McGeary was arrested after he took Renard to the hospital.

Pittsburgh Golf Club Leading in Bridge

The Pittsburgh Golf Club, victor over the Edgeworth Club, took the lead in the inter-club duplicate bridge tourney being played in the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club.

The Duquesne Club won over the Pittsburgh Athletic Association and the Keystone Athletic Club from the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club. The match between the University Club and the Engineers' Society ended in a tie.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

Patricia Pitt

Another myth that's been exploded is that often-heard statement Pittsburgh audiences are cold. Even though it was going on 12 o'clock last night when the curtain fell on "Mary of Scotland" playing at the Nixon the audience remained to applaud and applaud as Helen Hayes and Helen Menken as Mary Queen of Scots and Queen Elizabeth took curtain call after curtain call.

It was an almost capacity audience scintillating with social registerities. And a very smartly dressed one. Dinner dresses were decidedly in the lead, and most suitable they are for intermission visits in the lobby, inevitably cold.

And wraps when of velvet are preferrably long and most regal. The fur jackets with shaved white lapin predominating were shorter and nearly all boasted wide Ascot scarves of the fur.

Virginia Drake, whom I saw chatting with Paul Mellon, chose a dinner gown in the princess mode having the short bodice of rough white crepe and a graceful skirt of black. Her sleeves were elbow length, and slightly puffed.

Dinner Gowns

I had a glimpse of the Alan Magee Scaifes with Mrs. Scaife in her favorite theater costume, black velvet. The William D. Georges were there with Mrs. George, the former Mary Franklin Robinson, looking charming in a sapphire blue uncut velvet dinner gown.

Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacobs's copper-red satin gown had long, tight-fitting sleeves. And the bodice was cut in a deep V in back.

Rosemary Casey, who arrived with Mrs. Sidney W. Binns, wore a swagger jacket of white lapin with a smart white lapin Ascot scarf over her black satin gown.

La Salle Dorrance, whose marriage will be the outstanding event of Saturday, was there with her fiance, William Y. Humphreys. She wore a long-sleeved dinner gown, too, with the gold lame bodice cut high in front. The skirt was of deep mulberry crepe.

Bride Attends

One of the most interesting gowns was worn by pretty Mrs. T. Howe Nimick. It was of gold dotted green taffeta with gold cloth lining the brief flared caps over the shoulders.

I had a glimpse of Mrs. James O. Flower, of Mrs. Edward Wallis Wood in flame red crepe, of Mrs. John A. Murtland, Mrs. A. P. Brill, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Mrs. Dorwin Donnelly and Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, Mrs. H. Allen Machesney and Mrs. Joseph H. Bialas.

Sitting together were the F. G. Blackburns and the William Lloyd Standishes, the III. The Nelson Vance Harpers were there, as were Frances Fitzgerald, Mrs. Simon T. Patterson in black satin, Mrs. John W. Lawrence in black velvet, the Oliver Kellers, Frances Johnston, and Mrs. J. L. D. Painter.

Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr. wore a most interesting wrap of rum brown velvet fitted to the figure and cut very long. Over the dropped shoulder line were flat capes of the velvet.

Brown Velvet

A full-length emerald green wrap was worn by Mrs. Edwin Rhea, and her sister Elizabeth Jenkins had a wrap of white velvet having pleated bretelles of the velvet for decoration. Her gown was of orange satin.

Mrs. A. S. F. Keister wore copper green velvet. Genevieve Bell chose orchid crepe. Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr. chose deep melon pink satin having finely pleated narrow ruffles of the satin at the shoulder. Mrs. William Christopher Robinson wore a swagger length wrap of white lapin over her black velvet gown.

Others I recall seeing were the Reginald Macdonald, Ruth Friday, Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins, Mrs. Charles Flaccus, Mrs. J. L. D. Painter, Helen MacCloskey, The David I. McCahills and their twin daughters, Marie and Marguerite, dressed alike in rough black crepe dinner dresses having a fringe of ermine tails across the shoulders in back, Mrs. Kirkland Wiley Todd, Mrs. D. M. Clemson in blue velvet.

Miss Louise Brown Sets November 23 for Wedding

November is to be a popular month not only for debutante parties, but for weddings as well, and already a number of November dates have been named for the marriages of prominent persons.

On the twenty-third day of that month Louise Brown, daughter of the A. J. Browns of the Schenley Apartments, is to wed John Guerin Flannery, son of Mrs. Joseph M. Flannery, of Dithridge street.

The ceremony is to take place in St. Paul's Cathedral with only the two families in attendance.

Aides Announced For Century's Reception

The vice presidents, honorary presidents and honorary members have been asked to receive with the president, Mrs. Charles S. Shoemaker at the Twentieth Century Club's reception Thursday afternoon. The hours are from 4 until 7 o'clock.

The vice presidents are Mrs. Frank Trevor Hogg, Mrs. David Wilson Kuhn, Mrs. John A. Murtland and Mrs. H. H. McClintic. Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., and Miss Julia Morgan Harding are the honorary presidents and Mrs. William Reed Thompson, Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Mrs. William Anderson and Miss Beulah E. Kennard are the honorary members.

Mrs. W. Eugene Gary, heading the hospitality committee, will be assisted by a number of the members who will preside at the tea tables.

These include Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock, Mrs. Silas N. Benham, Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, Mrs. D. M. Clemson, Mrs. Herbert DuPuy, Mrs. David Lindsay Gillespie, Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard, Mrs. James I. Kay, Miss Martha Jamison, Mrs. James B. Macfarlane, Mrs. Richard Beatty Mellon, Mrs. Thomas A. Mellon, Mrs. William Larimer Mellon, Mrs. Mortimer C. Miller, Mrs. James Hay Reed, Mrs. William B. Rodgers, Mrs. John D. Shafer and Mrs. Francis J. Torrance.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

The young man being weighed in the picture at the top of the page finds hospitals rather terrifying, and having his picture taken was just too much.

It took two pennies, the gift of the two volunteer social workers, Eleanor Smith and Mrs. William Rimer, to bolster his courage.

The two young women with many others do volunteer clerical work and all sorts of tasks for the social service department of West Penn Hospital.

The slowest bridal procession I've ever seen was at the Stewart-Congdon wedding Saturday. The reason—the little flower girl, Clare Davison, of Edgewood. She was so tiny that it took her a long, long time to reach the altar.

With her hoop-skirted white velvet gown of the early Nineteenth Century and her flattering poke bonnet of white velvet, she was the quaintest little flower girl I've ever seen.

She was intrigued with the stiff lace puff surrounding her old-fashioned bouquet, and in the long wait in the vestibule she kept fingering it.

Mothers Invited To Duquesne Guild Tea

The Women's Guild of Duquesne University will establish a precedent at Duquesne University Friday afternoon. Mothers and faculty members will join the women of the guild in the annual freshman tea and reception to be given from 2 to 4:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the school of music. This will be the first time either the mothers or faculty members have attended a freshman function.

The freshman tea is the first important social event on the school calendar. Mrs. W. C. Eichenlaub, of Edgewood Acres, president of the Women's Guild, is general chairman.

The Women's Athletic Association will hold an informal dance tonight in the university gymnasium. The decorations will be in keeping with Hallowe'en. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert J. Trageser will be chaperones.

Costume Recital Starts Season for Sewickley Valley Woman's Club

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Another year was begun yesterday by the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club when it held its president's day reception in the Edgeworth Club. Mrs. John Easton McKirdy and her executive board received together before the program, which was a costume recital by Senora Bertita Leonarz Harding.

Senora Harding, whose girlhood home still stands on the edge of Chapultepec forest, said her family was one of those which stayed behind when the fantastic dream of a European empire in Mexico failed. "The last gesture of European royalty on this continent," she called the attempt of the Hapsburg Maximilian to establish a court with the promised assistance of Napolen III.

Appearing in a replica of one of the Empress Carlotta's gowns, Senora Harding told the tragic and colorful tale of the Belgian-born princess who accompanied her ill-fated husband to Mexico, and who, bereft of her reason, survived him for 60 years.

It's a tremendous task Senora Harding sets herself—this recital, which is in reality a monologue of an hour's length. But it lacks dramatic force, chiefly perhaps because it is written in monotone and fails to maintain the personal note which is set at the beginning when poor mad Carlotta greets her visionary acquaintances and addresses her waiting woman.

Theodore Fuchs, author of the book, "Stage Lighting," will be guest speaker at the morning session of the second drama institute, to be held Saturday in the Pennsylvania College for Women under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Drama League. Mr. Fuchs, who has been lighting expert for Walter Hampden and consulting illuminating engineer for the General Electric Company, is now on the teaching staff of Northwestern University and is stage manager for the Goodman Theater, of Chicago. He will speak at 11 o'clock on "Lighting for Amateur Plays."

Chester B. Story, a former president of the organization, will be toastmaster at the luncheon meeting, and responding briefly to toasts will be Mrs. George Phelps Rose, co-founder of the Sewickley and the Pittsburgh Drama League; Mrs. Enoch Rauh, one of the founders of the Pittsburgh league; Irwin D. Wolf, patron of the league for the last 10 years, and Mrs. Charles M. Bregg, of the Sun-Telegraph. Dorothy Devlin, whose birthday is coincidental with that of the league, will bring greetings from the undergraduates at Carnegie Tech Drama League, where she is a senior.

Reservation for the luncheon are required through Ray E. Hurd, Bellefonte street, not later than tomorrow. Other members of the luncheon committee are Mrs. Albert Pettit, Mrs. H. Allen Machesney and Mrs. T. C. Clifford. Miss Vanda E. Kerst, of the college, is general chairman of the institute.

Congress Department Outlines Study Plan

The home department of the Congress of Clubs has outlined a plan of study for the year which will include the home as a source of citizenship and as a legislative force, education in things underlying home problems, family readjustments due to present day changes, and realization of the home as a center of sociability and friendship. Mrs. Rollins A. Haddock, Jr., is the new department chairman.

SPEED AND STYLE IN STREAMLINES

By PRUNELLA WOOD

A felt "tear drop" with a silver airplane gadget.

BEAUTY in industry has gone to women's heads at last. Enter the streamlined hat which takes its cue from everything speedy in this great age we live in, from the locomotive to the latest thing in gasoline buggies. Scarce a bolt or nut or fender which has been overlooked in these new bonnet designs, and there may be hand grenades and egg beaters waiting for us right around the corner.

Fortunately for up and coming American women who like style along with their novelties, it seems that the tear drop—that slightly pointed globular shape which a drop of water assumes when it is dropping—is pretty well within the beret persuasion, so that hats modelled on this symbol of speed look a lot like hats, and pretty smart ones at that.

BUT it is the idea of clamping a locomotive or a baby blimp on the fresh coiffure which will really interest women most, it is likely. Well, it is not so ponderous as it sounds. Take a squint at the next nice shiny new car radiator you see, and imagine its symmetrical slots and headlights adapted in silver miniature and mounted on a sloping toque of black felt, and you may get the idea. That is, roughly, the way streamlined models are born, just by adapting some aero-dynamic gadget into a piece of feminine fantasy and hardware.

There is something more than ingenious adaptaion behind the streamlined models, however; like the objects they stem from, they offer a minimum of wind resistance, and are hats which will stay on in a gale whether they are sports models being stamped around seagoing decks or little formal flutterbys that must be worn across the windy plaza between the door of a car and the door of a hotel.

Even the brimmed streamlined hats get bent into the tear drop mold which makes them very good for wear with winter furs which usually get tangled inextricably with brims. The point of the drop coming to a head at the center back of the brim pushes the whole model up in the air a bit in a way that would be no news to M. Watteau.

MANY of these streamlined hats are being bought over the country by merchants who see the ensembling possibilities of novel models that introduce plenty of metal trimmings; it's a lame winter, so to speak, and the hat, slipper, or gown that has its share of bright hardware or metallic fabric in its design is going to make the grade with lots of shoppers. Certain classics, like the Mercury wings employed on seven models, are perennial favorites with women, anyway, and they will be amused at having a 1933 reason for wearing them.

Like all the new hats, these streamlined models leave little of the coiffure to the imagination. They have lines which will show off a cluster of ear curls, or a skillfully waved back coiffure with the best of the less imaginative hats.

Through the Spyglass
Viewing the New

You know about the "ill wind which blows nobody some good" . . . and the wind which has blown the following items across the vision of the spyglass has proved a good one. For information on where to find the things mentioned below, call Grant 6500 and ask for the Spyglass . . . or send a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Nowadays you will not exclaim "hang-it-all" in vain . . . for there are hang-it-all kits which contain two glass jars and two bottles in their middles . . . and hang beside your dressing table or on the bathroom wall waiting for your eager hands! Personally, we would take them to the office with us (you business girls) because they look exactly like handbags . . . the envelope type . . . and come in calf leather in blue, green, red, and tan. Waterproof . . . nicely lined . . . and $1.

What! Not a "rag to your back." Come with us as we prance gaily in the door of a shop which works wonders for $7.95 and $10.95. The first ($7.95) being some wool frocks than which there is nothing better for this sum. Made with the plastered-against-your-front effect which is so good now. . . .

fin shoulder and two huge cookies of buttons sitting at each. The frocks come in greys, rust shades, greens . . . and wear howling plaids in Ascot ties at the throat.

And the second assortment brings you velvets for $10.95. It hasn't been three days since someone called us and asked where they could buy velvet frocks for around $12! Here they are . . . for less. The one we particularly liked being a lush black with tight wristbands (long sleeves as are so popular now) and slashed to the elbow. And wearing a tiny corded silver cloth turn-over collar and rolls of same at the shoulder.

Irrelevant!

Thought we'd get a bit of masculine chit-chat (insofar as this column must be everything for everyone!) . . . so we asked one of the boy-friends to write a paragraph for us. He would be delighted, we gather, to write about Mae West. No sale!

Hot or cold . . . these thermometers have it their own way! Neat little tricks they are in their red and brown leatherette cases with gold metal rims . . . looking like traveling clocks at first glance! Excellent for the informal bridge gift, too! Only 75c! Have YOU a little thermometer in your home?

Here we are with a little posy clutched in our fist . . . we snitched it out of a potful which one of the shops is offering special! Chrysanthemums . . . the pompom ones . . . in white, yellow and bronze . . . great bushy pots of them for 75c. Be sure to have one under your arm when you go home from your shopping!

Now . . . we wouldn't be knowing about pipe smoking, but we know someone who does . . . and HE says that these pipes we saw are the last and final shout in pipe-dom! In other words, gather 'round all . . . and get an earful of what to do about your pipe-smoking sweetie for Christmas, if not before!

These are called Grand Slam . . . and are made by the very papa of all good little pipes. And what's better (they tell us) is that they have a special gadget inside them which insures a "dry" smoke . . . something which took someone two years thinking to produce. Also 150 styles . . . which should prove interesting to men who might like to choose their own (tell them about it) . . . priced $3.50.

Aspinwall Woman's Club To Fete Guests Friday

Each member of the Aspinwall Womans' Club has been asked to invite a guest to the club's guest night, Friday, in the clubhouse. Dr. G. A. Yoakham, of the University of Pittsburgh, will be the speaker and a quartet composed of Richard M. Fischer, Charles L. Billeter, J. Irvine Miller and J. Reed Miller will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Billeter. Mrs. Charles T. Topping will add violin solos.

The literature and arts department has changed its meeting date from November 7 to the ninth. After a book review luncheon in the clubhouse the members will go to Carnegie Institute to view the International.

The musical revue to be sponsored by the music department and junior members will take place Thursday and Friday evenings of next week under the direction of Mrs. L. L. Vayda and Mrs. C. E. Connor. As it is a benefit the public is invited.

Another change in the calendar is that for the regular meeting of the juniors, who will gather on the fourteenth in the clubhouse instead of on the seventh. Miss Olive Koenig will discuss the International Art Exhibit and Miss Katrine Pratt will sing. The juniors are giving a dance in the clubhouse on Friday night, November 17.

The evening department, which will hold its regular meeting on November 13, will also sponsor a bridge party on the twenty-third at the clubhouse. Mrs. Martin Leiseder will direct an evening of music at the regular meeting.

On November 17 the club will visit the Boggs and Buhl homes display.

Mrs. Grandy, Mrs. Watkins P. T. A. Luncheon Guests

The second day of the Parent-Teacher institute, sponsored by the City Council Parent-Teacher Association, is featured today by a luncheon in the College Club.

Mrs. Joseph Grandey, district president of the Pennsylvania Parent-Teacher Congress, and Mrs. Arthur C. Watkins, who is conducting the institute, are the guests of honor.

Music to Mark Founders Day of Mu Phi Epsilon

When Mu Phi Epsilon's Pittsburgh Alumni Club celebrates founder's day on November 13, Margaret Spaulding Stockdale, soprano; Mabel King and Carolyn Hunt Mahaffey, contraltos; Beulah Taylor Marston, accompanist, and one of the new members, Elizabeth Cook, of Wheeling, will give the program. The celebration will take the form of a musical tea at the College Club from 4 until 6 o'clock. Pitt music students have been invited to attend it.

St. John High School Class to Present Play

The Sophomore class of St. John the Baptist High School will present a comedy, "Little Miss Fix-It," the evenings of November 13 and 14, in the Little Theater, Liberty avenue. A different cast will give the play each night, beginning at 8:15 o'clock.

THE RIGHT LAXATIVE FOR CHILDREN IS A LIQUID

NRA

The wrong laxative can give children chronic constipation before their tenth birthday.

Important, Mothers!

Doctors urge the use of a liquid laxative for children; preferably one with senna. A liquid laxative can be regulated as to dose. The natural laxative action of senna doesn't weaken the bowels. Druggists report increased sales of liquid laxatives. Mothers are rapidly discovering the great advantages of the liquid form. Thousands of cases of ill-health—and half-health—in children are being cleared-up just by stopping all use of laxatives of adult strength.

A Safe Treatment!

The preparation most favored for child use is California Syrup of Figs. It is a fruity syrup with the right amount of senna for gentle stimulation of a child's bowels. It gives the right kind of help.

If the bowels aren't moving regularly and thoroughly, don't give any medicine that drains the system dry. Give a liquid senna preparation like California Syrup of Figs. A little every day, and reduce the dose each day. At the end of one week—stop. You'll be surprised how long it will be before the bowels need any further help. It may be months.

Be sure you get the real California Syrup of Figs, with "California" on the label. If you get the right preparation, and use it the right way, you can absolutely end all worry over constant sluggish spells, bilious attacks, constipation.

All druggists keep California Syrup of Figs, ready for use. It is highly recommended for regulating children, and to undo the mischief done by habit-forming laxatives.

BANKERS ASSAIL SECURITY ACT RESTRICTIONS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Oct. 31.—The members of the Investment Bankers Association of America, at the first formal session of their twenty-second annual convention yesterday trained their big guns on the so-called unduly restrictive clauses of the new Federal Securities Act.

Mr. Rukeyser

The major argument was that the law does not entail regulation of the capital market but rather strangulation. Frank Gordon, the president, who is a vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago insisted that the law departed from the principles of regulation enunciated by President Roosevelt, with which the bankers purported to be in thorough sympathy.

Although denying that there is an organized strike on the part of capital against the legislation bankers held out dire possibilities in the event of failure on the part of Congress to amend the act.

WARNS OF DEFAULT

Mr. Gordon, in a press conference following his keynote address, warned of the possible default of many millions in corporate securities maturing in the next 15 months unless the federal act is amended. Between a billion and a billion and a half will mature in this period, Mr. Gordon estimated.

Chatting privately, a partner in a large New York investment banking firm told me that several of his clients, with maturities, had turned for temporary financing to commercial banks instead of bringing out new security issues. In one case, he said the management sought the permission of stockholders to pledge current assets.

NEW CREDIT FROZEN

Mr. Gordon said that the vague provision, fixing almost unlimited liability for directors of issuing corporations and for sponsoring investment bankers, had resulted in the "freezing of all new long term credit.

Insisting that the artificial blockade in the capital market had interfered with the processes of economic recovery in the United States, Mr. Gordon declared:

"A reservoir of money that can be translated into jobs for millions of people is being held back by the need for clarification of the liability section of the Federal Securities Act. All over the United States corporations are ready to undertake the necessary financing.

"But no corporation director in his senses is going to risk existing resources by putting his name on financing under a law that makes him personally liable for the next 10 years and adopts the un-American principle that he is to be judged guilty unless he can be shown innocent.

"It is time for some plain speaking. The law is a hindrance to national recovery. Personally I do not believe that any one ever intended to pass a law which makes a county dealer who handles $10,000 of a ten million-dollar issue liable for the entire ten million."

URGE CLARIFICATION

Following the president's speech the convention adopted a resolution demanding clarification of the act. The document read:

"Resolved, that the purpose of the Federal Securities Act of 1933, as stated in the title of the act, to assure investors adequate and correct information relative to enterprises on which securities are based, and to protect the investing public against losses caused by fraud of any kind practiced in any manner, have the entire approval and support of the Investment Bankers Association of America, and our association believes that every seller of securities should be liable to the buyer for any damage caused by negligence or bad faith on his part.

"It has been demonstrated however, that the effect of certain provisions of this legislation, which go beyond the express purposes of the act, has been to retard the normal flow of capital into business and industry as represented by new issues of established enterprises.

"The absence of a capital market may be attributed to several causes including the present unsettled economic conditions, but in the opinion of our association the most important single cause has been and is these provisions of the securities act.

"This condition is seriously interfering with industrial recovery and re-employment. It is essential to redefine the indefinite liabilities imposed by the securities act so as to make it possible for responsible enterprises to meet their requirements for new capital and to co-operate with the recovery program.

"We offer our co-operation to any constructive program to this end."

Sheet Workers' Pay Remains Unchanged

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Wages of sheet mill workers employed under the sliding scale of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers will remain unchanged for the next two months, it was announced today after the bi-monthly examination of selling prices, on which wages are based.

Representatives of the union and the manufacturers found that the selling price of black sheets had been unchanged for the last two months at $2.55 a 100 pounds.

NRA Shakeup Rumor Hailed By Business

By B. C. FORBES

WASHINGTON'S feverish activities are beginning to recall the little boy who sowed seeds but, too impatient, tore them up daily to see if they were taking root.

Mr. Forbes

RUMBLINGS came from Washington that there may be not only a change in NRA policy, but in NRA personnel at the top. You may have noticed that Gen. Johnson lately has not had the monopoly of the front pages which he formerly enjoyed. As he has receded, Jesse H. Jones has come to the front.

The financial world is remarking also that Secretary of the Treasury Woodin has remained in the background, and that Gov. Black of the Federal Reserve Board has not been half as prominent on the Washington stage as Chairman Jones of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

However, foreign gold buying presumably will be handled by the federal reserve, since the R. F. C. does not have the necessary machinery.

WHISPERS ARE heard that Washington shakeups will result in installing in responsible positions a larger number of prominent men of affairs, men who have demonstrated their business ability.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that Washington is getting ready to buy foreign gold, though expected, is hailed in financial circles as tremendously important.

What will happen?

Probably not.

If America's gold-buying becomes really aggressive and extensive, Britain may retaliate by taking steps to depreciate the price of sterling. France may decide to abandon the gold standard and to forbid the exportation of gold.

Such retaliatory tactics probably would precipitate topsy-turveydom for a while. In any such warfare, however, the United States should prove entirely capable of taking care of herself.

The logical ultimate outcome, after the commodity price level here has been substantially raised, would be for a get-together among the principal governments of the world for the purpose of definitely readjusting currencies and returning to a new gold standard.

THE NATURAL influence of prospective gold-and-currency developments would be to inflate prices. President Roosevelt assuredly has consistently made it clear that he is resolutely determined to lift the general price level here, that he will allow neither domestic nor foreign obstacles to thwart him. Domestic gold buying has achieved little.

Bulls in the stock and commodity markets have become more confident that things will go their way. But bears haven't given up.

EMPLOYERS, though keenly interested, of course, in currency maneuvers, are chiefly concerned over actual business prospects—and profits.

Restoration of confidence among all classes, consumers as well as producers, should do infinitely more than anything else to bring about genuine prosperity and expanding employment.

What is the outlook?

Frankly, NRA and other Washington activities and threatenings have lately fostered hesitancy. Should the rumored NRA shapeup shortly occur, the effect might be reassuring, especially if active control be placed in the hands of some man or men enjoying an unusual degree of public faith and esteem.

MORE CO-OPERATION and coercion perhaps would prove fruitful.

Ditto, a period of relative calm, so that business men could concentrate more on enterprise and be less distracted by Washington, which has been making very serious inroads on the time and attention of a great many business heads.

STEEL OUTPUT GOES LOWER

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Operations in the steel industry indicate a rate of 26.1 per cent of capacity for this week, compared with 31.8 per cent a week ago, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimates.

This decline, following that of 8 per cent noted by the Steel Institute a week ago in its report inaugurating weekly official statements on output, marks curtailment of close to 14 per cent in the industry within the last fortnight and pulls the industry's operations down to the lowest point since last April.

Current operations compare with the high level, which held through most of July and into early August, of close to the 60 per cent level. Trade circles ascribe the recent steady slump in operations to a variety of causes, outstanding among which is the present let-down in the automotive industry, strikes, continued small railroad buying and the slowness of the public works program in becoming a factor in steel demand also are cited.

BANKERS URGE REALTY AID

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Oct. 31.—Bankers and their clients who hold mortgage bonds secured by mortgages on private homes are overlooking an opportunity to improve their collateral by taking bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the Real Estate Securities Committee declared in its report to the convention of the Investment Bankers' Association today.

The report said that the corporation undoubtedly will assist not only individuals, but also banks and mortgage companies whose assets are frozen.

The committee expressed the opinion that some governmental agency should be provided to assist the owners of business property.

Real estate must be relieved to a large extent of carrying the burden of increased cost of government, the report declared. An investment that has for generations been considered prime should not be wiped out through practical confiscation.

Banks Here Endorse Capital Expansion

Pittsburgh banks have complied with the suggestion of President Roosevelt and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that they increase their capital through sale of stock or notes. The movement is part of a nation-wide plan to expand credit.

Acting through the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association, the banks here indorsed the issuance of preferred stock or capital notes where practicable, the stock or notes to be sold either to the banks' own stockholders, or to the RFC.

Holders of Defaulted Foreign Bonds Given Little Hope

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Oct. 31.—Holders of defaulted foreign government bonds have little hope of payment of interest or principal at present and little can be done until the problems of the widely fluctuating foreign exchange and commodity prices have come to an end.

This summarizes the findings of the foreign securities committee in its report to the convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, here. The report said:

"Your committee holds that in most cases an attempt to secure a permanent settlement now for the resumption of service upon defaulted loans would be premature, and that it is to the advantage of bondholders that such efforts should be deferred until the problems involved in fluctuating exchanges and commodity prices shall have more nearly resolved themselves."

Need of Mutual Understanding Stressed

THE IMMEDIATE problem, according to the report, concerns itself more with the conservation of existing assets both moral and physical, and the maintenance of an understanding relationship between debtor and creditor. The committee declared:

"It is our feeling, shared with many others, that this, as well as preparation for ultimate settlement, can be done effectively by issue houses or groups of issue houses and fiscal agents, and that in most cases the actual formation of bondholders' committees may be deferred without damage.

"Thereby, at least for the present, the bondholders can be relieved in large measure of the not inconsiderable expense which cannot be avoided when bonds are deposited under a protective agreement."

The report said the legal status of a defaulted foreign government bond is quite different from that of a defaulted domestic issue. Legal recourses which may be taken in cases of domestic defaults do not exist in cases of foreign bond defaults. Consequently the formation of bondholders' committees immediately following defaults is not imperative.

Plays Active Part In Forming Committees

THE COMMITTEE said that it has been active in seeing that competent committees are being formed by issue houses. Despite assertions to the contrary, the report declared there had been no disposition on the part of issue houses to unburden themselves of any responsibility to take all possible steps for the assistance of holders of defaulted.

The for[illegible] Ameri[illegible]can Securitie[illegible] asso[illegible]ciation, announc[illegible] White House on Oct. [illegible] declared to be a most [illegible]tive step. In the future it [illegible] insure prompt formation [illegible] capable working committees and [illegible] eliminate duplication or conflict of effort.

It was emphasized that it would be unfortunate if holders of foreign bonds should get the impression that the efforts of this government-sponsored organization should necessarily be productive of immediate results.

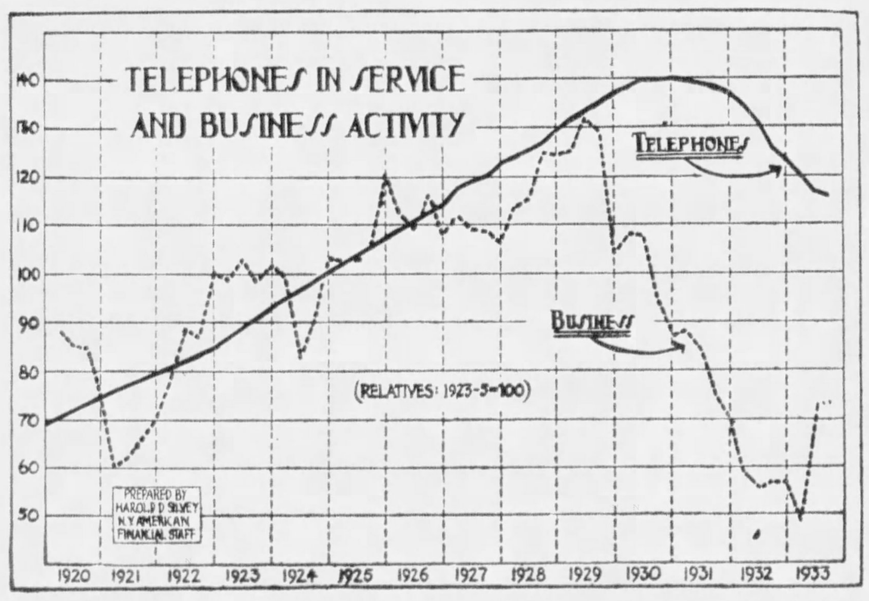
Number of Telephones in Use Measures Course of Business



By HAROLD D. SILVEY,
N. Y. American Financial Writer.

American Telephone and Telegraph Company's widespread ramifications and undisputed record number of stockholders make statistics concerning the company of nationwide importance. The number of telephones in use depicts in a large measure the course of general business. How closely these are corelated is shown in the accompanying chart, specially prepared for the New York American.

Figures are compiled quarterly by the company and "A this study they are contrasted with Moody's index of business activity. The telephone figures have been projected into an index, the base of which corresponds with the Moody index. The telephone index is based on quarterly figures back to 1926, and on an annual basis back to 1919.

Year	Quarter.	Total Phones	Index No.

While the Moody's index has been compiled on a monthly basis back to 1919, we have assumed the liberty of using only the business index figure of each third month, in order to take advantage of a more direct comparison with our quarterly telephone index.

Comparison of the accompanying chart reveals the extraordinary steadiness of the telephone line up to 1930. Without a backward step, and ever at a slowly increasing pace, the number of telephones in use continued to rise despite dilatory movements in the Moody line. In the second half of 1929, the general business index reached its highest point. The debacle in the last quarter of that hectic year resulted in a precipitate drop in the business index.

However, the telephone line continued to rise. The business panic was not yet evident in this direction, since telephones had long since become more of a necessity than a luxury.

The depression set in. The business line dropped further and further. Commercial failures increased rapidly, wage and salary cuts became the order of the day, as profits generally were reduced. The vicious circle was in its prime.

In the third quarter of 1930, the number of telephones in use fell below the preceding total for the first time in the history of the System.

The record of the following quarters of 1930, 1931, 1932 and the first three months of this year, is only too plain as regards business activity. Although the telephone line declined faster than it had risen, the rate of depreciation was smaller than the drop in general business.

Then the second quarter of 1933—the introduction of the New Deal to replace the woebegone "New Era." The volatile components of the business index briskly responded to the recovery drive. But just as it lagged on the downturn, the telephone line this time showed no immediate improvement. Erstwhile phone users were reluctant to so soon consider the instrument once more a necessity.

The first two months of the third quarter of 1933 witnessed, in general business activity, a continuation of the upward movement. But September reversed the tendency, and as this month's average is used in the business line on the chart, only a slight gain is shown over the previous quarter.

However, the telephone line in the latest quarter reflects a slackening of the downward trend. The September total, which unofficially is reported to be higher than the previous month and the first gain since 1930, is only slightly lower than the June figure.

NATIONAL FUR WEEK

Oct. 30th to Nov. 4th

with the greatest collection of fine

FUR COATS

ever offered!

● Months and months ago they started preparations for this great national event. The largest fur dealers in America gladly co-operated with Pittsburgh Fur Dealers to make their selection of fine fur coats truly startling in its beauty.

Even if you haven't the slightest idea of buying a fur at this time they want you to come in during this week. They are frankly proud of their collections. And you'll be really thrilled to see the abundance of fine and precious furs. And, if you are thinking of a new fur coat, this is the time we urge you to get it. Their assortments are at their very peak . . . and the present upward price trend makes an early purchase a wise investment.

STOCK MARKET CHECKS SKID OF MONDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The stock market was able to dig in its heels today and check the swift skid which developed in yesterday's late trading.

The list wavered irresolutely, however, and showed little inclination to recover, although a sprinkling of issues managed to push up fractions to more than a point. A soggy tone in wheat, which was off about a cent, and a slight sag in cotton, tended to keep the share market hesitant. Wall street was clearly pursuing a watchful, waiting attitude, pending further clarification of the government's gold policy.

Among stocks which managed to work a point or two above yesterday's close by early afternoon were American Can, International Harvester, Goodyear, Case, National Distillers, American Smelting and United States Smelting. Steel issues were about steady. Liggett & Myers B, Columbian Carbon and Union Pacific, however, were off around 2 points, and fractional recessions remained in General Motors, American Telephone and Allied Chemical.

Washington continued its steady jacking up of the gold price, lifting it 16 cents further today to $32.12 an ounce. The dollar still failed to decline correspondingly in the foreign exchange market, and financial quarters were awaiting the inauguration of the foreign gold buying with keen interest, inasmuch as this was expected to bring the exchange value of the dollar into line.

COTTON PRICES IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 2 higher to 6 lower with steady Liverpool cables offset by southern selling. December, 9.57; January, 9.61; March, 9.72; May, 9.85; July, 9.99; October, 10.18.

The early demand was supplied and active months showed net losses of about 5 to 8 points at the end of the first half hour except July, which was 12 points off.

After selling off to 9.44 for December and 9.79 for May during the morning, trading became very quiet. The market showed net declines of 1 to 11 points at midday.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 31.—Cotton, 6,000 bales including 4,300 American. Spot in fair demand; prices four points lower; quotations in pence; American strict good middling, 6.14; good middling 5.84; strict middling, 5.64; middling, 5.49; strict low middling, 5.34; low middling, 5.09; strict good ordinary, 4.89; good ordinary, 4.59. Futures closed steady. December, 5.27; January, 5.27; March, 5.28; May, 5.29; July, 5.30.

Noon official closing value for October (1933), 5.29.

ALLEGHENY NET PROFIT CUT

Allegheny Steel Company reports for the September quarter net profit of $152,293 after all charges and taxes, equal, after preferred dividends, to 15 cents a share on the 610,695 shares of common stock outstanding, compared with net profit of $282,918, or 36 cents a common share in the preceding quarter, and net loss of $288,903 in the September, 1932, quarter.

For nine months ended September 30, the company reports net profit of $303,274, equal, after preferred dividends, to 21 cents per common share.

The reports for the last two quarters present an interesting contrast, for while gross sales increased from $3,104,167 to $3,768,632, the increase in the cost of production was greater and the manufacturing profit of $627,772 in the June quarter compared with $488,295 in the September quarter. Total sales for the first nine months of 1933 amounted to $8,572,269.

INTERIM CODE FOR COPPER

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—To hasten adoption of a copper code, H. M. Halstead, an assistant administrator of NRA, has outlined a tentative code to aid in crystallizing opinion. It provides for minimum and maximum prices, the minimum to be determined by average out-of-pocket or cash cost of producing copper, and the maximum by average cash cost plus depreciation and a reasonable profit.

This would be the first suggested code to embody a maximum price.

A general sales agency would be set up to allocate sales among producers and custom smelters. Capacities and quotas of producers are about the same as those set up in the producers code proposal submitted some time ago.

GOLD PROGRAM DIFFICULTIES OUTLINED

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 — Business in general continued to decline last week. Industrial activity fell to a point but little above last year in dollar volume.

Electric power production was off sharply. Steel production receded to about 26 per cent of capacity, reflecting in part a large decline in automobile production. Lumber production was lower. The textile industry slowed up, partly on account of strikes in the clothing trades and partly because of consumer resistance to high prices.

Railway car loading slumped more than seasonably.

Retail trade was stimulated by colder weather, but appears to be running 2 or 3 per cent below last October in dollar sales, and much more than that in physical volume.

CHIEF EXCEPTIONS

The chief exceptions to the declining trend were found in building and in southern trade. The former was due to the slowly growing "public works" program. The latter was the result of the spending of money paid to southern farmers for plowing up cotton. Thus both represent extension of government credit and an increased public debt.

Wholesale commodity prices spurted, notably grains, foods and some non-ferrous metals.

Events in the shape of political interference with business came thick and fast.

Following the recognized failure of the reserve banks' "open market operations," and the farm strikes, the government launched a gold-buying experiment.

First it tried buying gold produced in this country. But the dollar went up in foreign exchange, and it was realized that merely buying a few millions of dollars worth of American gold would accomplish little.

BUYING EXPEDIENT

So the policy of buying foreign gold has now been announced. This means selling dollars. The government will sell dollars to pay for foreign gold.

This will tend to depress the dollar in foreign exchange, which is what the government wants. It hopes that if the paper dollar falls in foreign exchange, it will also fall in this country and thus cause a rise in our paper dollar prices.

Three great difficulties lie in the way of this experiment:

1—We are off the gold basis, so that manipulating the price of gold has little bearing on the value of the dollar.

2—We have little foreign trade and are discouraging what we have, so that foreign exchange rates have little effect.

3—Other countries are likely to play the same game and sell their courrencies (or buy gold) too, thus offsetting our moves.

Aside from confusion in foreign exchanges, the results are likely to be merely "psychological" and temporary.

TIME FOR NRA TEST

Then there was the clash between NRA and Ford, marking the coercion stage of NRA. And Mr. William Randolph Hearst expressed definite criticisms of NRA as a recovery measure.

It seems the time is ripe for a test of the constitutionality of what is being done under NRA.

The whole spirit of the Constitution is individual initiative, subject only to regulations designed to prevent abuses of such initiative. But many believe NRA "collectivism" is going much beyond that, and operating to destroy individual freedom.

RETAIL CODE CONFUSING

The approval of a retail "code," requiring a minimum mark-up of 10 per cent above wholesale cost, was announced, and the AAA took steps toward further price fixing of agricultural products.

The provisions of the retail code are indefinite and bound to cause confusion. Moreover, stores in small towns are excepted. This is not only an admission of the weakness of the scheme, but suggests troublesome inter-town competition in many localities.

Important disclosures of manipulative practices in banking, financial and stock market, were made at the Senate hearing. These are already causing some house-cleaning, and constitute one of the really constructive results of the depression.

Stock gambling in this country can never again be quite the same as in 1929.

General conclusion: Business is off; sentiment is confused and uncertain; we continue to drift toward more drastic inflation.

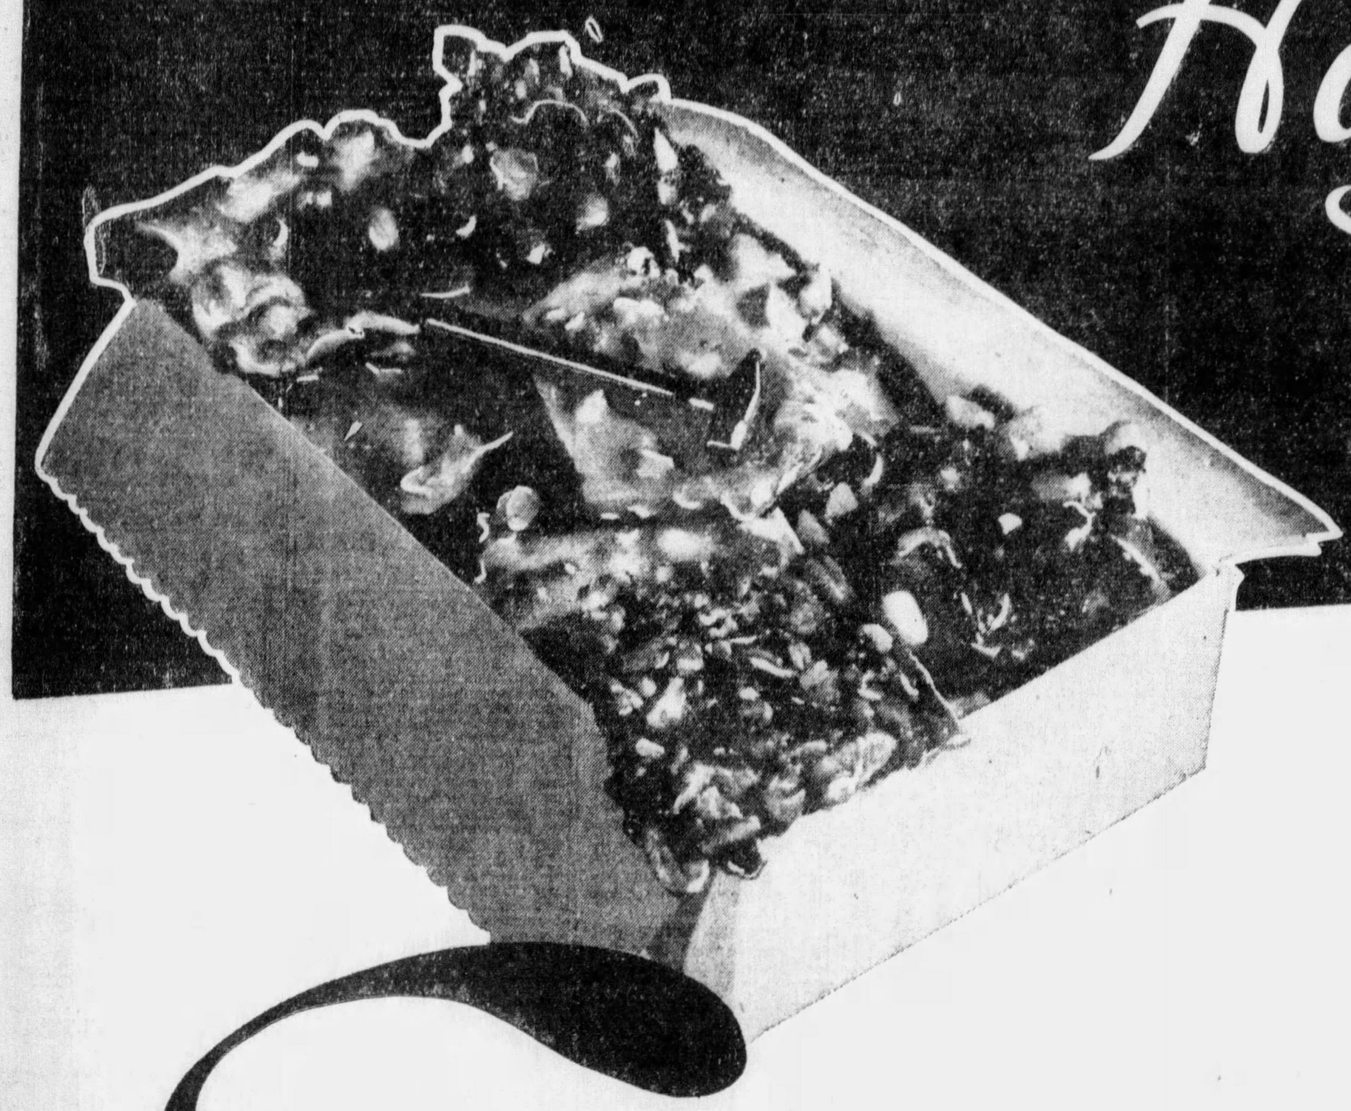
. . . it's an old Pittsburgh Halloween Custom!



So . . .

. . . when the ticktacks tick and the doorbells ring be prepared . . . or the goblins'll git you if you don't have plenty of hush candy handy!

Possibly no other occasion is so happily remembered with chuckling reminiscences as is good old Halloween . . . when old folks hark back to the apple dipping and peanut brittle parties . . . bad boys their buggy tipping pranks and . . . those costume affairs which were such fun. Let's all make merry with an old fashioned Halloween next Tuesday . . . October 31st . . . and while doing so perhaps a remembrance of the parentless children in institutions with a donation of sweets would gladden our festive hearts, and surely enliven their interest in the happy festival.

Girl of 17 Shouldn't Have Just One Boy Friend

"Is Babette "fickle" because she can't seem to settle down to one boy friend?

The Boy Friend who'd like to have her concentrate on him says she is—and now she is beginning to doubt herself. Dear Elsie:

I'd like to know what you think about me. I am 17 and a junior in Hi. I am full of fun and have lots of friends. I like most people and get along with them fine, but there is just one thing that bothers me.

I just can't seem to settle down to one boy friend. And the worst of it is, I don't seem to have any desire to. I know lots of boys and they're most of them nice. I like to go out with them. But I can't seem to get interested in just one.

One of them, Tom, wants me to go steady with him, and he gets awfully peeved at me because I won't agree to cut out all the others and just see him. He says I am fickle, and he gets very angry at me.

Twice before I have gone out fairly steady with boys, but I always saw someone else who looked interesting to me, and seemed to lose interest in the one I was going with. They were angry, too, and said just about the same things Tom says.

IDEAS CHANGE

Please help me, won't you? I want to be regular. I don't want to be a flirt. But I honestly don't want to go with just one boy.

Is there something the matter with me? I wonder about myself sometimes. Am I just no good? BABETTE.

Something the matter with you? Not a thing, Babette. You're as right as they make 'em, and I'm going to use you today as a Gorgeous Example of what a healthy youngster should be and do.

It's as idiotic to "settle down with one boy" at 17 as it would be to settle down with a wooden leg and a dose of rheumatism.

Seventeen is growing time. Your mind as well as your body is growing. Your ideas are changing, almost overnight.

HAVE MANY FRIENDS

You can't know yet what you, yourself, will be like, much less what your lasting lover should be like.

The boy whom you might enjoy now would probably bore you to tears four years from now. Until you find yourself, don't try to find your mate. And it will be at least four years before you find yourself.

"But don't girls and fellows of 17 fall awfully in love, and isn't it real love?"

They do, and it is. Seventeen-year-old love is the maddest, gladdest love on earth, all the wilder and sweeter because there is no wisdom or experience to temper it. But not once in a million times is 17-year-old love a lasting love. And that's simply because 17-year-old bodies aren't lasting bodies. They, with all their moods, are something that we leave behind us when we grow up.

So "play the field," youngster. Like 'em—and leave 'em—all. Play around with a score of nice fellows, but don't go steady with any of them. Learn about humans from them!

Then, when the time comes—when you're really ready for the lasting love—you'll be able to wisely pick a lasting sweetheart.

Fay King Suggests Traffic Light Rules to Lessen Accidents

AND THINK HOW MANY MORE JUST BARELY ESCAPED!
FAY. KING

By FAY KING

Every year thousands of persons are crippled or killed by automobile accidents.

So appalling have these figures become, everyone is beginning to wonder what can be done about it.

My first move would be to forbid red and green lights to be used anywhere except in traffic signals. Though blessed with excellent eyesight, I have often mistaken the red light in a store sign down the street for the traffic signal, and started to cross.

Also, the autoist and pedestrian have too good an opinion of each other. To think of every pedestrian as deaf and rheumatic and every autoist as reckless or pre-occupied would avert many accidents.

Better to lose a minute waiting for the light than to lose a leg beating it.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Once Common Ills of Liver Are Decreasing

Our knowledge of the functions of the liver has greatly increased within the past quarter of a century.

Dr. Copeland.

This has led to improved methods of diagnosis, correct interpretation of certain disorders of the liver, and better treatment. Nowadays we seldom hear such expressions as "sluggish liver," "torpid liver," "biliousness," or "too much bile." This change can only be attributed to our better understanding of this vital organ of the body.

The liver is a large glandular structure located in the abdomen just below the diaphragm. It extends slightly to the left of the mid-line of the body, but is situated mainly on the right side of the abdomen. It is the largest gland in the body. We could not live without this important structure.

The liver serves many purposes. Primarily it secretes bile and transforms excess of sugar into glycogen. Glycogen is stored in the liver and is changed into sugar when the body needs additional fuel and energy.

In addition to this important task, the liver aids in intestinal digestion and the absorption of fats. It helps in the manufacture of red blood cells and fibrinogen. "Fibrinogen" is an important blood element essential to good health.

Few persons realize the important part played by the liver in the digestion of certain foods. The liver constantly secretes bile. Without bile, the fats could not be digested. Yet the bile is not constantly used, and is only mixed with the food in the intestines at certain intervals.

Perhaps no other organ of the body is so complicated as the liver. Yet its mechanism is only interfered with when organic changes occur within the substance of this vital structure. Fortunately we are endowed with a large liver and if one portion of it becomes diseased, the remainder of the organ takes care of the necessary work. This is nature's method of protection against such an occurrence.

Of course, if the entire organ becomes diseased, as in severe constitutional diseases, like cancer, tuberculosis, or syphilis, the liver cannot function and death soon occurs. Cirrhosis of the liver, or "hardening" of the liver, as it is more commonly known, is not encountered so frequently as in former years.

When I was a medical student this malady was a common affliction. Medical students today rarely meet it. They must rely upon their textbooks for descriptions of this condition. Perhaps this change can be traced to our better understanding of the liver and the processes of digestion, as well as to our increased knowledge of nutrition and diet.

Many persons confuse gall bladder disease with liver disease. Though the gall bladder is closely connected with the liver, its disturbances and diseases are quite distinct from liver disorders. In a subsequent article I shall tell you about the gall bladder and how it is related to the liver.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

Needs No Cooking! Big Saving!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made gives you four times as much cough remedy for your money, yet it is far more effective than ready-made medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and clears the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous as a healing agent for throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Veritzen Announces His Present to the Bride

Lillian did not need to keep her promise to explain Mr. Veritzen's absence and mine satisfactorily to Mother Graham, in case that captious lady should miss us from our places of observation beside the cribbage table. This was the report of Noel's father when he came to the little study next the library, where Mary, Noel and I were waiting for him.

"Mother Graham?" I asked breathlessly as he appeared at the door.

"Safe as a church," he said with a smile. "Gabriel's trumpet might rouse her from that game, but I doubt it; and the Underwoods are standing by to give plausible explanations of your absence and mine from our ringside seats at the game, if she takes her eyes from the board long enough to miss us."

"So, my dears," as he closed the door softly and came down the room, smiling genially at us, "I think we may count on an uninterrupted interview, if we do not dally too long over it. Come over to this corner. It is cozier."

Noel's father turned to him and gave him a steady look, while I indulged in the time-honored process of "holding my breath."

ANNOUNCES GIFT

"I assure you, Noel, I have no intention of biting either of you," he said, "so just relax a bit while I tell you what I have planned for you."

Mary and Noel laughed dutifully at the jest, but, though I knew that their nerve tension, as well as mine, had relaxed appreciably, they were still watchful.

But if Philip Veritzen understood this, and I guessed that he missed no jot of it, he gave no sign. He only bent forward in his chair, after polishing his eye glasses and replacing them, and put his finger tips together in the gesture we all knew so well.

"In the first place," he said, "I may as well tell you now what one of my wedding gifts is. I suppose the conventional thing would be to have it driven up as a surprise upon your wedding day, but I know that you will have neither time nor inclination to consider anything extraneous upon that day.

"Then, too, this gift entails a certain amount of planning for its use beforehand, so I want you to know now that tomorrow morning there will be delivered out here a convertible cabriolet." He named the make—the last word in power, luxury and ease.

"I think it has all the gadgets, including a radio," he went on, "but that is so inconspicuously placed that it won't be at all in evidence when you're not using it. The car will be ready for use, to the last drop of gas, oil and water. An experienced, careful man has been driving it almost continuously for several days, so that when you get it you won't have to worry about breaking it in slowly, but can go as fast as you please."

I heard Mary give a sibilant breath.

NO JOY RIDING

"Oh, boy!" she murmured, then she was out of her seat, had kissed her future father-in-law enthusiastically, and was back again, by the time Noel had managed a quiet but heartfelt, "Thank you, father."

Mr. Veritzen settled his tie, a bit rumpled out of its perfection by Mary's impetuous caress, and smiled at the young people.

"I have put the title of ownership in your name, Mary," he said. "The car is yours, but perhaps you'll let Noel borrow it once in a while."

"If he'll promise not to take any other girl out joy riding," she said, with a flashing, mischievous glance at her fiance.

Noel gave her the helpless, half mirthful, half protesting smile with which he answers her raillery, and his father laughed outright.

"You might make him sign a promise to that effect," he said. "But I don't imagine you'll have any trouble on that score. Noel is like me, a steady cart horse who never kicks over the traces. If there's any joy riding—" he broke off sharply, as if his tongue had betrayed him, and Mary's lovely head reared itself defiantly.

"You think I'll be doing it?" she asked.

Household Hints

Save all meat and vegetable stock and use it in soups, gravies, stews and sauces.

If any difficulty is experienced in cutting voile or georgette, dip the scissors in boiling water for a few moments. The hot steel will cut a straight edge.

A good bluing will dissolve entirely in water.

Sour milk will often remove rust marks from white fabrics. The stained part should be covered with the milk and allowed to soak for some hours before washing.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Justifying Overbidding

It is unquestionably true that master players are more inclined to overbid than the average player or the beginner. This is a natural enough fault as the more likely he is to be optimistic about his ability to extract the last possible trick from the combined holdings.

An example in which overbidding was redeemed by beautiful and accurate play, involving the taking of what on its surface appeared to be an unnecessary finesse, occurred in a recent team-of-four game in New York City, in which Messrs. Waller Malowan and Julian Barth were partners.

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	Mr. Barth ♠ A K J 7 ♡ 7 ◇ A Q 7 ♣ K 10 7 4 3
♠ Q 6 5 ♡ Q 8 6 5 2 ◇ 8 2 ♣ Q 8 2	West / North / East / South	♠ 10 3 2 ♡ K 10 9 3 ◇ J 6 5 3 ♣ A 6
	♠ 9 8 4 ♡ A J 4 ◇ K 10 9 4 ♣ J 9 5 Mr. Malowan

North and South unquestionably had overbid their hands to reach the final contract of six clubs with North as Declarer. When Mr. Barth studied the Dummy, after East had made an Opening heart lead, he realized that the prospect of making his contract was far from easy. All he needed to find was a successful finesse in clubs, a successful finesse in spades and the ability to take a finesse in diamonds for the necessary entry cards. If all these things happened and the trump suit broke 3-2, then the contract could be made.

An average player would be appalled by the task which confronted him, but Mr. Barth went to work. He won the first trick with the Ace of hearts in Dummy, then led the nine of clubs. When West failed to cover, he permitted the nine to ride, and East won with the Ace. East returned another heart, which Mr. Barth ruffed in his own hand, and now led a small diamond, finessing the nine in Dummy. This beautiful play, involving the risk of losing a trick in diamonds, was necessary because of the need of entries in the Dummy, both to pick up the club Queen, now marked in West's hand, and to finesse the spades. When the diamond finesse held, the adverse clubs were drawn, and the "unnecessary" finesse on the fourth trick gave Mr. Barth the opportunity to later take the spade finesse and thus fulfill a much too ambitious contract.

UTILITY OFFERS CASH TO BLOCK PUBLIC PLANT

Revelations of how the Duquesne Light Company attempted to forestall the installation of a municipal-owned street light system by Coraopolis Borough by a $60,000 cash offer, were made when Council awarded contracts for the erection of the new plant last night.

The offer of the light company was called to Council's attention by Attorney Ellsworth Jordan. He urged that the awarding of contracts for the new system be postponed until the case be given more consideration, declaring that he understood the borough was offered $60,000 by the Duquesne Light Company if the borough-owned lighting system were dropped.

ADDITIONAL SUM

The $60,000 was to be paid in addition to the $250,000 which the light company paid the borough six years ago when it purchased the borough-owned plant, Jordan said.

He pointed out that the borough plan to provide its own power for street lights might meet with legal opposition from the light company, which might get an injunction to stop operation of the plant after the money was expended.

VERBAL OFFER

W. H. White, chairman of the Council Finance Committee, said that the $60,000 had been offered verbally, but that conditions attached made the acceptance inadvisable. The conditions included payment by the borough of $15,000 in attorney's fees and turning over two Diesel engines now at the water plant, he said. The light company also demanded a 10-year contract for street lights.

The conditions would leave the borough would save $60,000 on White stated. He declared that by refusing such a contract the borough with only a net of $22,000, street lights in the 10 years.

MORRIS AGAIN WEDS ACTRESS

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Nelson Morris, member of the wealthy packing house family, who divorced one French wife in May because she wouldn't leave the stage for a domestic career, has married another French comedienne, Mlle. Blanche Bilboa.

The marriage took place at Flossmoor, near Morris' summer home at Homewood, Ill., yesterday.

Mlle. Bilboa left the French stage two and a half years ago to come to America. At that time when questioned if she had any romantic attachments she said:

"I am an actress. Marriage does not comport with my career."

Morris was given a decree from his first wife, Jeanne Aubert, by a French court after a futile attempt through court action to prevent her return to the stage.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(Universal.)—Edward Olsen, of Brooklyn, accused of slapping his mother, was sentenced yesterday to six months in the workhouse. Magistrate Kozicke said:

Former Pottsville Judge Found Slain

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Former Judge A. L. Shay, 70, was found shot to death in his office today.

A pistol, with one shell exploded, lay on the floor beside him. He had a bullet through his heart.

Propaganda Drive Proposed for Doctors

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Use of propaganda—a radical departure from traditions of the profession—is urged upon the Philadelphia County Medical Society by Dr. Howard W. Haggard, of the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University.

He spoke in connection with a proposed campaign against "charlatanism" and "the idea of socialized medicine." He said:

"The idea of socialization of medicine with the subordination of the practicing physician promulgated in recent years, did not arise from spontaneous inspiration. It was an idea implanted by propaganda."

BANKER BOILS, JAILS COOK

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Hugh Knowlton, of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., appeared as a complaining witness in night court last night in a love affair involving his cook. He was a witness against Vitus Kratz, a pastry cook, who said he "loved very much" the Knowlton cook, Johanna Berg-Hold.

Mr. Knowlton said Kratz' affection took the form of "incessant" telephone calls, which the cook said she did not want to answer, and that, further, he was "sick" of seeing Kratz loitering near his apartment.

He said, also, that his servants had complained that last summer Kratz threw stones through windows of the Knowlton summer home, and threatened them. The affair reached the police when Kratz called again last night.

SHRINE HONORS POTENTATE

Prominent Shriners from Baltimore, Washington, Columbus and Wheeling attended the full ceremonial at Syria Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, last night, when the guest of honor was Imperial Potentate John N. Sebrell, of Norfolk, Va. More than 5,000 attended the ceremonies.

At a business session John G. Daub, potentate of Syria, was elected representative to the Imperial Council, succeeding the late Harry E. McLain. Henry J. Yute was named treasurer of Syria, succeeding the late E. D. Friebertshauser.

Sebrell's visit to Pittsburgh was a part of an official tour of shrines from coast to coast, Panama to Canada.

Chicago Fire Routs Students From Beds

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Three hundred boy and girl students of Broadview College, a private Seventh Day Adventist school, were routed from their beds early today by a fire that destroyed the woodworking shop and the glueing room building on the grounds in suburban Broadview.

Private Rites Held For Young Mantell

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Private funeral services were conducted yesterday at a mortuary for Robert Mantell, Jr., 21-year-old son of the noted Shakespearean actor. Young Mantell ended his life last Tuesday. His body was cremated.

PASTOR HEADS PEACE CONFAB

Social problems, ranging from local to international, will be discussed at the Pittsburgh Conference on Peace and Social Action November 10 and 11, in the downtown Y. M. C. A. The Rev. B. F. Crawford, pastor of the Perrysville Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, is general chairman of the conference.

Rev. Crawford

The Pittsburgh conference represents 30 organizations here and is headed by the Rev. Herbert B. Hutnut. The Rev. Thomas F. Coakley is first vice chairman; Mrs. Saul Lavine, second vice chairman; Mrs. Harvey S. Fouse, treasurer; John Weaver, secretary; Rabbi B. Benedict Glazer, chairman of the committee on social action, and Dr. Benjamin Williams, of the University of Pittsburgh, chairman of the committee on peace.

HITS TOP NOTES IN OPERA DEBUT

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—A golden-haired girl from the West, Miss Virginia le Rae, made her New York debut to grand opera last night—veritably hitting the heights.

As "Lucia" in Donizetti's tragic Italian opera, the tall, 25-year-old coloratura from Seattle climaxed the famed "mad scene" with a "G sharp above high C"—a note not heard on the operatic stage hereabouts within the memory of critics.

In the first act, Miss le Rae soared to a "B natural above high C," but the nervousness that marred the early scenes of the opera made the note metallic.

Critics said the newcomer would have to show improvement in stage presence and more perfection in voice.

The blonde soprano was born on an Idaho ranch. Her family moved to Seattle when she was a girl.

MOB MENACES PRISONER

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Ominous rumblings of disorder which followed the arrest of Horace Dorsey, 40-year-old Negro accused of attacking an elderly white woman in Springfield Township, resulted in his removal to the Eastern Penitentiary.

A helper on a garbage truck, Dorsey was shifted twice last night—from the township police station to the county jail at Media and then to the penitentiary—after crowds began to gather at each of the first two institutions.

He is accused of assaulting Mrs. Robert C. Creer, 63, while she lay in a beach chair in her back yard, drying her hair, and was captured by police after Russell Kershaw, driver of the truck, chased him from the yard.

The Negro was given a brief hearing before a magistrate last night and held without bail.

INDIANA CRIME BLOCKADE SET

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 31.—A blockade on another main Indiana highway will be set up tonight in Indiana warfare against crime, Al G. Feeney, State Commissioner of Public Safety, announced today.

Picked National Guardsmen, state police and Hamilton County law enforcement officials last night placed a blockade in operation on U. S. road 31 at the Hamilton-Tipton County line.

Fifteen National Guardsmen and peace officers of Kosciusko County last night conducted an unsuccessful raid at the home of Merritt Longbrake, of Clay Township.

Longbrake is wanted for two Ohio bank robberies. He was allegedly identified as a companion of escaped convicts in the raid upon the Peru police station in which machine guns, shotguns, bullet-proof vests and other equipment was seized.

Longbrake escaped from jail at Bellefontaine, O., two months ago. He and Joe Burns, one of the escaped prisoners, were seen near Claypool by several persons during the past week.

FATAL BLASTS PERIL REFINERY

MT. PLEASANT, Mich., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—One man was killed and another painfully burned in a fire and series of explosions today at the refinery of the Roosevelt Oil Company near here.

The fire threatened the entire plant of the Roosevelt Company covering 15 acres and including 39 storage tanks. Firemen were fighting to keep the flames back from a 27,500-barrel tank.

Six violent explosions, which rocked the entire city, followed within 45 minutes after the blaze was first discovered.

More than 50,000 barrels of crude oil were in direct line of the flames as firemen sought to bring them under control.

Polish Pay American For Unused Plans

WARSAW, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—By presidential decree, $100,000 has been awarded W. Averell Harriman of New York, as indemnification for Poland's failure to accept his plans for the electrification of western Poland.

Harriman started the plans in 1927 on the promise of the ministry of public works to award him the concession, but in 1930 the government turned the project down.

Elks Here to Listen To President Nov. 11

President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Walter F. Meier, grand exalted ruler, B. P. O. Elks, will be heard by radio from Washington by Pittsburgh district Elks in their lodge rooms, at 10 p. m., Armistice Day. As a part of an Armistice Day observance, Elk lodges will initiate classes in Pittsburgh, Allegheny, Etna, Homestead, Knoxville, Sheraden and Wilkinsburg.

A Discovery that's Bringing Fast Relief to Thousands

There is now a quicker way to ease pain. A way that often brings relief from even a severe headache or neuritis in a few minutes. The fastest, safe relief, it is said, ever known for pain.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the space of two seconds after touching moisture.

The illustration of the glass, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly. This unique Bayer discovery means quick relief from pain for you and yours. Fewer lost hours from headaches, neuralgia or the pains of rheumatism. And safe relief—for GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN does not harm the heart.

See though, that you get the GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN. The best way is never ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But always to ask for "BAYER ASPIRIN."

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

—lagging appetite

There is a reasonable way to correct this condition. Pause and reason. You know that body weakness is frequently the result of a weak blood "picture"—lowering of the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin—that are so very necessary to strength and vitality.

Then why not try S.S.S.—the proven tonic for decades? Its value has been proved by extensive scientific research and by millions of happy users.

Take S.S.S. and note the way your strength and appetite are restored. Two convenient sizes at all drug stores—the larger size is more economical. Don't permit any one to "switch" you in your determination to restore your red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content for regaining strength. © The S.S.S. Co.

NO UNCERTAINTY ABOUT PRICE AND DELIVERY WITH Gas Heat

At a time like this, when prices and delivery dates of other fuels are so uncertain, Gas—everywhere known as the ideal home-heating fuel—has advantages of unusual significance.

These extra advantages of Gas are:

1. Gas Heating costs are lower—not higher as with other fuels.

2. Gas rates are fixed and definite and stable—not rising and uncertain as with other fuels. With Gas you know in advance what your fuel will cost.

3. With Gas Heat, your fuel is delivered automatically, as you want it. There is no delay in delivery—none of the inconvenience of waiting for an uncertain future delivery date so common with other fuels today. And you pay for it after you use it, not before.

4. You can enjoy Gas Heat without a cent of investment for equipment, on the new Burner-Rental Plan. On this plan, your present furnace or boiler is changed over to Gas with a Conversion Burner which can be installed in just a few hours. No investment in equipment—no installation charge—and only a small monthly rental.

* * * *

Don't deny yourself the comfort and convenience of Gas Heat any longer. Get in touch with your Gas Company and find out—without obligation—just how inexpensively you can heat your home this modern way.

Things I Never Knew 'Til Now
(But which you knew all along!)

That in a letter from there Ripley says he visited the "Garden of Eden" and that there never was a fig leaf there or a fig tree! And what's more—no apple tree ever grew there! (It's fun to be fooled!)

That in Vienna when a phone rings—both parties—the caller and the receiver, have to pay, even if it's a wrong number.

That the push button elevator signals on the main floor of most office buildings and hotels are usually dummies. (Stop wasting time!)

That if you sit with a pencil and paper and let your pencil draw lines as you recall experiences, you will draw very long lines at each pleasant memory and very short ones when they're unpleasant.

That Cuba has barred paper money because it carries germs.

That on March 21 and September 23 the days and nights are of equal length in all parts of the earth.

That a large portion of the food you eat is preserved in poison.

That most of the policemen and detectives, who are smart, carry steel-lined summons books (over their hearts) for stopping bullets.

That a new burglar alarm is being perfected (by a former convict) which executes the burglar on the spot.

That the gorilla is the only animal known that picks its teeth.

That the average cost of phony gin (including the wrappers, labels, and seals) is only 9 cents a pint.

That less than one person in three in the world is white.

That any movie cameraman will tell you that a perfect face does not photograph well. They prefer shooting people with irregular features and "with character."

That Cape May, N. J., is farther south than Winchester, Va.

That every word we know is stored in a section of gray matter in our noodles no larger than a nickel.

That a giraffe can see behind without turning its head.

That among other words prohibited in the movies are virtuous, nursery, housebroken, nude and courtesan.

That it took the author 60 years to write "Faust."

That Michigan's Governor has pardoned about 1,500 since January 1—prohibition violators. (Two got life for selling a pint!)

That Huey Long has three bodyguards, Jewish, Irish and Italian.

That among other things being plotted is canned beer.

That on the day Alfred E. Smith was honored in Chicago—if you wore a brown derby you got in free. Smith himself wore a black one!

That because the President used the word "chiselers" it became dignified. Gen. Hugh Johnson of the NRA used it in speeches weeks before—and was heckled by some papers who were fussy.

That a burglar in Muskegon, who admitted his guilt and served two years, is suing the man he robbed for shooting him.

That Bourbon is the only whisky that can't be "cut" without detection. (Bootleggers gave up trying years ago.)

That you can be arrested and fined on the Speedway in New York which permits only a pace of 35 m. p. h.

That Santa Claus, which comes from Holland, is Santa Klaas.

That "What the Dickens!" was originally "What the diggins!"

That a married man is called a Benedict because in Shakespeare's "Love's Labor's Lost"—Benedict was the name of a humorous character, who wound up by marrying Beatrice, anyhow.

That the ancient reason for wedding rings was that a small artery connected the ring finger with the heart.

That one Broadway spot has spent $45,000 for a bar.

That if Adam had been a wireless operator and had sent out an SOS it wouldn't have reached the nearest star, yet!

That Cleopatra never dissolved a pearl in vinegar and then drank it down, because only a powerful acid can dissolve a pearl quickly, and such a liquid cannot be swallowed. (He must be reading books!)

That quinine, which has done so much to save civilized people from fever, etc., was donated to civilization by savages in Peru.

That it is against the law in California to work for nothing. You cannot do work for a friend as a favor.

And that David Murray has finally discovered a surefire way to get drunk on 3.2 beer. He uses gin for a chaser.

Helen Hayes a Lovely Queen, Merivale Heroic Earl In Historic Drama

By GEORGE SEIBEL

To make the dead bones of history live is the dramatist's proof of divine power—and whenever a dramatist touches one of the great figures of history he is running the risk of revealing his mortal lineage. Maxwell Anderson has courted this test once before, with "Elizabeth the Queen," and emerged with something resembling a literary miracle.

Elizabeth and Essex lived and loved and lost—and they were real people, though dead these centuries. Again Maxwell Anderson has tried the magic evocation of another queen, "Mary of Scotland," at the Nixon last night, and with what might be called an all-star cast of the Theater Guild he has at most produced a fine spectacle and a series of splendid dialogues put into gorgeous rhythmic prose.

While the drama is loosely constructed, a series of scenes almost like the chronicle plays of Shakespeare, the dramatic thread on which these scenes are strung has not been dyed in the blood of human passion—and in the end you get an effect less of Shakespeare than of the "Imaginary Conversations" of a Walter Savage Landor.

Mr. Seibel

Helen Hayes makes a lovely Queen of Scots, she speaks her measured lines with just the right pathos and power, in the scenes between her and Bothwell, heroically bodied forth by Philip Merivale, there is marvelous balance and color, yet somehow there is no heart-throb and it all seems conventional rhetoric.

CONFLICT IS DIFFUSED

Anderson has studied his history too well, and has selected the most picturesquely significant episodes—has even taken justifiable liberties at times. But he has not knit these strands together in a way that would blend the woman and the queen. We see Mary in love with Bothwell and marrying Darnley, because Elizabeth, sitting like a wicked spider in Whitehall, has plotted it all with the diabolical ingenuity of a villain in melodrama.

We see Mary meeting dour John Knox and almost taming him in their first encounter, and afterward making an enemy of him by an argument on religious toleration. If Elizabeth were not played with such consummate art by Helen Menken—if Knox were not played with such smoldering fanaticism by Fritz Leiber, these two character would seem almost outsiders in the plot. People do not even come close in the action of the play—they stand at opposite sides of the stage and thunder at each other—as if they were symbolically remote and merely engaged in airing an academic difference of opinion.

Charles Dalton as Lord Huntley and Philip Leigh as Rizzio are the only characters that escape this fault of seeming tapestry rather than human.

That may be said of the drama as a whole—that it creates an impression of tapestry rather than of humanity in historical pictures.

COMPARED WITH SCHILLER

Compared with Schiller's tragedy, which Modjeska used to play, this drama has but a feeble pulse. When Schiller's Mary Stuart distributed her poor possessions among her women, the audience wept. When she faced Elizabeth at Fotheringay, the audience hung to its seats in suspense. Last night, when Elizabeth unexpectedly drops in at Carlisle Castle, where Mary is imprisoned, it leads to a long exchange of fine phrases, a duel of statecraft and woman's views of life, almost with parliamentary rules of order.

Outside of the scenes with Knox, the murder of Rizzio, and the first audience of the queen with her counselors, there is little that strikes fire or evokes deep emotion. There are fine poetic passages, flashes of woman's wit, dramatic moments of defiance and poignant glimpses of a soul in remorse, but all this is not enough.

Yet "Mary of Scotland" is so well written and so admirably acted that cold-blooded criticism seems inept. It is Helen Hayes, vibrant and tender, with Philip Merivale, flashing heroic fire, that lift Maxwell Anderson's drama toward the summits of life and romance, though it lacks the cohesive force and onward surge of "Elizabeth the Queen."

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Pola Negri and Richard Whorf, with a supporting company said to number 50, will be seen in the Nixon next week in "A Trip to Pressburg," a play by Leo Perutz that scored a success in Europe. The adaptation from the German is by Harold Johnsrud and Philip Dunning, and it is being staged under the direction of George Abbot. A previous adaptation was tried out in Philadelphia last spring. The performances here will be under the auspices of the American Theater Society as a subscription play and they will mark the debut of Miss Negri on the American stage in a full length play. It is a drama in three acts comprising ten scenes. The seat sale will open Thursday.

Helen Wayne and Leo Dashbaugh, graduates of Carnegie Tech drama school, will play the leading roles in Gertrude Tonkonogy's comedy success, "Three-Cornered Moon," the initial production of the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse's winter season, opening Monday evening, November 6, in the Hotel Schenley Theater. It will continue four nights. Miss Wayne was seen in several of the summer offerings of the Playhouse. Mr. Dashbaugh was a member of the cast of the Broadway show, "Hot Money," and of the Maud Adams and Otis Skinner production of "The Merchant of Venice." Miss Wayne played the lead in the Playhouse's summer production of "Springtime for Henry" and she had prominent roles in "Goodbye Again" and "Dangerous Corner."

Buys Freedom For Bears

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31.—An RKO troupe which has watched two polar bears pacing back and forth in their narrow cages, panting with the heat, is singing the praise of Francis Lederer. The Czecho-Slovakian star has bought the bears from the studio and will ship them back to Alaska to be freed on their native ice fields.

This human gesture is costing Lederer $500 plus the cost of shipment.

It is solving for RKO the problem of how to dispose of the animals, which were bought in St. Louis for $2,400 and brought to Hollywood to be used in Lederer's picture, "A Man of Two Worlds."

Had the star not intervened, the cold-loving animals were destined for some Southern California zoo.

They'll tell you that the big blowup has come on the Marjorie King-George Raft romance. She started to the United Artists Theater with Georgie Thursday night to make a personal appearance, but the two didn't arrive there together, and Marjorie showed up later at the Colony Club with Winslow Felix. Georgie also appeared at the Colony later, and there was quite a glaring contest. Marjorie had a date Sunday night to go to the Beverly Wilshire with Bernie Toplitsky.

Little Janet Snowden, visiting oil heiress, wanted to feel an earthquake, but when she got a mild one two days later, she promptly moved out of her hotel and has taken a bungalow in the hills. She'll stay in Hollywood two months, and Jack La Rue still seems to be the favored swain.

Other Hollywood stars dabble with speedy motors, but Chick Chandler will drive an exhibition race at Ascot Speedway, November 12. Later, probably November 26, he plans to enter regular competition on the track.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Way Things Happen.

CONSIDER the man for a moment. Short and squat and furtive, he operated what seemed to be a candy store on the lower East Side. In realty, he accepted bets on the horses. All day long, grimy laborers handed him slips and money. What they won with pick and shovel they shoveled out picking winners.

Now, consider the woman. There really isn't much to consider. She danced—if you would call it that—in the chorus of a stock burlesque troupe. She earned $28 a week. The seasons were getting briefer. And, darling, she was growing older.

They met one night in an alleged night club on Second avenue. When he learned that she was on the stage he was fascinated. When she found out that he was making plenty of coin, the fascination became mutual. And so, in due time, they journeyed to the Municipal Building and were wedded for better or for much worse . . .

The man prospered exceedingly. He soon owned several pool rooms where the ponies to their hearts' content and their pocketbooks' discontent.

As the money rolled in, the woman grew extravagant. The man didn't mind the wife's extravagance. He felt that she was loyal and that she was devoted to him. He boasted to the boys that the little wife would cut off one of her legs if he asked her to.

When husbands feel that way, there's generally something wrong. And this case was no exception. As a matter of fact, she was strictly coo-coo about a young Broadway night club hound who saw a good thing in the woman. This young man thought he was a dancer. And if half the grease on his hair could have been placed beneath his feet, he might have been a dancer at that.

When, in the course of human events, it became necessary for the husband to learn the truth the wife admitted everything in a very complete manner. After all, why not? She loved this dancer, she said, and she was tired of her husband.

There was but one thing for the husband to do, and he did it pronto. He divorced his wife and the court allowed her $40 a week alimony. Whereupon something happened that the woman hadn't figured on. When the gigolo heard the sad news about the $40 a week, his great love for the woman died a sudden death. How was a self-respecting young dancer to live on such a sum? Why, it wouldn't even keep him in grease . . .

The woman couldn't go back to the stage now. Not a chance. So she turned to something she knew nothing about. She began to play the horses. She had about as much luck as most of her ex-husband's customers. None at all.

Still she kept playing the horses. As soon as the alimony came in it went on some nag or other. Some women get alimony for nags. This one got nags for alimony.

After losing all her money away, she suddenly made the astounding discovery that race horse touts aren't reliable. She grew weary of their non-productive tips. So she decided that, from then on, she'd play a hunch and pick her own horses.

Scanning the dope sheet the following morning the woman noticed a horse that bore the same first name as she. She promptly went out and placed $25 on the horse to win. The bookmaker told her the horse would be at least 20-to-1, and pocketed her money with a grin.

Well, you know what happened. If that horse hadn't won there would be no such story—and we'd all be better off, I guess. But, it won—and the bookie paid her $500 the following morning.

The woman decided to stick to that nag. The next time out, she placed $500 on the pony's nose. Once again it won, this time at 12-to-1. To make a long story a little more intricate, the woman made almost $25,000 on that horse before many weeks had passed.

The woman didn't know who owned the horse—and what's more she didn't care. It was entered in the name of a stable. And as long as it kept in the money the woman didn't want to know any more about it.

And I don't know as I blame her. Long experience has taught me that the only person who cashes on the ponies, is the person who knows least about them. With me, it's a little different. I know very little about horses—and I can't win a bet anyhow. But I'm a columnist, so maybe that explains it.

Our heroine was wise enough to let well enough alone. She had won plenty on the nag she had picked, and that was all she wanted to know. She wasn't interested in his sires, or whether he was fed on hay that had been wrapped in cellophane.

The horse ran. The horse won. The woman bet. The woman collected. And since, honey, she was making plenty money—that's all she had to know . . .

As if by magic, her gigolo turned up once more. As soon as he learned she had fallen into money, he became more devoted than ever. She bought him clothes and meals and even considered the purchase of a small car for him. No wonder he was devoted.

She sat with the gigolo one evening in Dinty Moore's restaurant. They were dining. Suddenly she heard a group of men at the next table discussing the horse that had made her wealthy. She listened attentively.

"Yes, sir," said one of the diners. "Joe B— certainly has a money-making horse in this nag, F—"

The woman almost emptied a plate of vegetable soup in her lap. For the name that the man had mentioned as the owned of her winning horse, was that of her ex-husband!

Although he didn't know it, the ex-hubby was still paying for meals and clothes of the dancer with the grease on his hair! . . .

Did She Kill Her Husband?

THE JURY SAID "NO"

Now Jessie Costello Tells Her Own True Story at Last

If your husband were to die suddenly and mysteriously, would you be tried for his murder?

How do you know you wouldn't?

True Story Magazine in its next issue, which will be out on Friday, contains an amazing human document. It is the story of Jessie Costello, who was tried for the murder of her husband and who came within a hair's breadth of the electric chair.

This is a great story, not because it deals with a murder, but because it deals with the every day happenings of an every day life, out of which great tragedy can come.

And thinking people understand that.

We all go on from day to day. We work hard, we play a little, even flirt a little for the sake of our vanity. Then if some major tragedy occurs, we may find the most trivial of our doings or the kindest of our actions turned against us and look up from our grief to see a policeman at our door saying, "Come along with me!"

True Story Magazine has a great issue this month. An exceptionally big, frank story, called "My Common Law Marriage," is complete in this issue. The great Greta Garbo story also comes to its thrilling climax. Ready this Friday at eighty thousand news dealers. Wait for it.

MRS. ROOSEVELT FETED AT FAIR, GETS MEDAL

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt saw the World's fair today, and she arose early enough to be sure not to miss anything.

An hour before her Chicago hostesses had anticipated, Mrs. Roosevelt left her hotel and strolled through the downtown department store district. Unrecognized, she was accompanied by Mrs. Melvina Thompson Scheiber, her secretary.

They gazed through shop windows, and the President's wife recognized some furniture from a New York school of which she is a patron.

Next stop was the World's Fair exhibit at the Art Institute. It was the last day of exhibition of art treasures from the world over at the exhibition.

Wearing a dark suit trimmed with fur, Mrs. Roosevelt next appeared at the exposition grounds, was escorted through the gates by the 14th Cavalry and sat in her automobile to review the 3rd Field Artillery.

Her hosts on the Art Institute visit were Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer and Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, chairman of the woman's day program for the fair, Mrs. R. R. McCormick and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick.

In the directors' room at the administration building on the exposition grounds, the First Lady received a World's Fair medal and the greetings of Rufus C. Dawes, president of the fair, Mrs. Dames, and others.

A luncheon was held in the fair's federal building.

WHARF PARKING BAN ARGUED

The legality of the city's use of the Duquesne wharf for parking purposes was argued today before a full bench in Common Pleas court.

Arguments were on exceptions by the city to an opinion by Judge Thomas M. Marshall ruling against the city's right to use the wharf for anything but a river landing.

Attorney H. Stewart Dunn, representing the James Rees & Sons Co., plaintiffs, argued that the Legislature in 1836 forever set aside the wharf as a public landing.

Assistant City Solicitor T. M. Benner contended that public property may be used for private purposes so long as it doeh not interfere with public use. No claim had been made that the public had been barred from use of the wharf, he asserted.

MAYOR BACKING RELIEF ISSUE

Mayor John S Herron told a meeting of 300 civic, welfare and hospital workers in the Fort Pitt Hotel today they could count on the Republican city committee standing solidly behind the proposed amendment for a $25,000,000 bond issue for relief and hospitals.

Mrs. Alice Liveright, state secretary of welfare, representing Gov. Pinchot, said the Federal government would not aid hospitals unless the state did its part.

The Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander presided. A resolution was adopted urging passage of the relief bond issue amendment which is eighth on the list of 12 amendments to be voted on at the election next Tuesday. It also asks that hospital needs be included in the governor's call for a special session of the assembly.

YOUNG AUTHOR FINDS 'LIFE'

By DIXIE TIGHE
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A successful wedding band is still the gold ring on life's merry-go-round, but women have learned that second prizes have their value.

This is the opinion of Ursula Parrott, young author of Ex-Wife, whose new novel "The Tumult and the Shouting" is just off the press to support her theory that husband-hunting is not the sport it used to be.

Life's continuity is the new feminine cry, due, Miss Parrott believes, to the fact that women have now struck on the fact that life is quite long. She says:

"My generation, which grew up after the war—the generation just younger than the century—has now hit 30. We are surprised to find life is quite long. Those of us who were made self conscious by the F. Scott Fitzgerald era never thought they would live to 30. We all had the idea of snatching at life for what we could get. Now we know we might live even until 70."

COLLEGE 'FIRES' PRESIDENT

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Dismissal of Dr. Walter Scott Athearn as president of Butler University had been revealed today by a letter he wrote to three members of the board of directors in which he declined the alternative of resignation. Dr. Athearn wrote:

"I decline to resign and accept my discharge without a hearing in the hope that at some future time I may learn the reasons for this unusual procedure."

Dean James W. Putnam was named acting president to succeed Dr. Athearn, who came to Butler in 1931. Dr. Athearn succeeded Dr. Robert J. Aley, who resigned after the school was dropped from the accredited list of the North Central Association of Universities and Colleges. During Dr. Athearn's regime, the university was reinstated in the association.

Detroit Vets Urge Rum Sale by Glass

DETROIT, Oct. 31.—(INS.)—Sale of liquor by the glass in licensed public places and state monopoly of retail sales for "off premises consumption" was recommended to the Governor's legislative committee today by the Wayne County Council of the American Legion.

The Legion Council held that "good liquors at a low price are necessary, but freedom to purchase in small quantities is necessary if we are to do away with the speakeasy."

Betty Boyd, Film Actress, Gets Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Betty Boyd, movie actress, has been granted a divorce from Charles N. Over, Jr., in Juarez, Mexico, Ruben Licker, Over's lawyer, was advised today.

Sleep Death Battle Won, Convicts Sent Home

MISSISSIPPI PENITENTIARY, PARCHMAN, Miss., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Nine Mississippi convicts who wagered possible death against freedom in science's effort to control sleeping sickness were enroute to their homes tonight with their rewards. A tenth will follow tomorrow.

Singing refrains of "Home, Sweet Home," and happy as a group of school boys, they were discharged from the prison hospital today by order of Gov. Sennett Conner, who fulfilled an unofficial promise that each would be extended executive clemency at the conclusion of the tests to determine whether mosquitoes transmit encephalitis, dread disease which took a toll of 60 lives in the Middle West last summer.

Two of the ten received full pardons. The other eight will be relieved of all claims of the state as quickly as they can comply with publication provisions necessary before any pardon petition can be officially acted on. These eight were given six month suspensions to be followed be pardons.

The experiment failed to show a single indication that mosquitoes are carriers of the disease, hospital attaches said. An official report covering the entire experiment will be made to the governor soon by Dr. Felix J. Underwood, chief state health service and Dr. M. T. Harrison, surgeon, U. S. Health Bureau, who were in charge.

Rockefeller Scion Pays $27 Fine As Speeder

DARIEN, Conn., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Winthrop Rockefeller is $27 poorer today because he was caught speeding along the Boston Post road.

The 21-year-old son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., shelled out that amount yesterday when Judge William A. Kelly imposed a fine of $15 and costs after a policeman testified Rockefeller was traveling 64 miles an hour.

Rockefeller said he was hurrying to New York so a friend could catch a boat for Europe. He promised:

"I won't do it again."

ESTATE FIGHTS NURSE'S CLAIM

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Opening his defense with the statement Mrs. R. E. Herbert betrayed the "confidence and trust" of the late Col. J. B. Lankershim and obtained his signature to a $50,000 note, J. W. MacDonald, lawyer-executor of the Lankershim estate, told a jury yesterday he would prove the note was a forgery.

Mrs. Herbert, a Long Beach nurse, sued the estate for collection of the note she said was given her by the wealthy developer of the San Fernando Valley for "services rendered" as his nursing companion for three years.

The statement by MacDonald followed denial of a motion for a non-suit. Testimony was introduced immediately in an attempt to show Lankershim, seven times a millionaire, suffered from failing eyesight in the last year of his life.

Warner's Daughter To Wed Director

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Mervyn Leroy, film director, and Doris Warner, daughter of Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Brothers-First National Pictures, will be married in New York January 3, an announcement here said.

HOUSTON BANS 'UNCLE TOM'

Universal Service.

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 31.—Uncle Tom's Cabin will not be produced in Houston.

The Dramatic Club of Rice Institute yielded yesterday to the protests of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and announced it had abandoned its plans for the show's presentation.

A controversy had raged for days between the two organizations, the U. D. C. contending that the play was unfair and an insult to the South. The reply of Dramatic Club officials, most of them Southerners, was that they regarded the play as "fine comedy" and that the "Civil War was over."

But the objections of the U. D. C. finally prevailed and it was called off.

It was not believed there would be similar action against The Green Pastures which is touring the South with an all-Negro cast. The Marc Connelly play, nonpolitical in character, hardly could have the objectionable features found by the U. D. C. in Uncle Tom's Cabin, it was said.

Infant Prodigy Swings Dumbbells

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(Universal.)—Charles Louis Fuchs celebrated his fourth birthday at his parents' apartment in the Bronx today by swinging 50-pound dumbbells and tearing a half pack of ordinary playing cards across the middle.

Thus were his parents rewarded for physical training they have been giving him since early infancy.

Allentown Boy Dies In Leap From Hotel

Yale Boy's Mailed Laundry Stolen Here, Man Held

Joseph McDermott, alias Joseph McDonald, 34, arrested yesterday by Policeman Frank Goob on a charge of stealing a mail sack in the Pennsylvania Railroad Station, was turned over to the postoffice authorities and held for hearing Saturday before the United States commissioner.

The package contained laundry mailed by Charles D. Lamond, a Yale student, to his mother, Mrs. W. H. Lamond, at Shaker Heights, O.

GIRL'S SUICIDE LEAP FOILED

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—An attempt by a 25-year-old girl to jump from fourteenth floor window of her room in a midtown hotel was frustrated yesterday when her leg caught between the window and the radiator, leaving her suspended in the air.

The girl, Vanda Windsor, former show girl and model, told police she had attempted to take her life because of despondency over lack of work and the recent death of a brother-in-law. She was taken to Bellevue Hospital for treatment of an injury of the leg and held for observation.

The girl hanging suspended from the hotel window attracted a crowd and caused a police emergency squad to be summoned. Authorities said she apparently had stood on the radiator, which is flush with the window, and her foot slipped between the radiator as she tried to leap.

Police Guard Hearing Of Bandit Suspects

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—While detectives guarded all doors two youths were arraigned in police court today and held to the grand jury by Judge Ben Pfefferle on charges of robbing the Hoffstetter cigar store of $2,465 in two separate holdups.

All doors leading to the police elevator were locked as the youths, Earl N. Holder, 18, and Frank Hawks Chew, 19, both of Little Rock, Ark., were taken before the police "showup" and then pleaded not guilty.

Ohio Governor Urges Second Big Airship

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Immediate construction of another large dirigible airship and of a smaller training airship, both for the United States Navy, was recommended by Gov. George White today in a letter to Harold L. Ickes, federal public works administrator.

It was proposed to have the cost of construction provided under the public works act, the Governor pointing out that the project would provide direct employment for approximately 1,500 men.

Former Arkansas Official Acquitted

CAMDEN, Ark., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—A jury in Circuit here late yesterday acquitted Lawrence E. Wilson former lieutenant governor of Arkansas, of charges of embezzling funds from a bank of which he was liquidating agent.

The charge on which Wilson was tried was that he embezzled $500 of funds from the Bank of Stephens. Using his records filed in chancery court as notes, he testified to a $500 transaction, but said it was accounted for later.

Dr. Wolf, Companion Of Explorers, Dies

PASADENA, Cal., Oct. 31—(AP.)—Dr. Henry A. Wolff, whose early years were colored by adventures in South Africa with Cecil Rhodes and Leander Jameson, famous explorers, died here yesterday at the age of 81. He once practiced medicine in Kimberly, South Africa.

Church Cast Will Present Comedy

"Crooks for a Month," a three-act comedy, will be presented by the Young People's Society of Mt. Calvary Church at Stowe Township High School, Russellwood avenue, Thursday and Friday nights. The performances will be directed by Miss Marie Werlinich.

BANK SUCCESS IN CAMPAIGN INDICATED

The sale of stock in the Central National Bank, new institution proposed for the Lawrenceville district, has been started with highly encouraging results, according to Dr. A. L. Lewin, president.

Within a few hours after the books were opened yesterday, several hundred shares of common stock had been sold, according to Dr. Lewin.

Recently the Reconstruction Finance Corporation agreed to purchase $100,000 of the preferred stock of the new bank, leaving $150,000 to be raised in common stock. This is being offered at $75 a share.

The new bank has an option on the building formerly occupied by the Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company, Penn avenue and Butler street. The old bank, which is in the hands of a receiver, has paid 45 per cent in dividends.

In addition to Dr. Lewin, those active in organizing the new bank are Charles B. Karns, vice president of the Pennsylvania Lubricating Company; Henry P. Spilker, president of the Sterrit Thomas Foundry Company; Joseph B. Nalitz and Burns Darsie.

CROSSING WORK HERE O. K.'D

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—Improvement of three grade crossings in Allegheny County had the approval of the Public Service Commission today.

The commission authorized abolition of a crossing and the construction of a new structure at points where state highway Route No. 330, as relocated, will cross Pennsylvania Railroad tracks in Large and West Elizabeth. The second improvement will be made at a point where a road leading into Wilson will cross a railroad side track leading to Large's distillery.

The third improvement was the abolition of a crossing and erection of a new structure at a point where the same highway, as relocated, crosses four tracks of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company in Jefferson Township.

SHERIFF SALE DELAY UPHELD

International News Service.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Oct. 31.—Constitutionality of the act of May 16, 1933, empowering Common Pleas courts to stay sheriff's sales of homes and farms, was upheld in a decision on record today by President Judge Samuel E. Shull, of the courts of Monroe and Pike counties.

The decision was handed down in the case of Stewart and Laura G. Brodt, of Mount Pocono, against Mary H. Price, also of Mount Pocono. Miss Price petitioned the Pike County Court for a stay of execution until January, 1934, pending granting of a loan by the Federal Home Owners Loan Corporation.

Claire Windsor Begs New Trial In Balm Suit

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Vigorous pleas of blonde Claire Windsor's attorneys for a new trial of the $100,000 alienation of affections suit the stage and screen actress lost to Mrs. Marion Y. Read, Oakland matron, were taken under submission last night by Superior Judge J. P. Sproul.

He said he would hand down his decision within 10 days.

In addition to citing numerous points of law in support of their motion for a new trial of the charges that Miss Windsor stole the affections of Alfred C. Read, Jr., Oakland broker, who since has been divorced from Mrs. Read, Jr., the attorneys charged there had been errors in the judge's instructions to the jury.

They also asserted "vindictiveness, passion and prejudice" had crept into the deliberations of the jury which awarded Mrs. Read $75,000.

PARTNER FINED FOR TORTURE

MUSKEGON, Mich., Oct. 31.—(AP.)—William T. Holt, prominent manufacturer, today was placed on probation for three years and fined $800 following his plea of guilty to complicity in the kidnaping and torturing of a business associate in an effort to force a confession of theft of $3,800 from his company.

Leonard O'Connor, Chicago private detective, and Angelo Martinelli, his assistant, are serving prison sentences for the actual kidnaping and torturing of Holt's associate, William Switzer.

Switzer declared he was taken last month to a cottage near here, beaten and burned by the detectives who demanded that he confess the theft. He declared he knew nothing about the missing funds. Officials said the theft still is unsolved.

FARM UPRISING SEEN IN YEAR

International News Service.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 31.—The Middle West will be embroiled in a bloody revolution within the year unless the government "stops twiddling its thumbs and really does something important for relief of agriculture," governors attending the Middle West Agricultural Conference here were told today.

The prediction was made by Wallace M. Short, former Mayor of Sioux City, Ia., and now publisher of a paper there. Short said:

"No man who knows the Middle Western farmer can have the slightest doubt of his temper.

"He has asked little, but none of what he has asked for has been given him. What he has been given by the government was what the government wanted to give him—not what he asked for. Now, the farmer is ready to take by whatvere means necessary what he must have to survive.

"His battle is more than a battle to keep alive today. It is a battle to keep alive in the next generation."

BANKER'S SON SCHOOL CHUM RUN AWAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Phelps Newberry, Jr., who expected to be cruising the bounding main about this time after he and Henry Wetter, Jr., ran away from school, is waiting instead for his father, speeding here from Detroit.

Yesterday, young Newberry and young Wetter were rescued from a police station by Daniel P. Caulkins, a friend of Mr. Newberry. A nation-wide alarm was broadcast for the boys when they carried their baggage out of the fashionable Hotchkiss School in Lakeville, Conn., bound for glamor and romance in any stokehole they could find.

"No, the boys haven't gone back to school. Phelps Newberry called me from Detroit and asked me to keep his son with me until he gets here. I haven't heard from Wetter's father. What will happen when Mr. Newberry gets here? I don't know."

Young Wetter's home is in Memphis, Tenn. The boys said yesterday that they tried to get Henry Ford II, young Newberry's roommate, to join them in their tour, but he wouldn't go.

Newberry's father is a Detroit banker and a neighbor of the Edsel Fords at Grosse Point, Mich. His grandfather is former United States Senator Truman Handy Newberry.

M'KEE ASSAILED BY SEABURY

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The accusation that Joseph V. McKee, now seeking the Mayor's chair, used his official position as president of the Board of Aldermen for private advantage, was tossed into the city campaign today by Samuel Seabury.

The fusion leader made this charge while hammering away at McKee's connections with the city administration prior to the revelations of the Hofstadter Committee city graft investigations, which Seabury prosecuted.

He made the basis of his charge a suppressed affidavit in the investigation by Francis T. McEneny, whom McKee discharged as chief examiner of the Board of Aldermen and later reinstated. The reason for this reinstatement has been made a talking point of the campaign by Seabury.

Bankers Sign Pact To Finance New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—After a series of executive meetings lasting far into the night the contracts in the four-year credit agreement between the bankers and the city were signed early this morning at a special open session of the Board of Estimate.

The agreement by which the banks will finance the city for four years will be signed by the members of the banking committee later. Mayor John P. O'Brien and Comptroller George McAneny signed for the city.

DUNDEE CROWNED MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMP

LOU BROUILLARD LOSES SECOND RING TITLE

International News Service

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—Meet the new world middleweight boxing champion—Vince Dundee, of Newark, N. J.

Dundee, veteran of 150 ring battles, won the crown by a decision victory over Lou Brouillard of Worcester, Mass., in a 15-round battle last night in Boston Garden. It was a startling upset.

Vince Dundee

The decision of Referee Johnny Martin and the two judges was unanimous for Dundee, who was credited with winning 10 rounds.

Edward C. Foster, representing the National Boxing Association, presented Dundee a championship certificate after he won the battle.

The veteran snatched the newly-won crown of Brouillard by sidestepping the champion's furious rushes and then coming back with effective rights to the head. Dundee showed superior boxing throughout the battle. His blocking was good and he landed the cleaner punches.

LOOPING RIGHT WINS

Dundee's effective work with a looping right did not hurt Brouillard, but it kept piling up points for the Jerseyite and by the tenth round it was pretty certain Brouillard could retain his title only through a spectacular finish. This [illegible] not forthcoming.

The attendance was announced [illegible],330, with gross gate receipts [illegible]$15,021.50.

[illegible]ALS TO MEET AGAIN

Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker [illegible] Madison Square Garden, New [illegible]k, announced that under the [illegible]ms of contracts held with the [illegible] fighters, Dundee must defend [illegible]title in a return match to be [illegible]ged in New York.

Brouillard received $4,912, while Dundee was paid $1,637.

The Worcester French-Canadian almost has a record for brief custody of boxing titles. Two years ago, he defeated young Jack Thompson for the welterweight crown, but three months later, in his first title start, he was defeated by Jackie Fields. He won the middleweight title only two months ago from Ben Jeby, in New York, and lost it in his first defense last night.

After the bout last night Dundee discounted rough tactics by his opponent which drew the disapproval of the crowd, saying: "He's just a green kid."

DECLINED BY YAROSZ

Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, twice victor over Vince Dundee, was a rings de spectator at the Dundee-Brouillard fight in Boston last night, along with his manager, Ray Fowler. They went to Boston from Newark, N. J., where Yarosz lost a referee's decision to Young Terry last week.

Yarosz was offered the Brouillard match in Boston, but declined it on the ground that Brouillard was not the generally recognized champion and therefore was not entitled to take a champion's [illegible] per cent out of the gate receipts, leaving only 12½ per cent to his opponent. Dundee aims to restore his prestige lumped at the opportunity and came away with Brouillard's claims to the title.

Long Shots Score At Charity Meeting

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—[illegible]ith outsiders taking seven of the [illegible]ght races, Sweet Charity was the [illegible]ief winner at Laurel yesterday [illegible]here the Maryland State Fair [illegible]ssociation held the first of two [illegible]ays of thoroughbred racing for [illegible]e benefit of the state's unemployed.

Although no figures were available on the amount charity will receive from the program, 6,500 fans packed their way into the track to do their part in helping boost the state fund.

Mrs. G. L. Hamlin's Toher, winner of the first race, set the pace for the longshot when he stepped away from seven other two-year-olds to score a neck victory and paid $84 for a $2 straight ticket.

Pirates Sign Buckeye Star

LEO RASKOWSKI . . . . FORMER OHIO STATE TACKLE ACE

Word was received here today from New York, from Dick Guy, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, that the local National Professional League club has purchased the release of Leo Raskowski, star tackle at Ohio State in 1927, '28 and '29, from the Brooklyn club, which the locals meet in Brooklyn next Sunday and again here the following Sunday. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

FORGOTTEN ACE SAVES U. S. C.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—(AP.)—He lay under a blanket in a far corner of the dressing room—a desolate individual with No. 13 on his grid-soiled jersey.

The coaches' half-time pleadings were meaningless mumbled words to his ears. He was dazed, suffering from slight concussion of the brain, physicians said later, from tackling a goalward galloping giant fully 50 pounds heavier than himself.

The team filed out for the second half. He lay there under the blanket, unnoticed. Fellow players didn't miss him.

FORGOTTEN BY MATES

What was he doing there? He didn't know.

The student manager was telling him he would feel better if he went out and sat on the bench with the others. Together they slipped into seats, unnoticed, as the opposing teams lined up for the second half kickoff.

The fourth period started. His name was called by his coach. He bounded to his feet automatically warmed up, entered the fray. No. 13 on his jersey.

Thirteen plays later, exactly 13, he slanted through the line and cut back, a dancing, dogging pygmy eluding giants who would last their hands upon him and crush him to earth.

Then he whirled clear of the mob. Sixty yards he ran, only the fog swirling around him now and stopped the ball behind the goal line.

70,000 CHEER RUN

All of a sudden those who forgot him remembered. The team that had no. missed him was tapping him on the back. The coaches were jumping up and down. The 70,000 persons in the stands were wild.

"Warburton . . . Irving Warburton . . . Cotton Warburton!"

Forgotten a half hour before, he had given the University of Southern California a 6 to 3 victory over California.

Sauers, Mosconi Win in Cue Play

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—The national pocket billiards tournament swung into full schedule today after Eddie Sauers, of Oakland, Cal., and William Mosconi, of Philadelphia, had inaugurated the meet with triumphs.

Sauers swept through Sylvester Schliesman, of Minneapolis, last night, 125 to 36, in 13 innings, taking away from the table with an unfinished high run of 39. Mosconi, youngest player entered, was hard pressed to turn back the challenge of the oldest tournament contestant, Harry Wood, of Detroit, 125 to 102, in 53 innings.

Midget Wolgast Wins Battle in London

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, recognized in some parts of the United States as flyweight champion, outpointed Jackie Brown, of England, also a claimant to the title, in a 12-round non-title bout at Albert Hall last night. The decision follows that at 114 pounds, two pounds over the class limit, but a rematch at championship weight was expected.

Wolgast was cut over the right eye in the fifth round but the injury failed to slow him down.

FORMER SOCCER CHAMPS BACK IN LIMELIGHT

By TOM BIRKS

Soccer fans of the district still are talking over the victories of Cecil, Heidelberg and Morgan in the preliminary round of the National challenge cup play over the week-end.

In the minds of many fans, the victory of Cecil was expected, not so much because of the inferiority of the Union Switch and Signal eleven, but comparison of the records of meetings between teams of the district and the Keystone League. The members of the latter organization usually have finished on the long end.

CECIL UNIMPRESSIVE

Cecil, however, did not show anything that would indicate the team is going any place in the National tourney. On the other hand, the victory of Heidelberg, whereby the Green and Gold clicked for the first time this season, was a good indication that the former National amateur champion is going to get somewhere.

In some quarters the victory of Heidelberg over Moon Run and Morgan over Castle Shannon were classed in the nature of upsets. Judging from past experience in this district where cup games are concerned, Morgan and Heidelberg should have gone into the games overwhelming favorites. Both are great cup fighters. The results Sunday proved that point.

MORGAN SHOWS FORM

Morgan, with practically a veteran lineup, playing Shannon, composed of veteran forwards and a junior defense, Jaap, Zeewan, Innocenti and Kevish, is not new to cup tie soccer, but the defense has not faced much senior competition, so Morgan should have been entitled the edge.

Heidelberg, the greatest cup tie team ever to kick a ball in this district, merely lived up to its reputation.

Soccer Notes

Johnny McCosky, the only one left of the 1929 National amateur championship team at Heidelberg, scored another goal on Sunday. Johnny, usually a weak shot, must have found a pair of "shooting boots."

Dixon Field, at Swissvale, where the Switch played Cecil on Sunday, is one of the best soccer fields in the district. The Switchmen should get some good crowds there when the National amateur play gets under way.

George Brannigan, veteran soccer referee of this district, has been awarded the Penn State-Lafayette game next Saturday at State College.

Johnny Jaap, the greatest inside right in this district, is lost to National open play this season. Johnny played with the Shannon club last Sunday. It is tough to have a player like Jaap out of the tourney so early.

TOUGH BATTLES FOR LOCALS

It would be serious enough if Wash-Jeff were just another tough team on the Duquesne schedule, but when it is taken into consideration that the Prexies are laying for the Dukes, having been beaten the last two times out against the locals, the situation becomes more complicated, a team capable of giving trouble to any eleven these fading glimmers have viewed all season, and while they were beaten, 14 to 0, at Detroit, which in turn lost, 13 to 0, to Duquesne, the Red and Black still stacks up as being the toughest obstacle the Dukes have faced all fall.

A special blackboard drill for quarterbacks was held by the Duquesne mentor yesterday, but today there will be rougher work on hand on the field.

Goal Lines

Doc Shubert, Pitt center, hardly is a good to take chances. The Doc takes any and all chances in front of a Pitt ball carrier when it's up to him to make interference. Saturday he removed Bob Hogan from a play which, had it not been for an unfortunate stumble, would have meant another Pitt touchdown.

The situation was as follows: Ken Ormiston barked out of the line and intercepted a Notre Dame pass on about his own 30-yard line. He started to run and had a clear field ahead of him, but tripped and went down. Shortwell, as soon as he saw that Ormiston had the ball, turned and made ready to take the first pair of legs he saw coming toward his teammate. Doc was charging forward head down, and when a pair of scissor legs hopped ahead, Doc crashed into 'em and down they went. Imagine Doc's surprise when he found he had Hogan on the ground.

Perhaps it's unnecessary hard on Dartmouth to bring this up, but the annual Dartmouth-Yale game always recalls the fact that the Indians have been tackling Yale right along since 1885 and haven't won a game yet. Three ties is all they have to show for 54 encounters, and that's better than the first game which Yale won 113 to 0.

Fordham's 2-0 victory over Alabama Saturday was the first football game between the rudigers and their second athletic encounter, but the marsh in football and baseball was just the same. Some years ago Fordham beat the Crimson Tide on the ball field, 3-1, with Jack Coffey, the Rams' present athletic head, driving in all the runs.

A large part of Marquette's football drill this week will be devoted to learning how to stop Jack Allen, West Virginia quarterback, ground star. Allen scored five touchdowns and almost single handed ruined Marquette's homecoming celebration.

St. Mary's is sending a backfield East to play Fordham which the Gaels believe can equal the Rams on the field and beat them all hollow when it comes to nick names. In it are Quarterback "Sonny Sid" Ahern, Halfback George "Ironhorse" Wilson and Fullback "Dynamite" Dodson.

Charles Fox, Villanova guard, is becoming a side attraction. Last summer he was struck by a snake. A week ago he was struck by a golf ball. Now he has a hand, wrist and arm in a cast and is under the care of a doctor and has a swollen cheek, a big chin, big head, big eye and a Manhattan big enough for two.

Eleven cousins of Nebraska's Weidemann are in the line-up for Creighton's Bluejays this season. Call 'em Plainsmen hereafter. The students didn't like the old moniker and a new nickname was the result.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

In days of old when Nordics
Led in football by a mile
The lad of swarthy brow was in a quand'ry—
Today the gallant halfback
May be making touchdowns while
His old man runs the village Chinese laundry.

The social prestige hero
In himself was quite a guy,
His ante-cedents, though, were of the peerage,
And these silk-stockinged Bozos
Wore their kellys plenty high
Tow'rd boys whose folks came over in the steerage.

But everything is differ'nt
Since the sport became four-Square;
Said Uncle Sam, "the narrow stuff's baloney;"
Ol' Uncle has included
In some recent bills of fare
The boys who like spaghet' and macaroni.

Speaking of Italian-American boys in athletics, the Pirates are apt to feature one of these huskies in the years to come in Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto, recently purchased from the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League.

Lavagetto is a second-sacker who takes a real cut at the ball. He is not yet of age and it may be that he will have to be farmed out for one more season, although some of the scouts who were on his trail aver he is ready for big league duty.

An Italian name in the lineup of the Buccos would prove a big gate attraction at Forbes Field. John McGraw tried for years to acquire a ranking Jewish player. He almost hit the mark in Andy Cohen, who was quite a performer.

GRAPHIC GOLF

WEIGHT TRANSFERENCE

Clarence Gamber, who enjoys a reputation of driving them a mile, has supple hips for a big man. Two stages of his swing are illustrated above and both attest this hip feature of his play; first, as the club is taken back, and, secondly, showing how they have turned his body enough on the downswing to allow the clubhead to pass through with no interference.

In the upswing the left side of the body starts the turn and the weight gradually shifts to the right leg, straightening it and putting it in a position to apply considerable leverage when the ball is finally struck. The fact that the left knee turns toward the right in the upstroke aids the pivot and also proper balance.

As the downstroke starts the left heel returns to the turf showing that a portion of the weight has returned to this side. This overcomes the tendency to allow the weight to remain on the right foot and is the start of the gradual weight transference which increases as the clubhead nears the ball.

The motion of the body thus is kept going forward into the stroke and full use of all the weight and strength is utilized as impact takes place.

BRUIN HOCKEY HOPES HIGH

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—Bigger, better and rougher than ever loom the belligerent Boston Bruins on the National Hockey League horizon. They have refused to abandon their sledge-hammer methods and the baneful glares they are directing at the New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs seem to assure the faithful that the ice sport is not going to get any tamer in 1933-34.

The sting of the last Stanley Cup play-off, as far as the Bruins are concerned, has not lessened and they are determined to settle old scores, which remain as fresh as ever, despite the long summer lay-off.

First on their list of unfinished business come the Rangers, whom they regard as "fluke champions." Then come Connie Smythe's tenacious Leafs, who killed Boston's Stanley Cup chances, as well as their own, in that never-to-be forgotten deciding game for last season's league championship, the longest and most wearing struggle in hockey's history.

The Bruins are again a burly and veteran aggregation, having taken on only four new men, including Bob Gracie, a former Leaf who was traded for Perk Galbraith and several rookies after being turned over to the Ottawa Senators and hard-bitten Johnny Sheppard, late of the New York American. Pinkie Davie, a forward, and Joe Jerwa, a defenseman, have been taken up from the Bruins' Canadian-American League farm.

Art Shapman, a Bruin center for the past three seasons, has left to manage the farm team and all of the hockey signs say that George Owen, first American-trained player to make good in the majors, is looking for a place to hang up his skates.

by strategists and attacked by drug-store quarterbacks.

Hunk's assistants are Ike Voedisch, a star scout; Nordy Hoffman, 1931 all-America guard; Marchmont Schwartz, 1930-31 all-America halfback, and Tom Conley, end and captain of the 1930 champions. Critics consider them inexperienced. Although stoutly denied, reports of dissention drifted out of the practice sessions. Certainly there appears a lack of cohesion in the coaching organization.

Plausible but also unconfirmed stories have circulated about factional feeling among the players themselves. It is said the veterans resented the ballyhoo for sophomore stars of this year's squad. At any rate the mixture failed to click and led to a big shakeup in the line before the Pittsburgh game.

Whatever the causes, Notre Dame football today appears woefully weak in the fundamentals of blocking and tackling. As many as five quarterbacks have been used in a single game. Yet the material seems good, if not better than the average.

LOCAL GOLFER PA. HANDICAP CHAMPION

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP.)—John B. Bass, of the Conoco Golf Club, Ponca City, Okla., was declared winner of the first annual national handicap championship, conducted by the Handicap Golfers' Association of America.

The Oklahoman, a three-handicap player, won the final playoff from nine other finalists with a net score of one under par for 36 holes. He scored a 74-75—149 which, with his handicap, gave him a net of 143 for the 36 holes. Par at Conoco is 72.

Second place went to W. F. Zentler, of the Leewood Golf Club, Scarsdale, N. Y., who finished all square with par. D. M. Wood, of the Steilacoom Golf and Country Club, Tacoma, Wash., and H. L. Dalton, of the Charlotte Country Club, Charlotte, N. C., tied for third place with net scores of two over par.

R. M. McNulty, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, was announced as winner of the Pennsylvania state championship. McNulty will be awarded a prize for his effort.

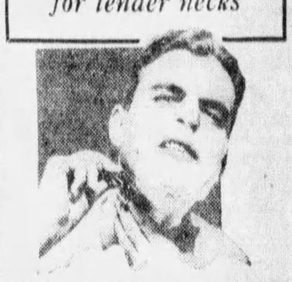
NEW KIND OF SHAVE

for tender necks



HERE'S a tip for men who are troubled with "neck rash", or very tender skin. It's a trick used by some of the finest barber shops in the country—such as the U. S. Senate Barber Shop and the Famous Terminal Barber Shops.

Follow this tip—and see how much easier your shave is—fast, smooth and clean—and more important, notice the difference in your skin. Instead of being raw, sore, smarting, it's cool, soothed, refreshed—with all signs of irritation gone! What a difference!

The idea is to apply a thin layer of Medicated Noxzema on your face before lathering. Rush in the lather over it. The Noxzema does two things—first, it softens the beard better; second, it forms a protective film on the skin which helps prevent cutting the skin; and best of all, soothes any skin irritation, or tenderness and stops clear up any razor rash.

If you shave with a latherless cream, use Noxzema the same way, without a lather—wet face, apply Noxzema, and then shave.

Here's an easy way to test this tip—to see for yourself how Noxzema gives you the smoothest and most comfortable shave you've ever had. This week you can get a trial tube of Noxzema—25c value for only 10c. Only a dime—but it means 15 wonderful shaves! Get a tube at the nearest drug store—today.

GIRL WIFE SUES OIL FIRM HEIR

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., Oct 31. (AP.)—A plea for temporary alimony by Mrs. Alecia McDonald, wife of James McDonald III, young descendant of a wealthy associate of John D. Rockefeller in the development of the Standard Oil Company, had been taken under advisement here today by Superior Judge Franklin Swart, who urged the opposing sides to settle their differences.

McDonald is the son of Maj. James McDonald, Jr., of Hailey, Idaho, and grandson of James McDonald, Sr., Rockefeller associate. His 18-year-old wife charged he had deserted her October 18 and refused to give her money for support.

Young Mrs. McDonald, seeking $500 a month temporary alimony, testified her husband had given her but $1.54 in five weeks. Dr. Orah Allen, of San Francisco, told the court the young wife was expecting a baby next February.

Mrs. Beulah Martin, mother and guardian of the young defendant and divorced wife of James McDonald, Jr., in answering the suit, filed a petition asking annulment of the marriage on the ground that her son was a minor and that she had not given her consent.

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XIX.

She was the sweetest prettiest girl in the world! He wanted her! He couldnt do without her! For her sake, if she would only be kind to him, he would postpone this marriage!

Postpone it?

What did he mean? What was he offering her?

And what about the woman Galbraith?

"Darling, I can't afford to chuck this job. I'm in line for membership in the firm. I'll have to kid her along in the meantime."

A sudden, intense curiosity caught his hearer. What did she know of men? The workings of their minds? The twists, and dark passages?

She forced herself to say, pulling away from him: "Tell me exactly what you are thinking of?"

"Darling, I'm wild about you, and it would be so wonderful if we could have a little love-nest where we could meet?"

She stared at him, suspicion consolidating. So he thought her that sort?

"On upper Riverside, where it's cool and beautiful and we wouldn't run into anyone I know, there are the cutest little apartments! The rent, of course, would be my business."

Nollie was shocked and astounded, but kept silent.

Let him go on. Let him show her the abysses in his mind. Let her gain knowledge of men folk.

DECLINES OFFER

She made an error there. To save his pride—or that which passed as pride—a wiser woman would have headed him off.

He blundered on, thinking he was gaining ground with her—"Miss Day . . . Nollie . . . I'd furnish it for you beautifully and I'd come and see you every night I could . . . and week-ends, when the weather was fine, we'd go for long trips out in the country."

"Alone?" She looked up at him. Her lovely eyes were startled and innocent.

"Of course. Who is to say nay? Aren't we free agents?"

"I didn't think you were. I thought you were engaged to be married."

"I'll stall that off for a time. Don't you be afraid."

Nollie drew back from him. She said, in a childlike way: "What do I get out of it?"

"Darling—" he spoke reproachfully, albeit with a play of tenderness—"you have ME! My—my protection! My love!"

"And when that's all over and done with, along comes your marriage with Miss Galbraith?"

"I didn't say I would . . . don't

Synopsis

Nollie Day, stenographer at an exclusive hotel, is befriended by wealthy Mrs. Judson, a widow. Nollie goes to a theater in place of Mrs. Judson, where she meets handsome Tony O'Brien. She reveals her own identity but Tony does not hear her. Next day, Tony telephones and learns Mrs. Judson has gone abroad. Nollie wants to clear her identity, but is unable to get in touch with Tony. Nollie secures a new position as secretary to Jack Brilling, of Galbraith & Co. Miss Galbraith, Brilling's fiancee, is jealous and warns Nollie. Brilling tells Nollie he loves her.

Now Go On

hat as best she could. Her cheeks were flushed a bright red. Her eyes, tears near the surface, were shining with undue brilliance.

"So you're here again . . . alone . . . at 8 o'clock at night!" Miss Galbraith's mouth was set in a hard, jealous line.

"I've been working late, and Mr. Brilling came back to sign those letters." Nollie had an impulse to cover up the thing—to shield, from this Vengeance, the man who had insulted her.

But Miss Galbraith was quite beside herself. She would believe nothing told her.

"You go," she cried, pointing dramatically to the door, "you go—and my father will see to it you never re-enter this office!"

QUITS JOB

Nollie saw red.

"You don't have to fire ME, Miss Galbraith! I've already turned down your fiance's interesting offer. You can ask him what it was—and I assure you I wouldn't return here for a million dollars!"

Then she made her exit in the grand manner, cheeks aflame, and chin held high.

Another job? She MUST get one. Nollie had slept restlessly, and she awoke to a blazing BATTLE "ABOVE THE CLOUDS," LOOKOUT MOUNTAINS, NOV. 24, 1863.

This victory, won for the North by Gen. Joseph Hooker, is the most memorable of the struggles near Chattanooga (Nov. 23-25, 1863). The Western front of the Confederates was shattered and they were forced back into Georgia by Gen. Grant's armies. (United States History).

NAPOLEON DEFEATING RUSSIANS AT FRIEDLAND (1807).

Encouraged by Napoleon's defeat at Trafalgar, Great Britain, Russia, Austria and Sweden united to destroy him. But before they could attack, Napoleon struck at Ulm, Austerlitz (1805), Jena and Berlin (1806) again forcing Austria to her knees. Austria was glad to buy peace by ced[e] portions of Italy.

In 1807 Napoleon defeated Alexander I Russia at Friedland, forcing him into a bri[e] alliance with France. (World History).

SAL SODA

Sal soda or Sodium carbonate (Na2CO3) is an important chemical. The use of 1,700,000 tons produced annually in United States are shown above. Right: Manufacture by Solvay process. From ammoniacal brine (entering top) and CO2 (entering bottom) of carbonating tower, sodium bicarbonate (NaHCO3) and ammonium chloride (NH4Cl) are made. The former is filtered out and decomposed by heat (not shown) into sal soda and CO2; the latter is introduced in the carbonating tower. From NH4Cl is ammonia (NH3) obtained by mixing it with lime water (in tank A) and used with the brine (in tank B) to prepare the ammoniacal brine. The process is continuous, economical, only brine, lime, some ammonia and coal is used up. (General Science)

TYPES OF HOUSE ROOFS (General Science)

Flat roofs are slightly sloped for drainage. Shed and lean-to roofs slope in one, gable roofs in two, hip roofs in four directions. Gambrel and mansard roofs, have broken slopes; deck roof a flat top.

OTHELLO—DESDEMONA'S PLEA.

Beautiful and noble Desdemona, chooses as her husband the Moor, Othello, because of his qualities and despite his race. Her plea also convinces her desperate father and the judges before whom Othello stands accused of witchcraft. Cassio and Iago are two officers of the Moor. Iago, envying Cassio's friendship with the commander, schemes to destroy both. He arouses Othello's jealousy against Desdemona and Cassio. Tricked into belief, the Moor smothers Desdemona to death. Cassio overcoming a hired killer of Iago, unveils the miserable plot; so does Emilia, Iago's wife, killed for it by him.

IMMUNITY AGAINST BACTERIA (Ehrlich's Theory)

Most disease is caused by bacteria producing toxins (poisons) to kill or neutralize them the invaded organisms develop "anti bodies" which, if sufficient, prevent disease. This is called immunity. It may be inherited or acquired by having had the disease by inoculation of weakened or dead bacteria (vaccination) or the injection of antibodies contained in the blood serum of vaccinated animals.

Prof. Ehrlich explained immunity by chemical receptors (active molecules) of body cells (above); these receptors are the antibodies that combine with bacteria, toxins and protein matter thus make them harmless. Set free new receptors develop on the cell.

Receptors of first order (antitoxins) bind toxins; those of second agglutinize the bacteria or protein matter; those of the third order fix the bacteria or protein substance with their amboceptor and the complement of the blood, rendering the invading matter harmless.

This science-founded by Jenner and Pasteur—already has largely conquered such formerly fatal afflictions as rabies, smallpox, diphtheria, lockjaw, snake venom. Its developers are great benefactors to humanity. (General Science).

Show 'Em Your Card

Napoleon knew something when he bought himself a yard of red ribbon and hamburgered it into testimonial details for the buttonhole.

Men fought, lived and scrammed to get one of those lapel pennants. And while no American can accept a foreign decoration without a nod from Congress there is still a big New York demand for any diploma that you can pin on your chest.

The New Yorker will wear buttons, ribbons, feathers, old bottles or anything that will classify him as one who towers ears and scalp above his fellow men.

He will take anything. And if his vest is overcrowded with donated honors he will hang the surplus citations on his radiator cap.

When we came to New York we got a reporter's card and wore it in the hatband in important riots and exclusive neighborhood shindigs. It entitles you to go through parade lines, lead the grand march along the apple wharfs and to push revolving doors the wrong way. Now, a reporter's card in your hat is a dainty bit of work, providing that your paper hasn't been panning the police department.

Empowered with the official reportorial medal you could rush into burning buildings, frighten aldermen on white hosses and chalk up the commissioner's silk hat with foot notes. But it was just too bad if your editorial writer had called the chief of police a lunkhead that day.

Some important event would break. The goldfish had pulled the cat into the aquarium or something. You pasted your police card in your hat. The first policeman you met looked at your card and yelled, "Oh, the Evening Sneeze, eh? Well, here's a little more snuff for Mr. Kittluggle." And he whacked you around the corners of your ears with two dollars' worth of well seasoned hickory.

Mr. Kittluggle was the editorial writer, who, that day, had probably called the police a mob of disorganized curb polishers because they had failed to locate the boy who put the axle grease on Mr. Kittluggle's doorknob. Mr. Kittluggle didn't get the whack on the whiskers with the legal shillelah. He was safe in his swivel throne many miles away.

And, like all courageous writers of denunciatory paragraphs, he ranked shoulder to shoulder with the indomitable editor who cabled his quivering correspondent in China, "Go right back into those Himalaya Mountains and tell those million Chinese bandits they cannot intimidate the Evening Sneeze."

'Square Shooters' Both

Mayor Herron Is More Conservative, Less Willing to Make Changes, Than Mr. McNair

In the answers of Mayor John S. Herron, the Republican nominee, and W. N. McNair, the Democratic candidate, to the questions put to them by the Sun-Telegraph may be found a good index to their characters.

Neither tried to dodge an issue. They answered the questions fearlessly, and the answers, we believe, represent their honest convictions.

The outstanding difference between the two is that Mr. Herron is more cautious, more conservative, less willing to make changes, than Mr. McNair.

This was shown most strikingly in their answers to the questions as to the one-year garbage contract and as to the taxation of the real estate of the public utilities.

Notwithstanding that the one-year contract discourages competitive bidding and permits the same concern to get the business year after year at what is said to be an excessive figure, Mayor Herron is unwilling to make a change because of the possibility that after a long-term contract had been entered into changes might occur in the business situation which would make the city's bargain a bad one.

Mr. McNair does not approve of the one-year contract.

Similarly, Mr. Herron hesitates to advocate the taxing of the real estate of the public utilities, lest it interfere with the collection of the revenues that the State now derives from the utilities. Mr. McNair would tax the utilities' real estate just as other real estate is taxed.

Instances could be multiplied, from the replies to the questionnaire, showing Mayor Herron's viewpoint to be that of the cautious, conservative businessman, fearful of innovations, and Mr. McNair's to be that of the bold, thoughtful student of politics and economics, eager to extend the "new deal" to our municipal government, and not afraid to experiment.

Jobs for Millions

Revival of Private Building Would Go Far Towards Wiping Out Unemployment

Work for millions of people would be made possible through a revival of building construction.

It has been estimated that some six million workers are affected by prosperity or lack of prosperity in the building industry. Eighty-five cents out of every building dollar is eventually paid to labor.

Building construction employs thousands of skilled mechanics and laborers. Hundreds of mills and factories employing more thousands of workers must be operated to meet the demand for clay products, woods, metals, cement, paints, textiles, glass, stone and equipment essential to the modern building.

Transportation by rail, air, ship and automobile must be employed to move raw and fabricated materials. Every new building requires new furniture, carpets and rugs, hardware and lighting fixtures. To convert raw material into use for buildings requires tools, machinery and power.

Every building erected means work for architects, engineers, draftsmen and workers in the fields of finance and real estate.

When the amount of direct and indirect employment affected by building is fully realized, the importance of the building industry as an agency for providing jobs for workers is apparent.

Putting men to work is a national and fundamental problem. To quickly accomplish this desirable end it is essential that we concentrate on stimulating those industries which affect the greatest number of workers.

The textile industry excepted, building is responsible for the employment of more persons than any other single industry.

Building construction consumes a greater variety of materials produced throughout the United States than any other single industry. Building construction has a greater influence on the trend of general business than any other single industry. The building industry is a barometer that shows the upward and downward movement of all business. Private building construction is the major product of the industry, and therefore is of vast importance in our national economic welfare.

In addition to its public works program the Federal Government should stimulate PRIVATE building construction. The government should take such steps as may be necessary to remove the obstacles to building, unite forces, and stimulate construction.

To do so will permit employers of labor throughout the United States to put millions of workers back to work.

Happy Hunting Grounds

Pennsylvania Gunners Can Find Plenty of Sport Without Trespassing on Private Property

The hunting season opens in Pennsylvania tomorrow, and before it ends 600,000 gunners will have taken the field. Here are some things for them to think about:

Since the hunters' licenses were printed the Game Commission has made some changes in the open seasons and the bag limits for various kinds of game. Familiarize yourself with the regulations and obey them.

The 1,647,850 acres of the state forests, distributed over 35 counties, abound in game, and are open to hunters, as are also many other tracts of public land. It is unnecessary to trespass on private property.

As you walk through the woods pick up a few walnuts, and plant them in suitable places, to provide food for squirrels. (This suggestion comes from John M. Phillips, former chairman of the Game Commission.)

And again, most important of all: Be careful.

Make It Legal

Sunday Ball Games Should Be Authorized by the Voters In the Referendum Next Tuesday.

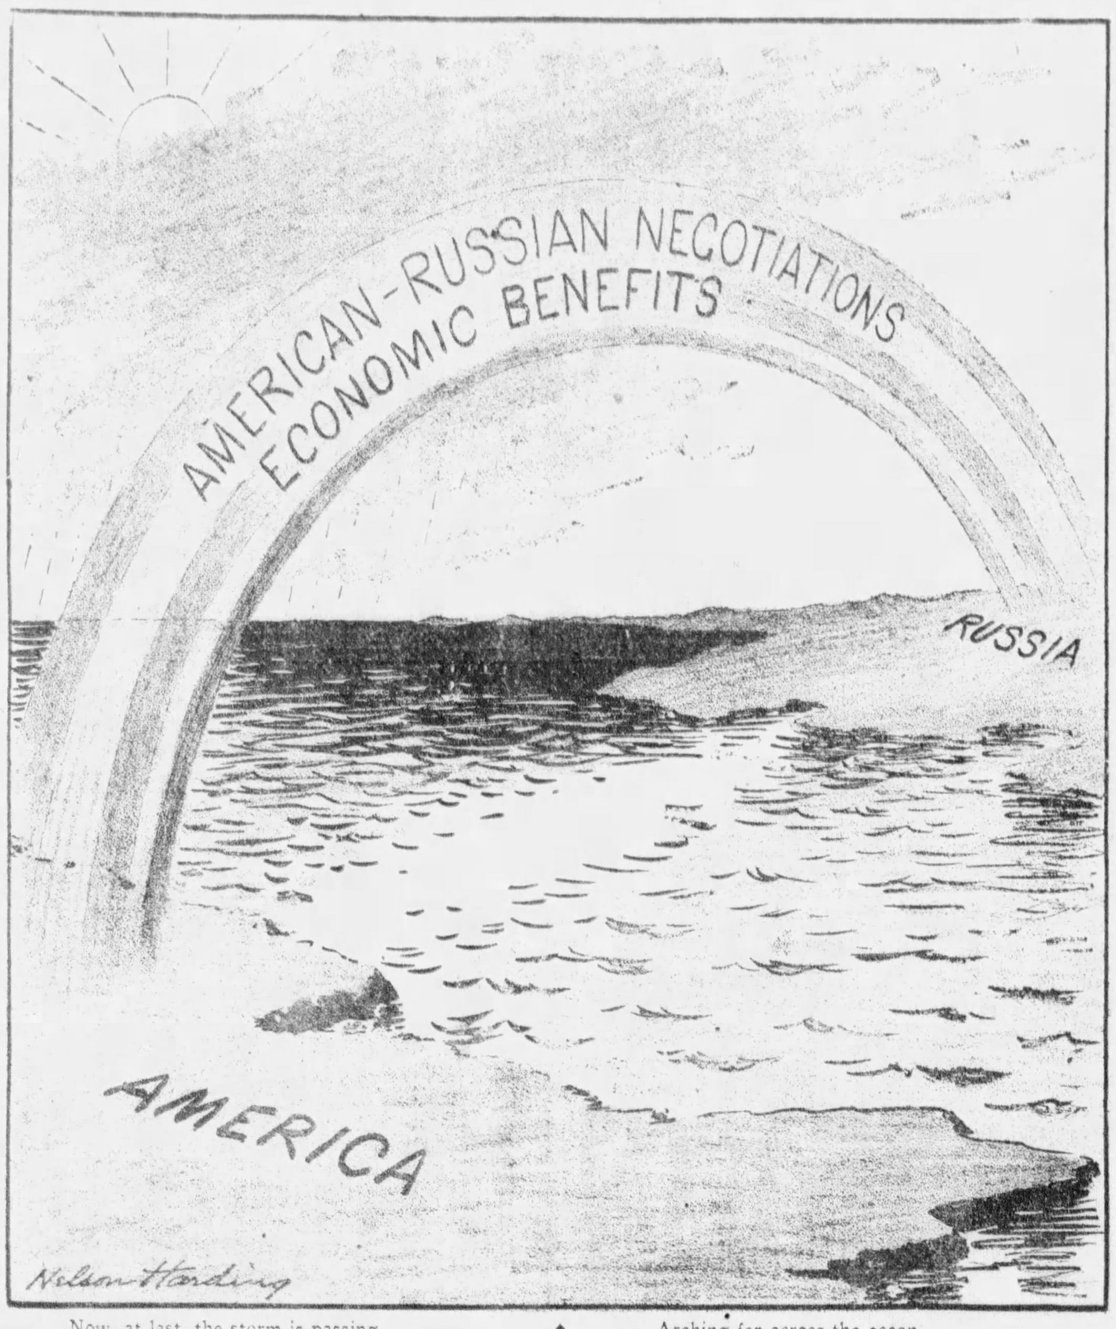
Public sentiment is so strongly opposed to the Blue Law and its ban on Sunday ball games that the police are no longer enforcing it. Scores of football games were played last Sunday without interference.

To retain on the statute books a superannuated law which, because of adverse public sentiment, cannot be enforced, is undesirable. It tends to bring the law in general into contempt.

Sunday ball games can and should be made legal by an affirmative vote in the referendum next Tuesday.

The Bow of Promise

By Nelson Harding



Now, at last, the storm is passing
And the dark cloud mass is breaking
While the sunbeams form a rainbow,
Make a shining bow of promise.

Arching far across the ocean,
Bridging gulfs between two neighbors,
Bright with promise for the future
Benefit of two great nations.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Broadway in the 50's becomes amazingly rejuvenated with the return of the prodigal Winter Garden to girl and music shows. For a number of years the famous old house with its gunway has been treated like the unwanted stepchild. Much of the time dark.

Now and then it would flaunt its block-long signs of this movie and the other. But the customers were few—and mostly out-of-towners. The real New Yorker was too saddened by the sacrilege. For in its day the Winter Garden, as jovially common as it was, was a high spot of the town.

Gaby Desleys, Delysia and many other European charmers were exploited there. As well as local sex appealers such as Kitty Gordon. Most conspicuous of all the Winter Garden alumni was Al Jolson. Here on his knee he first yammered his "Mammy" song. The Howard brothers won fame there.

The Winter Garden has real continental flavor. It was the first to permit general smoking, ladies included in all parts of the house. The Sunday night "concerts," also revived, brought the most all-Broadway gathering ever herded before or since.

No pianist since Paderewski has so captured music lovers of the town as Jose Iturbi. A movie-chick type with slumbering Valentino eyes, ivory skin, one enraptured lady critic wrote of "his velvet fingers dipped in stardust." Iturbi is a Valencian and his concerts are entirely from memory. Few matinee idols have brought out such a gathering of soulful sighing maidens.

De luxe speaks now serve $2.50 dinners that could not be purchased elsewhere for less than $5. That is if the patron goes to the bar first with a sizable party for a setting of cocktails. These are $1 a copy. And while the glow is in full effulgence the wine card is presented and few refuse to cut into the grape.

And her play-pretty is ordering at the bar from a huge chalked menu on a blackboard paraded behind the mahogany by a uniformed toter. By the time some of the diners retire from the bar to tables it is presumed they cannot see the fine print of the ordinary menu and are not likely to be running a fever over food anyway.

Perhaps the most celebrated of the restaurateurs since the George Rector days is George Lemaze who as a roaming bonface may be found on Palm Beach, Saratoga and Park Avenue with the season. Like Oliver at the Paris Ritz, he has that expert tableside touch, flutter of French phrases, a gusto for adding piquancy to the mixing of a salad dressing, ushering a steaming souffle or paying just the right sort of compliments to the ladies. He was a boyhood friend of George M. Cohan in Providence.

Voltaire, in a random snippet, once said: "The flourish of a maitre de hotel at the proper interval does more to excite gastric juices than the rarest seasoning." There used to be a head waiter at old Sherry's who would swoop in advance to clear the table aisles for the arrival of the meat dish. He would lift the silver lid tenderly and stand transfixed as though facing some master-piece fashioned by Michelangelo. Peoples with jaded appetites would find themselves suddenly wolfish.

Barney Ross is reputed to have gone to the most expensive tailor in New York two days after defending the lightweight crown with Canzoneri and stocked up his wardrobe. And this sartorial orgy is the way most champions celebrate their victories. In the John L. Sullivan days, however, they went on a bender for a week or so—winding up with a thumping headache and a new set of resolutions. Jack Demsey, who is now a heavy smoker, has always fought off a fondness for the weed. After his wins, he would wait 24 hours, enjoy a big steak dinner and a fierce black cigar. It was his idea of a big time.

Once the spotted black and white coach dog was a canine favorite in New York and a symbol of swank. About the only one left was trotting along the park side of upper Fifth avenue the other day. A companion of Earl Benham exclaimed: "Look a coach dog!" Replied Benham laconically: "Either that or a white pooch from Pittsburgh."

LISTEN, WORLD!

Letter to a Modern Wife

Dear Ellen:

So you're going to leave Bill! Yes, I know the story. Knew it even before I opened the letter—I've read so many thousands exactly like it!

Not much like the story you told me five years ago, when you were first married, is it? How young and enthusiastic you were then! No one would have dreamed you'd been supporting yourself for six years. And the husband a perfect paragon, with all the virtues, ancient and modern—to hear you tell it. I wondered if marriage wouldn't dim your illusions.

Now, here you come, telling me it has. As much out of love as you were then in love! Don't like him a bit, and don't care who knows it. He isn't at all what you thought he'd be—what you thought any man should be.

All right, let's review his faults. He's "cowardly," lazy and spineless, "without a bit of manly pride." All of which you "didn't discover until he lost his job, and then he seemed to go to pieces." Worst of all, he doesn't seem to worry at all at the fact that you're carrying the load.

So you're furious! The idea of a man letting a woman support him! And always whining. A big cry-baby loafer—that's what he is. You're determined to leave him. And don't I think you're right?

No, I don't! I think your reasoning is all messy and your sportsmanship rotten, Ellen! Stop ranting and being sorry for yourself, and do a little square thinking—you and all the millions of smart young wives who can dish it out so finely, but not take it.

IN THE FIRST PLACE WHOSE FAULT IS IT THAT YOU'RE WORKING? YOUR OWN.

Give up your job when married? Sacrifice all your fun and freedom and fine feathers and "smother in a stuffy little apartment"? Not you! You "had as much right to work as a man." So you worked.

That was all right. You had a perfect right to do so. But why peeve about it now? Why blame the man for what you elected to do yourself? If you have the rights of a man, you should be good enough sport to bear the responsibilities of a man.

THE TRUTH IS, YOU AND YOUR KIND WANT ALL THE PRIVILEGES OF 1933, AND ALL THE PEEVES OF 1833. YOU WANT TO LIVE LIKE A STURDY OAK, YET BE TREATED LIKE A CLINGING VINE. AND IT'S NO GO!

IF THIS IS A 50-50 WORLD, IT'S NO MORE SHOCKING FOR YOU TO SUPPORT HIM THAN IT IS FOR HIM TO SUPPORT YOU.

Nor is there anything abnormal or criminal about his other acts. He hasn't "wronged" you. You're wronging yourself and him by insisting that he conform to a cockeyed picture of what you think a Male should be—but which no male on earth ever was. Those romantic ideals of the Male Character went out with hoop-skirts and snuff boxes. We moderns know that there's no fundamental difference between men and women—that there's no sex in character.

Men aren't any braver than women. Women aren't any more sensitive than men. It's as natural for a man to be frightened and bewildered in the face of danger, and show it, as it is for a woman. It's no more shameful for a man to be lazy and discouraged than it is for a woman.

All of which you modern girls should know perfectly well, Ellen. Since you could toddle, you've lived on equality with men, gone to school with them, worked in offices beside them, competed in sports with them. You've had every chance to know men, exactly as they are.

YET THE MOMENT THINGS GET HARD, YOU CONVENIENTLY FORGET ALL THESE FACTS AND PULL THE "INJURED INNOCENCE" ACT!

Snap out of it, Ellen! You're not a martyr, and he's not a criminal. He's simply another distracted human being with reactions exactly like your own. You'd need love and faith and a little gaiety if your world had crumbled about you. He does, too.

Give yourselves, and love, a chance. Life's over so soon! Then it's too late to be sorry. If you're Regular—PROVE IT NOW!

Yours for Square Deals even if we are women, ELSIE.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Wedding Rings and Loving Cups

What's the use of individual drinking cups, so long as kisses are passed around as freely and carelessly as the old tin dipper and the old office roller-towel?

Men used to find a widow attractive because she was so much more poised and worldly-wise than a young girl; now they find her attractive because she is so refreshingly unsophisticated beside a debutante.

A quaint, old-fashioned woman is one who can remember the time when she regarded a wedding ring as a more glorious symbol of achievement than a loving cup.

Every new woman in a man's life is just "a relief" from the woman before. When a woman remarries she runs true to type—but when a man remarries he does it for a CHANGE.

When an attractive man celebrates his forty-seventh birthday, he should begin to watch his step. He will soon reach the Age of Innocence, when he can't be trusted with a fountain-pen any more than a baby can be trusted with the scissors.

A confirmed bachelor is a man who is determined to play hookey from the School of Experience, as long as he can dodge old Prexy, Fate.

* * *

The day of high-pressure salesmanship is past—even in love. You've got to use tact, diplomacy and sometimes chloroform, to make a modern man stand STILL long enough for you to get him headed for the altar.

* * *

Sometimes marriage turns a man into a diplomat—and sometimes it turns him into a doormat.

The Ghosts of London—The Old Woman Who Jumps From Blackfriars Bridge—Haunted Hyde Park

By Edwin C. Hill

"I SEEMED to move among a world of ghosts
And feel myself the shadow of a dream."

To London, more than any other city, these lines of Tennyson seem to apply. Queens and courtesans, kings and murderers—these are the ghosts of London, and Londoners will tell you that you can't explain them away by science and rational reasoning. It's a fascinating subject, to which Elliott O'Donnell has devoted a book published by E. P. Dutton. And there's a thrill in every one of his tales of London's old ghosts.

Probably the best known of all is the woman of Blackfriars Bridge. The spot has been pointed out to me time and time again. A mail carrier crossing the bridge very early one autumn morning noticed two people on it. One was a policeman, some little distance off. The other, only a few yards away from him, was a tall woman, apparently in mourning, dressed all in black. Suddenly the woman commenced climbing the wall of the bridge. Feeling sure that she was about to commit suicide, the mail carrier ran toward her. But he was too late. She leaped and disappeared.

Off came his coat, and he was about to jump into the river to try to save her when the policeman stepped up and stopped him.

"Put on your coat again," he said. "It is of no use your jumping in. What you saw was no living person: it was a ghost. If you had been here at this hour yesterday morning you would have seen the same thing, and in all probability it will happen tomorrow."

The postman thought the policeman was joking.

"Come here tomorrow morning and see for yourself," was the reply.

At the same hour the following morning he appeared again on the bridge. A tall woman, all in black (she was the very same woman, he could swear) ran to the side of the bridge as he approached and, climbing onto the parapet, jumped into the dark river.

Ghosts of The Serpentine

HYDE PARK is the locale of many fantastic stories, centering mostly around the Serpentine, favorite spot of Sunday promenades. There Harriet Westbrook Shelley, the unhappy wife of the poet Shelley, ended her life by drowning over 100 years ago. Rumor has it that her ghost haunts the Serpentine at night.

Years later, as the story goes, two ladies, taking a walk in the park, paused on the banks of the Serpentine and stood looking about them. It was a none-too-pleasant autumn afternoon. The wind was blowing from the east, and there were few people about. Suddenly one of the ladies, looking at the water just in front of them, exclaimed, "I wonder what is causing those ripples?" "A fish, of course," the other lady replied.

She had barely finished speaking when a hand appeared above the surface of the water. It was a white, slim hand, obviously a woman's, and the long fingers were clutching the air convulsively, like the fingers of a drowning person. On the middle finger was a plain gold ring, flashing in the waning daylight.

The two ladies stared at it in horror, too shocked to stir or utter a sound. After a minute, it slowly sank out of sight, a few ripples marking the spot where it had disappeared. "Whatever was that?" one lady gasped. "God alone knows," her friend replied, "but let us get away from here as fast as we can."

Tower of London Is Haunted

BUT IF tragedy is the most prolific source of ghosts, surely no place should be more haunted than the tower of London. And without being given to hallucinations, it would be easy for anyone to visualize the experience which fell to a certain Captain of the Guards. He was making his midnight rounds with a sentry when they came to the chapel and saw, to their amazement, that it was brilliantly lighted.

Knowing well that no service was scheduled at such a late hour, the captain fetched a ladder. He placed it against the chapel wall and, mounting, peered through a window. The whole interior of the chapel was illuminated with a strange, unearthly, bluish-white light, emanating seemingly from nowhere.

Coming down the center aisle was a procession of stately men and women, clad in the court costume of the time of Henry VIII. The men, for the most part, were extremely handsome, and the women strikingly beautiful. But at their head walked a lady more beautiful than any. Jewels sparkled in her hair and on her snow-white neck and arms, and the captain, who had but lately seen and admired a portrait of Anne Boleyn, instantly recognized in the leader of the procession that unhappy lady.

They advanced in absolute silence, with heads held erect and eyes that looked neither to the right nor left, but always straight ahead. Presently the light became concentrated on the leader of the procession and the captain marveled at the beauty of her slim white fingers, which flashed with jeweled rings.

The procession made a detour of the chapel by way of the side aisles, and then suddenly vanished, the light disappearing with it and leaving the interior of the chapel in utter darkness. It was then, and not until then, when he could no longer see the figures and marvel at their magnificence and beauty, that it came to the captain that the actors in the spectacle were not living human beings at all, but phantoms of the past and of a tragic story.

Panama Treaty Is Vital To U. S. Defense

By James T. Williams, Jr.

NEGOTIATIONS OF vital interest to the national defense of the United States are about to begin between the government at Washington and the government at Panama City.

European and Asiatic powers will watch the progress of these negotiations with greedy eyes because involved in these diplomatic exchanges is the right of the United States to defend the Panama Canal against European or Asiatic attack.

Congress will watch these negotiations with unceasing vigilance if the legislative branch of the government, and the Senate in particular, are loyal to their respective constitutional obligations.

Under the Constitution, it is the duty of the Congress "to provide for the common defense." That includes the Panama Canal.

Under the Constitution, the final control of foreign policy rests with the Senate, and no treaty becomes effective until the Senate by a two-thirds vote gives its advice and consent to ratification.

The initiative in negotiation is given by the Constitution to the President. The first President Roosevelt took the initiative when he negotiated with Panama the Treaty of 1903. It was signed in Washington on November 18 of that year and was ratified by Panama on December 2 of the same year.

'Most Unusual' Rights Granted

THIS TREATY is still in force. At the time it was negotiated, the people of Panama were as "a unit for the canal." Since then the canal has been built and fortified by the United States.

Under this treaty, Panama, in return for the building of the canal which has made possible the Panama Republic and is responsible for the liberty and happiness which the people of Panama enjoy in that republic, gave to the United States "most unusual rights."

These rights were essential to the building of the canal, to its successful operation and to its effective defense.

By this treaty Panama granted in perpetuity to the United States exclusive canal rights throughout its entire territory. Only the United States has the right to build a railroad or other means of communication between the two oceans on which Panama faces.

Panama and Colon pledged by this treaty to comply forever with whatever sanitary regulations the United States may require, and the United States has the right to enforce these regulations when Panama can not or will not enforce them.

The United States also has the right to restore order in Panama whenever in its judgment such action is necessary.

Panama also agreed by this treaty to permit the United States to acquire any property it may need for canal purposes in the cities of Panama and Colon.

President of Panama Is Hostile

MORE THAN once for powers have endeavored obtain from Panama rights would endanger American defe of the Canal Zone in one way another. Panama has no pow to grant any such concessions a the United States Senate is n likely to ratify any treaty that w repeal or weaken any of the ma provisions of the Treaty of 190

One of the most hostile criti of the United States in its effo to maintain all of its rights u der this treaty has been th present President of Panam Dr. Harmodio Arias. As a mem ber of the legislative branch the Panamanian government l led the fight which resulted the rejection of the Treaty 1926, which was designed to tak the place of the Treaty of 1903.

President Arias is on his wa home after a visit to Presidei Roosevelt. The conversations b tween the two presidents hav paved the way for the negotia tions of a new treaty. Th treaty, however, is doomed to de feat by the United States Sena unless it reinforces the Treaty o 1903 and gives the same protec tion to all the rights of the Unite States under that engagement.

Having built the Panam Canal, defended it and success fully operated it all these year it is unlikely that the people o the United States would permi any administration at Was ington, Democratic or Repub can, to weaken American co trol at the Isthmus as a goo will gesture either to Lat America or to the world.
